NEED FOR REFORM A CRYING ONE

BY JOHN CALLAN O'LAUGHLIN.
ARTICLE NO. 2.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Because of the manifest duty which the newspaper owes the public it would seem incumbent upon it to tell the truth as to its circulation as well as in its news columns. In other words, it should be clean through and through, for cleanliness inspires confidence, and from confidence come power and financial return.

It is a striking reflection upon some newspapers that congress deemed it necessary to insert in the postoffice appropriation law, approved Aug. 24, 1912, a provision requiring all daily publications to file semi-annually a sworn statement showing the average of the number of daily copies sold or distributed to paid subscribers during the preceding six months. Underlying this action was a purpose not to permit the further defrauding of advertisers and the people generally, who, after all, have to "pay the freight."

It was recognized by the authors of the law that the decent newspaper would welcome a condition of this kind. Its honesty and truthfulness constituted a positive detriment and even led to financial loss, for many advertisers accepted all circulation statements at their face value and did not seek to establish their correctness or falsity; and if they did they were hookwinked and deceived by the lying publisher and bunkoed into believing that what they were told and what was printed rested upon a solid foundation of fact.

Rules of Postoffice Fail.

Cursory investigation made by the members of the senate and house convinced them that while the postoffice department had stopped some abuses it had done nothing, so far as practical results are concerned, in bringing about cleaner circulation. This term included, of course, an absolutely accurate statement of the number of copies issued and sold.

Again, it was realized that congress in the meat inspection act had protected the people from such packers as sought to foist bad meats upon the people, and in the pure food act had ended innumerable schemes by which rogues had profited from the sale of impure foods, drinks, and drugs.

If the cry of interference with private business were ever justified it was justified in the case of these laws. Yet congress used its power under the interstate commerce clause of the constitution to make the enactments, and the Supreme court declared the policy established in accord with the spirit and letter of the fundamental document of the republic.

Papers Are Semi-Public.

Newspapers cannot be private institutions in the sense of the packers or manufacturers. They are semi-public in their character. The postal law declares they must be "originated and published for the dissemination of information of a public character, or devoted to literature, the sciences, arts, or some special industry," in order to secure the privileges of second class mail.

In other words, it is presupposed that they are honest in the presentation of their news and views and in their business relations with the people with whom they deal.

But experience has demonstrated that in some cases this presupposition is not well founded. The publisher who lies about his circulation places himself in the same category as the packer or the food or drug manufacturer who fattens on the sale of impure commodities. Indeed, he is more guilty from the moral point of view, for he not only swindles, but he commits perjury as well.

Decide to Demand Statement.

Satisfied as to the sordid character of the crime committed by "circulation liars," and of the failure or the inability of the postoffice department to forec them to be honest, congress determined to require by law that all newspapers should make a semi-annual circulation statement. To assure accuracy, the provision required that the statement should be made under oath and on forms supplied by the postoffice department.

In the same way, railroads are required to report to the interstate commerce commission and tax payers will be required to report to income tax collectors. It was not believed there would be newspapers which would dare to fool the government, though this has proved to be the case, and if they did, and it were established, there were several statutes containing penalities which could be invoked against them by a law enforcing administration.

Bill Adopted by House.

As the postoffice appropriation bill was adopted by the house it included a provision requiring the editor, publisher, business manager, or owner of every publication to file semi-annually a sworn statement setting forth the names of the editor and managing editor, publishers, business managers, and owners, and, in addition, those of bondholders and stockholders, if the publication by owned by a corporation.

The purpose of this provision was to disclose the real control and thus to acquaint the people with the inspiration of the policies advocated. The sentiment of the house generally approved this provision, only one member, Moore of Pennsylvania, opposing it, and he did so on the ground that it would "harass

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—Generally fair weather is predicted for the next few days in portions of the country east of the Rocky mountains and over the southern plateau region. Rains are expected in the southeastern states and probably snows in the middle Atlantic and New England states, the upper Ohio valley, and the lower lake region.

"A disturbance of moderate intensity, central Sunday morning over Louisiana, will advance northeastward and cause rains Monday in the southeastern states and cloudy weather and probably snows Monday and Tuesday in the middle Atlantic and New England states, the upper Ohio valley, and the lower lake region," the weekly weather bulletin says.

"With this exception the weather will be fair during the next several days in practically all parts of the country east of the Rocky mountains and over the southern plateau region.

"Abnormally low pressure over Alaska and the Aleutian islands will cause general rains during the week on the Pacific coast.

"The next disturbance of importance to cross the country will appear on the north Pacific coast Monday or Tuesday, attended by high winds and rains, and cross the great central valleys about Thursday and the eastern states Friday. This disturbance will cause local snows in the northern states.

"Another disturbance will reach the north Pacific coast about Thursday and prevail over the middle west near the end of the week. This disturbance will be attended by general rains and snows and be followed by decidedly colder weather."

CITE CITY NEEDS: UNIFIED BOARDS AND SHORT BALLOT

ENORMOUS WASTE ALLEGED

WOULD REDUCE ELECTIVE OFFICES

Chicago's greatest needs are unification of its local governments and a short ballot. —CHICAGO BUREAU OF PUBLIC EFFICIENCY.

BY OSCAR E. HEWITT.

The Bureau of Public Efficiency yesterday issued a report pleading for consolidation of local governments and for a reduction in the number of elective officials. It points out the divided authority and split responsibility and the consequent opportunities for "passing the buck."

The report shows vividly the lack of centralization of power and necessarily of cooperation between officials and uniformity of standards of service. It indicates the inconvenience and cost to the public of inequitable, unfair and otherwise objectionable tax levies.

Holds Record for Complexity.

Probably no other community in the world presents a more confusing complexity of local governments than does the territory comprising the city of Chicago.

The ballot presented to voters of Chicago at certain elections is larger than that used in any other community in the world, with one or two possible exceptions.

There are more heads of departments in Chicago than there are in the government of the United States.

The board of election commissioners is a governmental anomaly.

Nowhere in the county government is there any central coördinating official or body.

Multiplicity of local governments means duplication of governmental machinery, antiquated administrative methods, inefficient service, and enormous waste.

Multiplicity of elective officials means, in general, a mediocre class of public servants who are not responsive to public will.

Tax Overlapping Cited.

With the report are submitted a number of charts and diagrams intended to picture at a glance various phases of the overlapping taxing bodies and the bewilderment of the voter in trying to select men for the various offices.

In Cook county the clerk spreads 366 separate taxes. This, however, does not mean there are that number of taxing bodies, because several levies are made by the same body. The bureau says the number of tax levying bodies "does not exceed 300."

"There are nineteen distinct governing agencies," reads the report, "in the territory comprising Chicago—most of them absolutely independent of one another."

They are:

City of Chicago.
Board of education.
Library board.
Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium.
Cook county.
Sanitary district of Chicago.
South park commissioners.
West Chicago park commissioners.
Lincoln park commissioners.
Ridge avenue park commissioners.
North Shore park commissioners.
Calumet park commissioners.
Fernwood park commissioners.
Ridge Park commissioners.
Irving Park commissioners.
Northwest park commission rs.
Old Portage park commissioners.
Edison Park commissioners.

Condemn Old Town Government.

After discussing these various corporate bodies, the report continues:

"If account were taken of the seven towns lying wholly within the city of Chicago (Lake View, North Chicago, Jefferson, West Chicago, South Chicago, Hyde Park, and Lake), which still have legal existence, the number of governing bodies for the territory comprising the city would be twenty-six instead of nineteen.

"These old town governments serve no important purpose. They no longer have separately elected officials. The perfunctory legal duties which call for their continued existence are performed by the county clerk and county treasurer, who act as ex-officio town officers. The five towns which lie partly without and partly within the city (Evanston, Niles, Maine, Norwood Park, and Calumet) are also excluded from the count.

Some Other Exceptions

"Nor does the list of governing bodies in Chicago, reaching the formidable number of 19, include the proposed forest preserve district, the authorities of which are to acquire and administer outer park areas. Under the provisions of the statute passed by the legislature at its last session, this proposed forest preserve district, which is to have a separate tax levy, may be a separate governing authority with its own board of appointive officials.

"The general assembly of Illinois might

COMMITTEE OF 15 WIDENS VICE WAR

Local Councils Will Be Organized in Seeking 10,000 Members.

"JAIL FOR LEVEE KINGS."

New and widened methods of fighting vice have been adopted by the Committee of Fifteen.

Instead of the main organization prosecuting the entire work from its central office, the city will be dotted with perhaps 100 local councils. The locals will make investigations in their districts and then report to the central office, which will continue the center of action.

Under this broadened system the committee expects to reach higher efficiency in warring on vice "both inside and outside of the so-called segregated district."

Seek to Check Vice Spread.

Need for the extension of the operations is found by Superintendent Samuel P. Thrasher in the spread of disorderly houses and the opening of immoral flats outside of the old vice districts since the south side levee has been partly suppressed. The only effective way of combating the present situation, Mr. Thrasher says, is by having local councils to direct investigations and detective work in the outlying communities.

As the first step, Oakland Council No. 1 was formed yesterday at the South Congregational church as Drexel boulevard and Fortieth street. The Rev. Harry E. Peabody, the pastor, was one of the first ministers of Chicago to approve of the new scheme. Many other churches are expected to enlist.

Urge Jail for "Vice Kings."

"In two years we expect to have 100 councils in Chicago, with 10,000 members," Mr. Thrasher said in organizing the first council. "Then petitions with thousands of names will have force in the legislature in Springfield in passing laws for the imprisonment of vice kings and in cutting off their food.

"By mutual cooperation of the councils petitions can be sent to the mayor, the city council, and the legislature. Then the local council can appeal to the owners of property which is being used for immoral purposes. These owners are reluctant to have their neighbors know that they are parties to the promotion of vice, and local complaints might be more effective than our present centralized reports."

Shows Spread Over City.

Mr. Thrasher turned to a large map of Chicago covered with black spots and gold and silver stars. Within a red inclosure was represented the segregated district, dotted with black spots crowned with gold stars. There were more black spots outside of the inclosure than there were inside, showing, he said, that vice is spread over the city.

Since last May the Committee of Fifteen has been instrumental in closing more than 200 houses and correcting the disorderliness in hundreds of saloons, he said. The saloons that had felt the correcting power of the law were designated on the map by silver stars.

The superintendent told how the Committee of Fifteen had caused Lorraine Woods, a notorious woman, to move three times within a few weeks.

The records of the county hospital within twenty-seven months showed that 600 children under 12 years of age had passed through the venereal disease ward, according to Mr. Thrasher. Thousands of other hereditary victims had been unable to go to any hospital at all, he said. These facts, he said, point to "the duty of all citizens to clean up the vice system which politics created."

Quotes Bible Remedy.

The remedy for the vice king is found in the Bible, he said, quoting—

Break thou the arm of the wicked and evil man. Seek out his wickedness till thou find none.

The way to break the arms of the vice kings is through the local councils of the Committee of Fifteen, of which Clifford W. Barnes is president, Mr. Thrasher continued.

"Whether by honeyed words or by sharp sticks," he said, "men in offices should be made to enforce the laws.

"There is no way to meet organized viciousness except by organized righteousness. By organizing councils in different parts of the city the Committee of Fifteen will have the field practically at its fingers' ends."

The Committee of Fifteen, he announced, is financially able to pursue its attack upon commercialized vice. Within the week $12,500 had been collected, and the budget for the year has been placed at $28,000.

Mr. Thrasher concluded his address with the assertion:

"It is no part of the government's to provide conveyances such as a segregated district for people to go wrong."

Debate Segregation Issue.

Some of the members of the new council raised the question whether it were not better to keep a segregated district rather than to scatter the undesirable women into the residence sections. Dr. Jenkins Lloyd Jones then rose and said he was glad the undesirables had been chased into Kenwood, where people were better able to give their time and money in ridding themselves of the presence of these women than were the poor people of Twenty-second street, who had been forced to be near these women too long.

Oakland council, No. 1, will be governed by a board of five directors elected annually. To assure care in the selection of directors the members voted to choose a committee to consider the names of leaders. Besides Mr. Thrasher, Mrs. E. E. Smith of Lincoln center, Leslie J. Dodds, superintendent of the Sunday school in Oakland Methodist Episcopal church; Isaac Davis of the Baptist Memorial church, and Herbert K. Greenman of the First Presbyterian church were named on the committee. No member will be admitted without the approval of the board of directors.

KILLS KEYS; INSTALLS PHONES TO THWART ITS TELEGRAPHERS.

Springfield, Mo., Dec. 28.—In anticipation of the strike of 1,100 telegraphers employed on its lines, which in all probability will be called tomorrow, the St. Louis and San Francisco (Frisco) railroad tonight laid off indefinitely 400 telegraphers and began to transform its telegraph lines into a telephone system of railroad communication.

This action laid bare the company's plans for resisting the strike, to the amazement of the telegraphers, shippers, and railroad circles in general. Removal of all telegraphic instruments from the company's offices began at noon today and was completed late tonight.

It is said this is the first time such a transposition of the use of wires has been made by a railroad to avert a strike.

MORE BENEFITS FROM NEW X-RAY

TUNGSTEN THE SECRET?

New York, Dec. 28.—[Special.]—An invention that it is predicted will revolutionize the use and application of the X-ray was exhibited for the first time in public on Saturday night at a dinner given to William David Coolidge of Schenectady by Dr. L. G. Cole of this city.

Men versed in the science of the X-ray who witnessed the demonstration of the invention said it was the greatest advancement in the study of the rays since Roentgen.

Coolidge has been working in secret on the new ray for three years. He has perfected only two tubes, one of which he showed on Saturday night.

His method of manufacturing the ray differs from the old one and enables him to secure such efficiency in control and application that the greatest benefits to therapeutics are expected as soon as the technique of the ray is thoroughly understood.

Operators Can Control Power.

The Coolidge ray will not cheapen the cost of production any, but it will enable X-ray operators to control the power they wish to administer absolutely, whereas before it was impossible to gauge the amount that would be generated or to direct it.

In the old X-ray tubes the cathode and the anode, the terminals, were of different materials. Coolidge has discovererd that better results are had by the use of Tungsten throughout, and that ductile tungsten, likewise a recent discovery, is best for the work.

How Ray Is Generated.

The anode in the Coolidge tube is of heavy tungsten, while the cathode is of light tungsten, like the filament in a tungsten lamp. By exhausting all the gases in the tungsten the filaments are heated to incandescence and the ray is generated. In the new tube there is no fluorescence, whereas in the old this obstacle was met.

Streams of charged particles from the tungsten anode and cathode, which are heated in the vacuum, are driven by a powerful electric current and the ray is formed. It is more or less penetrating in proportion to the speed with which the particles are driven.

Prof. Scherer of the department of physics at Cornell university praised Coolidge's invention highly and said the discoverer was the first man to demonstrate that the theoretical ions, the smallest particles of matter conceived, could be harnessed and utilized for the production of radiant light.

The value of the new ray in the treatment of cancer and similar diseases is expected to be enormous, because of the certainty with which it can be controlled.

Big Ship Goes Ashore in Gulf of Papua —American Commissioners of Exposition Passengers.

BRISBANE, Australia, Dec. 28.—A dispatch from Thursday island says the Dutch liner Tasman, bound from Sydney, N. S. W., for Java, is ashore in a dangerous position in Bramble Cay, Gulf of Papua.

There are many passengers aboard the Tasman, including Mme. Nordica, the singer, and the American commissioners of the Panama-Pacific exposition, who have been visiting Australia.

The Tasman sent a wireless message to Thursday island telling of its peril. Steamships have left to give assistance.

CALUMET MOURNS AS 59 PANIC DEAD ARE LAID TO REST

CHANT HYMNS ON THE MARCH

SHAFT TO BE ERECTED YEAR HENCE

Calumet, Mich., Dec. 28.—The Western Federation of Miners buried its dead today. Fifty-nine bodies, including those of forty-four children, were carried through the streets, down a winding country highway, and laid in graves in a snow enshrouded cemetery within sight of Lake Superior.

Thousands of saddened miners formed the escort of the funeral parties and passed between other thousands who, as spectators, testified to the grief that has oppressed the community since seventy-two men, women, and children were killed in the Christmas eve panic in Italian hall.

Services Early in Day.

In half a dozen churches services were held earlier in the day, and the mourners went about the streets, passing from their homes to the churches, back to their homes after brief respites, and again to the churches to prepare for the last sad trip to the graveside.

Delegations of strikers began coming into Calumet early in the day. The special train of nine coaches brought hundreds of federationists from the iron mines of Negaunee and Ishpeming, and every town and mining location in the copper country sent members and friends of the union to swell the ranks of the marchers in the afternoon.

By noon the union host was assembled. Five months of experience in demonstrating their number by parading had taught the men to form ranks quickly and with little delay they lined up four abreast.

Supply of Hearses Short.

The supply of hearses was inadequate and there were only fourteen of these vehicles in the van. Then came three undertakers' wagons and an automobile truck, the latter carrying three coffins. These vehicles contained the adult victims and the older children. Beside one marched eight women, who acted as pallbearers for a member of the women's auxiliary of the Western Federation.

It was this women's organization which was distributing gifts of candy, shoes, caps, and mittens to the children of strikers when the panic started.

Carry Dead Kiddies to Cemetery.

Behind the hearses was a section of the procession which brought tears and sobs from onlookers. Thirty-nine white coffins, their size testifying to the short life of the little forms within, were carried by relays of strikers. Four men bore each coffin, and as their arms grew weary or their feet stumbled on the slippery roadway companions relieved them of their burden.

Persons drawn to Calumet solely by curiosity became mourners as this contingent passed them. Men turned away to brush tears from their cheeks. Women, especially the mothers in the crowd, sobbed openly, and dozens, unable to endure the sight, rushed from the streets, taking refuge in homes whose Yuletide had not been directly saddened by death. Others, too, were in evidence among the toil hardened men who carried the coffins. They bore the bodies of their companions' children, and many a rough sleeve was brushed hurriedly across downturned faces, the eyes of which were concealed by peaked caps drawn far forward.

Fifty Singers Chant Hymns.

Fifty singers chanted hymns in the wake of the children's carriers. Most of these men were English miners, who had learned in Cornwall to chant Christmas carols in the streets and years ago brought this old custom to the copper country.

Today, however, they didn't sing songs of a life new born; "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," "Rock of Ages," and "Nearer, My God, to Thee," came from throats thick with emotion, but the harmonies were full and rich.

As the singers turned into Pine street, which leads to the cemetery road, the open ranks of marchers wheeled into line. Ishpeming and Negaunee men came first, followed by a brass band and the members of the copper country locals.

Procession Two Miles Long.

The last marcher had scarcely started from Calumet before the head of the procession had reached the cemetery gates, two miles away. All but half a dozen of the burials were in common graves dug yesterday by members of the union. The ground belongs to the federation, and it was stated that a monument would be erected there, the formal dedication to take place a year hence.

The cemetery is in two sections; one is consecrated to the dead of the Roman Catholic faith, the other to those belonging to Protestant denominations. In the former three trenches had been excavated and in these twenty-five bodies were laid.

On the Protestant side of the burial place two large graves received twenty-eight bodies. The other six were laid in family plots.

Only Brief Addresses Made.

Only brief address were delivered in the cemetery. Eugene A. McNally, a local attorney, eulogized the dead in English, and George Strezich of St. Louis, Frank Aaltonen of Negaunee, and other federation leaders delivered addresses in Austrian, Finnish, and Croatian.

Nine of those who were killed have not yet been buried. Four funerals were held yesterday.

The coroner's inquest into the circumstances of the tragedy is to convene tomorrow.

Will Ask Grand Jury Action.

Hancock, Mich., Dec. 28.—Immediate grand jury inquiries into the deportation of Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, will be sought by the federation.

O. N. Hilton of Denver, chief of counsel for the organization, arrived today and at once went into consultation with the local leaders who have been gathering evidence as to the identity of the men who escorted the federation executive to a Chicago bound train Friday night.

Mr. Hilton said he came here at the request of Mr. Moyer, having left Chicago immediately after visiting the latter there.

Praise Deporters of Moyer.

The action of the men who deported Moyer was indorsed by employés of the Copper Range Consolidated mines today. Meetings of these men were held at Tri-Mountain, Baltic, and Painesdale to adopt resolutions of sympathy with families bereaved by the Calumet disaster of Christmas eve.

In addition to this, the meetings condemned the refusal of federation men to accept relief offered by the citizens' committee.

No Light on Moyer Ousting.

Big Rapids, Mich., Dec. 28.—Gov. Ferris today received a long telegram from Sheriff Cruse at Calumet. According to that official, his investigations so far have failed to show General Manager MacNaughton had any part in the deportation from Calumet of President Moyer.

MARTINE DEMANDS INQUIRY.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—A special investigation by the department of justice of conditions in the copper mine strike area in Michigan was called for in a letter which Senator Martine of New Jersey wrote today to Attorney General McReynolds. Senator Martine in his letter lays especial emphasis on the reports that Charles H. Moyer "was forcibly abducted and that the abduction was instigated and paid for by the mine owners or their representatives."

Senator Martine has been inquiring into the charges of lawlessness in that region and has conferred with Senator Kern and other members of the senate and house.

HUNDREDS SLEEP OUTDOORS.

Municipal Lodging House, Annex, and Police Stations Jammed with Out of Works.

With the last available space of the municipal lodging house and annex filled last night to overflowing, a line of 150 men marched to the Desplaines street police station and begged for a place to sleep. They were stowed away, five in each narrow cell, until the station was filled. Then the others were directed to the Maxwell street station. Long before midnight that, too, was full of men who cannot find work. The police say there were several hundred more in the vicinity who had to sleep in areaways and hallways.

So warmly did William Bates of 5624 Lowe avenue plead his case that his fiancée, Clara Foster of the same address, intrusted her $550 to his care and sat down to wait for him to come back for the marriage ceremony Saturday night. He did not return. Yesterday she notified the police, who are now hunting for the missing bridegroom.

CZAR'S HEIR IN POOR SHAPE.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Dec. 29. 3 a. m.—The Daily Mail prints a dispatch from its correspondent at St. Petersburg to the effect that it is learned from a trustworthy source that the health of the czarevitch is again causing anxiety to the czar and czarina. The heir to the throne is believed to have overexerted himself and is suffering from effusion of blood.

CHARGES PANIC RESULT OF PLOT

DEPUTIES ARE ACCUSED.

Blocked Rescue Efforts at Calumet, and One Wrung Girl's Neck, It Is Alleged.

The panic in Italian hall in Calumet, Mich., where seventy-two persons, most of them children, were killed on Christmas eve, was not an accident but a carefully devised plot, according to an affidavit printed in the Finnish paper of Hancock, Mich., the Tyomies, and read yesterday at a massmeeting of the Chicago Federation of Labor in Musicians' hall.

Before the affidavit was read it was announced by Charles H. Tanner that Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, who was shot, beaten, and deported from Calumet, was not seriously wounded. Physicians probably will perform an operation today and probe for the bullet. Meantime a blood test is being made every hour to detect possible blood poison.

Affidavit Charges Plot.

A short, thick set man in a lumber jacket handed the affidavit to President Fitzpatrick It was read by S. P. Straube. The man in the lumber jacket disappeared after the meeting.

The affidavit had been made by investigators, who had talked to survivors of the panic, according to the document read, and charged that a largely built man, well clothed and with a sealskin hat pulled down over his eyes, was the man who rushed into the hall and cried "fire." The description of what followed included these allegations:

Something was dropped or pushed in the way of those scrambling to get out.

Two men started to pull several of the children out of the pile of struggling and crushed humanity at the foot of the stairs. Deputy sheriffs drove away the rescuers. The deputies made no effort to do any rescue work themselves, but stood by and watched the terrible pile increase.

The pile was so thick that one man died standing up. The man next to him had his face burned by the dead man's lighted cigar. Many of the dead were not trampled but simply suffocated.

The deputies allowed women and children to join the ever increasing pile, and clubbed a man who tried to cry out that there was no fire.

A group of deputies and those in charge of the situation in Calumet stood on the sidewalk and laughed and waved their hands.

Editors of Paper Arrested.

The managing editor and twelve others of the newspaper staff were arrested and held without bonds, according to the document, and warrants were sworn out for everybody else connected with the paper.

The affidavit was in line with stories told by officials of the Western Federation of Miners who spoke at the meeting. One of them—Yanco Terzich of the executive board—told of the conditions the miners had to put up with. He cited long hours, the unventilated mines where the copper fumes eat out their entrails more effectively than any acid; the low wages; the tyrannical conditions in the Calumet and Hecla mining district, where "every inch of ground, the schools, the churches, the ministers, the stores are owned by the mine owners."

He described the coming of the militia sent by Gov. Ferris, "the workingman's friend"—sent without investigation of conditions; the thugs and criminals who were recruited into it; the shooting of men and women, the riding down of children under the hoofs of the cavalry, and the final "coup" in the Italian hall panic.

Congress Asked to Act.

A resolution was drawn up and unanimously adopted reciting that "the assembled citizens of the United States appeal, as a last resort, to the congress of the United States to investigate conditions in the copper country of Michigan to the end that the people of this country may know the truth and that all citizens may be protected in their rights guaranteed by the constitution."

President Fitzpatrick ordered every one in the room to arise and bow his head for a moment in memory of "what happened in Calumet," and a collection was taken up for the relief of stricken fathers and mothers.

Tanner Tells His Story.

Charles H. Tanner made an impressive talk. He did not raise his voice nor wave his arms, but told his tale simply, without emphasis, with an occasional sarcastic smile and an allusion to his blackened left eye.

"The hall was full of little children," he said. "It was not big enough to hold them all, so they came and went between the hours of 2 and 4 o'clock. They were given caps, gloves, little coats, meager gifts, donated, most of them, and necessary.

"There is no doubt in my mind that to hurt the feelings of the miners and to discourage them in their fight, the Citizens' alliance sought to make the day a black Christmas for the little ones—sought to get them from the hall.

"I can produce witnesses who saw a Citizens' alliance button on the man who entered the hall and hollored 'Fire!'." He retold the story of the attack on Moyer.

Barratt O'Hara Speaks.

Barratt O'Hara, lieutenant governor of Illinois, was called upon to speak. He said he had not come to talk, but to join in the protest against conditions in the upper peninsula of Michigan.

"Those men," he said, "fired a bullet not into the back of Moyer, but into the back of the American workingman. I was born in Michigan. I love it as my native state. Yet I blush for it—the Russia of the United States—the last resting place of the army of special privilege.

Suggests Investigation Trip.

Attorney Frank Comerford was another speaker.

"I believe the men who know the law and others fitted for the service should go up there to Calumet, Mich.," he said, "and make an investigation and start a prosecution against every man who imported thugs to attack American citizens and who are directly or indirectly concerned in the Italia hall affair.

"I for one am willing to volunteer my services for this purpose. If the sheriff of Houghton county has imported these thugs and criminals and clothed them in the badges of authority I am for bringing the case to the governor, to the congress of the United States if necessary."

Other speakers were Yanco Terzich of the Western Federation of Miners, Emmet Flood, organizer, and John H. Walker, president of the Illinois State Federation of Labor.

LABOR ACTION ON MOYER.

DENVER, Colo.—A joint meeting of the national officers present in Denver of the United Mine Workers of America, Western Federation of Miners, and the Colorado State Federation of Labor will present resolutions condemning the action of persons in Calumet for the deportation and beating of Charles H. Moyer. The resolutions will be forwarded to congress urging an investigation of the strike conditions both in Michigan and Colorado.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill.—Bloomington trade unionists at a massmeeting adopted resolutions denouncing the attack on President Moyer at Calumet.

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—The Central Trades and Labor union has sent a request to President Wilson asking for a federal investigation of the conditions at Calumet.

Missing Banker May Be Suicide.

JOHN EVARTS

Aurora, Ill., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Failure of John Evarts, missing president of the Plainfield bank, to communicate with his aged mother has caused his friends and former business associates to fear he has committed suicide. A rumor spread today that his body was found, but was denied by William McCloster, his closest friend in Plainfield. Mrs. Evarts said she had not heard from her son. She is almost prostrated. McCloster says Evarts' liabilities will total about $100,000 and depositors will not be paid more than ten cents on the dollar.

IRISH DRAMATIST PRAISES YANKEES

NO HURRY IN NEW YORK.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Dec. 29, 3 a. m.—Canon Hannay, the Irish clergyman-playwright, who was in the United States recently for the production of his comedy, "General John Regan," has an article in the Daily Mail this morning, in which he good-naturedly unmasks the fiction that New York is a city of rush and hustle.

Canon Hannay says he went to New York in the expectation of finding a rush compared with which the hurry of Londoners would be a dignified calm, but that he found only a "city of spacious leisure."

Talking of the New York restaurants, he says that "only people with lots of leisure would eat in such a fashion."

Business Men Hospitable.

The American business man instead of, as in England, expecting his visitors to leave his office when the business which has taken them there is transacted, "shows you around the premises," the canon says, "takes you somewhere to lunch, and presses you to stay and explain the Irish question."

He ascribes this to the fact that the American is much more hospitable and social than the Englishman. The clergyman adds that this may be ascribed also to the American's contempt for time.

"The only person who ever hustles in New York," he goes on, "is the stranger who has not adapted himself to American ways. Americans are habitually and quite cheerfully late for everything and are never fussed by this.

American Philosophy of Life.

"They are sustained in that attitude by the conviction that their days are passed at high pressure. This is part of the American philosophy of life. The American realizes that man is superior to the clock.

"This is a piece of the greatness of the American nation. The American has asserted himself against the clock and has mastered the vile thing. He now goes through the world a free man, unhustled by the great impostor, time."

Cannon Hannay states this explains why the Irish get on so well in New York, because their view of time is the same as that of the American.

VILLA TO SPURN COMPROMISE

Rebel Says Huerta Must Be Banished Before Peace Comes.

GIVES OUT HIS DEMANDS.

Effort Will Be Made to Continue Advance Upon Capital.

Chihuahua, Mexico, Dec. 28.—"Nothing except the fall of Huerta and his banishment from the country will be considered as a preliminary toward peace in Mexico," Gen. Francisco Villa said today. "Any overtures for a compromise would be treated with contempt by the revolutionists."

Gen. Villa was prompted to discuss the subject because of the repetition of a report from Mexico City that Gen. Huerta might resign in favor of a member of his cabinet. As the report also stated that Gen. Huerta was thinking of taking the field against the rebels, it was not considered in any way as a possible peace move. The subject of peace, however, came up in Gen. Villa's counsels and the rebel leader was moved to outline the rebels' views in case future events brought them to consideration.

Terms Demanded by Rebels.

In substance the terms demanded by the rebels are:

The complete surrender to the constitutionalist cause of politicians now opposing it.

Guarantee of a change in the land laws so that deeds to land would be more generally distributed.

Will Keep Up Fighting.

Opinions of Gen. Villa's advisers were that Gen. Huerta will not resign and that the rebels must adhere to their original plan of fighting their way to Mexico City.

"Our cause has progressed to such a point that we would treat any suggestions of a compromise with contempt," said Gen. Villa.

MEN WHO DUEL IN HUNGARY HELD INELIGIBLE TO ENTER U. S.

New York, Dec. 28.—Engaging in a duel in Hungary makes a citizen of that country ineligible for admission to the United States, according to the decision of a federal board of special inquiry at Ellis island today in the case of Emil Zerkowitz, a passenger on the steamer Campania.

A quarrel by mail between Zerkowitz, who is a banker of Budapest, and a man named Julius Piernitzer resulted, according to testimony before the board, in a combat at Budapest, where the men are alleged to have satisfied their honor by firing a shot apiece at each other. Neither was struck.

The board ordered Zerkowitz's deportation, holding that duelling in his country is a felony. He appealed to the immigration officials in Washington, pending whose decision he will be detained at Ellis island.

TYPOS TURN FIRE ON SEX HYGIENE

Printers' Union Plans Committee to Watch Board of Education.

CONDEMN SCHOOL FADS.

"Common Sense" in Teaching Urged by Backers of John C. Harding.

Resolutions protesting against sex hygiene lectures in the public schools and recommending the appointment of a "vigilance" committee of 100 to watch the board of education and "purge the public schools of fads and follies," were adopted yesterday by the Chicago Typographical Union No. 16, meeting in Bricklayers' hall at Monroe and Peoria streets.

A vote of thanks was given to John C. Harding, organizer of the union, and "ousted" member of the school board, for his work as a board member. The union upholds his position in the controversy over the election of superintendent.

Ask Abandonment of Sex Talks.

The resolution on sex lectures read:

Pursuant to the recommendation of Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, then superintendent of schools, the board of education, on July 9, 1913, authorized lectures on the subject of "Personal Purity," commonly known as "sex hygiene," to be given to the pupils in the high schools of our city.

The lectures already given have brought forth strong protests from the parents of children, even though they were given under the direct control and supervision of Mrs. Young. The government of the United States has forbidden the transmission of part of these lectures through the mails.

The teaching of "sex hygiene" does not fall within the scope of the common school education as provided by the laws of the state of Illinois. These teachings and lectures are an unwarranted interference with the rights and prerogatives of the parents of the school children.

Resolved, by Chicago Typographical union No. 16, representing more than 20,000 men, women, and children, that we demand of the board of education that the teaching of "sex hygiene," by lecture or otherwise, be abandoned, and the superintendent of schools directed to discontinue all further work along that line.

Oppose Fads and Follies.

Following speeches by Mr. Harding and A. B. Adair, appealing for the return of instruction in the "Three Rs" in the schools, this resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That the president of Chicago Typographical union No. 16 be instructed to appoint a vigilance committee of 100 for the purpose of keeping close watch on the board of education and taking such steps as may be necessary to purge the public schools of the fads and follies with which they are afflicted; to insist upon and urge the teaching of a good common school education as provided for by the laws of the state; and to protect and promote and urge all other citizens of Chicago to protect and promote the rights and interests of the citizens, teachers, and school children of Chicago.

Denounces Mrs. Young's Re-election.

John J. Sonsteby at night denounced the election of Mrs. Ella Flagg Young as superintendent of schools as "anarchy and illegal, and would not stand before any court of justice." He spoke at the Broadway Methodist Episcopal church, at Broadway and Buckingham place.

"If the members of the board voted as they actually desired," he said, "Mrs. Young would not have received more than one vote. Political wire pulling on the part of the mayor in the election of a school superintendent will have to stop when we have the decision of the courts making it illegal for any mayor to accept the resignation of an appointee before the appointee takes office."

Mrs. Young Busy.

Mrs. Young labored during the afternoon in her apartments in the Hotel La Salle on some school matters which she will present today to the school management committee, which meets at 4 p. m.

Colin C. H. Fyffe, attorney for the four "ousted" trustees, is expected today to ask State's Attorney Hoyne to grant the right to institute quo warranto proceedings.

WOMAN MAKES TWO EFFORTS TO END LIFE IN TWO DAYS.

Neighbors Take Her from Gas Filled Room and Within 24 Hours She Tries to Shoot Herself.

Mrs. Frank K. Oldfield of 4631 Waldon avenue last night made a second effort in two days to take her life when she shot herself over the heart with her husband's revolver. Neighbors detected gas fumes coming from the Oldfield home on Saturday and discovered Mrs. Oldfield in an unconscious condition in her bedroom, where she had turned on three gas jets. She was revived by a physician.

When her husband responded to a ring of the door bell last night Mrs. Oldfield is said to have taken his revolver from the bureau drawer. She shot herself. She was removed at once to the Lake View hospital. It is said she has small chance of recovery.

Mr. Oldfield, who is manager of the Universal Pneumatic Transmitter company at 145 East Ohio street, said his wife had been ill for about ten years.

BOY'S STORY RESULTS IN RAID

Officers Invited to Come In as They Pass "Hotel."

A 14 year old Englewood boy confessed to his Sunday school teacher yesterday that he had purchased six drinks of intoxicating liquor the night before in a south side levee saloon. He also admitted that with a 16 year old companion he had frequented two disorderly houses in the same district. The teacher was John H. Lyle of the Englewood Law and Order league.

Both of the houses were raided last night by four detectives from the Twenty-second street station under the direction of Mr. Lyle and the boy himself. A warrant will be sworn out today for James La Greca, who conducts a saloon at 9 East Eighteenth street, charging him with selling drinks to minors.

"Englewood has an interest in closing the levee district. Our boys come here and we want to prevent them," Mr. Lyle told the police.

Takes Detectives Along.

Capt. Ryan gave him four detective sergeants, Carlan, Cleary, O'Conner, and Zahour. The boy was sent ahead into a fifteen room flat at 1834 South State street, where he was known, and the detectives followed. Four women and two men were taken to the station. Della Seals was booked as the keeper.

The same operation was repeated at a saloon at 1808 South State street, the rear of which is occupied by women. Mr. Lyle and a reporter had earlier in the evening investigated the place and found that the second and third floors, connected directly with the rear room of the saloon, served as the "hotel." When the detectives entered they found the boy seated at a table with a woman. The bartender had sold him a bottle of beer.

Find Women Upstairs.

Upstairs the detectives found Annie Smith, a negress, who was the keeper, and in a closet on the third floor two white women and a man. Eight women and the man were taken to the police station.

Two negro women at 1815 South Dearborn street shouted "come on in boys" while the detectives were on their way into the station. Five minutes later they were being dragged from under beds and tables.

The boy was turned over to Mr. Lyle by Judge Pinckney.

MANY FURNISHED WORK.

Employers Pick Men from Waiting Crowd of Destitute.

Woe and want were dispelled by satisfaction and Christmas cheer for 12,000 persons who partook of the annual Christmas dinner provided yesterday by the Volunteers of America at the First Regiment armory.

Men, women, and children joined the waiting line at 7 o'clock in the morning. Many wore ragged clothing and shivered in the cold breeze that swept around the armory on the Sixteenth street side. It was 10 o'clock before the doors were opened, and the line extended from the front of the armory on Michigan avenue to the corner of Sixteenth street, back to the alley in the rear of the armory, and north in the alley for the entire block.

Men Join in Hymn.

The first meal was served at 11 o'clock. Gen. Fielding stood on a chair and requested the men to stand and join in a hymn of praise to the Christ whose birthday they were honoring. There were 600 lined up at the tables, and as some of them joined in a song for the first time in years tears coursed down their cheeks.

Some of those who waited in line for the free dinners were neatly dressed. When questioned they said they had recently been thrown out of work and had been unable to find new jobs.

Several Given Work.

Occasionally a man would come along and pick out a man from the line and offer him a job. In the afternoon a man picked out ten men at one time to go to work on the débris left by the fire Saturday night in Washington street. These men left to go to work, although they had had nothing to eat all day and had stood in line for a dinner for hours.

Girls from St. Paul's Episcopal and other churches assisted in waiting on the diners, of whom 8,000 were men. Every person was given his fill. No one was permitted to leave hungry. Baskets with provisions for five were given away to 1,000 applicants.

Insane Patient Runaway.

Police last night were asked to search for Hyman Pawlinsky, a 70 year old inmate of the Chicago State hospital, who escaped.

SAYS HE SAVED MEXICAN GIRL

Mine Owner, on $5,000 Bond, Denies Mann Act Charge.

BANDITS KILLED FATHER.

Maid Asserts Rescuer Prevented Her Death.

Angry denial of a charge of violation of the Mann act came yesterday from Donald Scott, a mine owner, and Miss Laura Leon, a Mexican girl, who fled with him from troubled Mexico. Both were arrested in the residence of Scott's mother at 490 East Forty-eighth street, on complaint of Scott's wife of 4629 Broadway.

"O, that is not so," the girl said. "Señor Scott saved my life by helping me out of Mexico, after my father had been killed by the rebels. My father's hacienda, near Topia, in the province of Durango, is overrun with bandits. They killed my father. My father was a member of the Social Defencia with other big land owners, who want to protect their property. Because of his prominence in the fight and because I am his daughter they would have killed me but for Señor Scott."

That also is the way Scott tells the story. He says his wife left him because his mining interests forced him to live in Mexico until the country became too warm for him. He says the girl has been in his mother's care since arriving in Chicago.

"My wife left me in Mexico," Scott said when arraigned before United States Commissioner Lewis Mason and released on $5,000 bond. "She said she was coming here to get a divorce and I thought she had. I have been supporting her liberally all of the time. I have learned since that she obtained a decree of separate maintenance in October."

MILITIA BALL FUNDS GONE.

Capt. Course of Battery B Has Ticket Seller Arrested When $175 Is Missing.

Charging profits of the ball of battery B, I. N. G., had been reduced by $175, Capt. F. M. Course yesterday had John N. Stewart of 2528 North Campbell avenue arrested for embezzlement. He says Stewart was selling tickets for the affair to be held on Feb. 19 at Arcadia hall and appropriated the money for his own use.

LEAPS TO DEATH TO AID SCIENCE

MASONIC TEMPLE SCENE.

Bequeathing his body to surgery, that dissection might indicate why his life had been directed toward crime, John Kowinski, better known as Kelter, of 1053 Washington boulevard, yesterday leaped from the eighteenth floor of the Masonic temple and was crushed to death on the "safety screen" nine floors below.

His object appears to have been missed, for the body was so crushed its use for dissection is undesirable, surgeons stated. The steel safety screen demonstrated its utility for saving persons at the foot of the rotunda, but proved a failure as a suicide preventive.

Writes Will Before Leap.

Kelter remarked as he left his house that he would not come back. He went to the Masonic temple, taking an elevator to the eighteenth floor, just under the uppermost screen, and sat down to write his extraordinary will. He apparently made several attempts, for several sheets of paper bore evidence of an unsatisfactory start. Also he set 11:15 as the time set for the jump, then changed it to 1:15, owing to the time he required for writing his farewell.

Fred Paschen, one of the building attendants, saw Kelter balanced on the rail looking downward. He ran down the corridor shouting. Kelter saw him and without a word leaped just as Paschen made a despairing grab for the suicide's nearest foot. The janitor peered over the rail, saw Kelter turn in the air, and then strike. Horror struck, he ran to an elevator, shot to the ground, and called the police.

Three Colleges Made Heirs.

The American College of Surgeons, Rush Medical college and the Jenner Medical college are the heirs of Kelter's will. They are asked to dissect the body "in order that it may be discovered how such types as he were produced by heredity or environment, or a combination of both—trying to aid in alleviating others from their suffering."

The strange will confessed to twenty-six months in prison and unwillingness to prolong life by robbery, which Kelter termed his profession.

The letter explained a communication had already been sent to Dr. G. Frank Lydston, asking his special attention to the dissection and going into further detail of a "life confession." He showed no great regret about leaving life and persistently referred to a hope that study of the malformation of his brain might teach the surgeons how others in his plight might be treated to save them from following criminal instincts.

"His was a strange career," the letter says, "being born almost a stranger into the world. He could not adapt himself to the environment that was given him by society. His condition has caused many a mental strain and intellectual misery by brooding over the problems of existence in general."

Kelter's most intimate friend, a man named Allen, committed suicide a short time ago by jumping into the Chicago river. Both he and Kelter were Socialists.

Kelter's death leap was the eighth in the Masonic temple.

SHOOTING EMPTIES HULL HOUSE

Residents Rush Out and Find Wounded Man, Who Refuses to Name Assailant.

Residents of Hull house hurried into the street last night when they heard three shots and a man's screams. They found Tony Martell of 735 Sebor street lying in the adjoining alley, wounded probably fatally. Martell admitted he knew the man who shot him but refused to tell more on his way to the county hospital. The police arrested his brother Philip, who refused to talk.

CLEMINSON TO AID LEPERS?

Parents Appeal to Pardon Board to Free Physician.

HAS WOMAN'S AFFIDAVIT.

Says She Was with Doctor at Time Wife Was Slain.

If the state board of pardons and Gov. Dunne grant a commutation of the life sentence of Dr. Haldane Cleminson, convicted four years ago of wife murder, he will go to the leper colony in the Philippines or elsewhere to "exercise his exceptional capabilities and medical knowledge in the service of his fellow beings."

This is the pledge made by Attorney James E. Callahan, retained by Cleminson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Isaiah Cleminson. It will constitute one of the conditions, he announced, when he takes the case before the state board. The doctor is in the Joliet penitentiary.

Plead He Was Innocent.

Evidence in the form of affidavits will be introduced to carry out the contention that Dr. Cleminson did not arrive at his residence at 4188 Wayne avenue until after 5 o'clock on the morning of May 30, 1909, when the body of his wife was found; that the condition of the body proved Mrs. Cleminson had been dead at least six hours prior to that time; and that Mrs. Cleminson's death was the result of suicide by chloroform or of heart failure.

The chief evidence is given by a Mrs. Anna Schmidt, since remarried, whose affidavit affirms she was with Dr. Cleminson at his office in Chicago avenue from 8 p. m. on May 29, 1909, until nearly 4 o'clock the next morning, and that Dr. Cleminson was intoxicated at the time. The evidence of Mrs. Schmidt is corroborated by affidavits from her aunt, Caroline Apeck of 1213 Otis street, who says her niece came to her residence with Dr. Cleminson at 4 a. m. on the morning of May 30, by William Eugene Hervey, an employé in Dr. Cleminson's office, by Hattie Grant of 1742 West Ohio street, and by others.

Not Allowed to Testify?

The affidavit of Mrs. Schmidt alleges Dr. Cleminson requested her not to go on the stand in his defense, and that she told Judge McSurely her evidence, who referred the matter to Assistant State's Attorney Northup, but she was not requested to take the stand. Attorney Callahan said the affidavits could not be produced in the courts since they are not part of the records, and the appeal had to be made to the state board of pardons.

A number of prominent physicians, said Attorney Callahan, are backing the effort to get a pardon for Dr. Cleminson.

"Dr. Cleminson is yet less than 30 years old," he said, "and is at the height of his powers. He is a brilliant man with wonderful capacities and considered by many Chicago physicians one of the best doctors in the state. He is at present allowed to work in the hospital at the penitentiary."

NEWSPAPER LAW LAID WITH CARE

STOP DECEPTION, IS AIM.

Advertiser Should Know What He Is Getting and the Reader Furnished Protection.

and punish the multitude of innocent and law abiding publishers in an effort to block the operations of a few blacklegs and scalawags who disgrace the journalistic profession."

As a matter of fact, the honest newspaper has nothing to fear by publishing the names of its owners, directors, etc., and those of its bondholders, mortgagees, and security holders.

Moreover, the legislation originated by the house did not contemplate any novel doctrine. No question ever has been made of the right of congress to prescribe as a condition of "admitting" a newspaper to the second class mail privileges that it shall file sworn statements telling (1) who are its editors and proprietors, (2) what interest, if any, they have in any business advertised therein, (3) whether the advertising columns are open to all (including competitors), (4) the number of copies printed, etc.

Senate Strengthens Statute.

So the senate, holding if congress has all the above power, it surely may increase its requirements, looked with favor upon the purpose of the house provision. This provision was recast because regarded as impracticable of administration, and a substitute offered. To repeat in detail, the house paragraph made it unlawful to send as second class mail any newspapers through the mails unless such newspapers—

(1). Published weekly the names of the editors, business managers, and owners, and those of bond and stockholders; and,

(2) Marked as "advertisement" any article for which any consideration was received or promised; and signed the name of the person in whose interest it was published.

A fine of from $100 to $1,000 was imposed for sending through the mails anything in violation of those provisions, though periodical publications published by or under the auspices of fraternal or benevolent societies or orders or trades unions were exempted from compliance with the proposed law.

Provisions Finally Passed.

The senate committee on postoffices and post roads, while reporting a substitute, declared that with the purpose of the legislation it was "in hearty accord, as also, we believe, are a vast majority of the newspaper and periodical publishers of the country." As the bill finally passed the senate, the provision under discussion required:

1. Semi-annual publication of the names of editors, business managers, and owners, and those of "known" bondholders, mortgagees or security holders. Failure to comply with this provision subjected the offender to the penalty of exclusion from the mails.

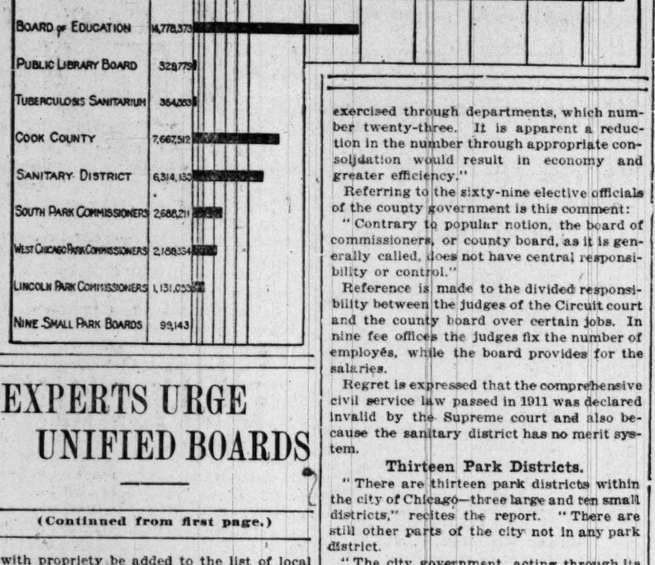

2. All reading matter for which compensation was received to be marked "advertisement," under penalty of from $50 to $500.

Circulation Clause Inserted.

The conference committee went a step further and inserted the provision requiring a statement as to circulation. The agreement of the conference committee was accepted without spoken criticism in either house.

This, in brief, is the legislative history of the law. It met with the practically unanimous approval of both houses. It was not inspired by partisanship, but by a real desire to remove an evil and compel better service of the public by semi-public institutions. Democrats and Republicans worked together in perfecting this needed reform. They avoided imposing any hardship, but sought to require that fundamental principle which is essential in the dealings of men—common honesty.

EXPENDITURES OF THE VARIOUS LOCAL GOVERNING BODIES IN FISCAL YEAR 1912.

EXPERTS URGE UNIFIED BOARDS

with propriety be added to the list of local government agencies, for it is continually interfering in an arbitrary manner in matters of local administration. For example, the legislature, within recent years, has raised out of all proportion to the duties performed the salaries of certain county officials, notably the clerks of the courts. The county has no choice but to pay the excessive amounts fixed by the statute.

"The new public utilities commission, to come into existence on Jan. 1, 1914, while a body of statewide jurisdiction will be called upon to deal in an intimate way with problems of local concern heretofore considered peculiarly within the province of local authorities.

"In a sense, therefore, the new public utilities commission, though it is not a taxing body, is one more governmental agency added to the large number already existing.

Enormous Waste Alleged.

Commenting upon the situation in general, the bureau says:

"The large number of local governments in Chicago, with their very large number of elective officials, independent of one another, operate to produce not only inefficient public service but an enormous waste of public revenues.

"The present multiplicity of governing bodies, with lack of centralized control and the long ballot, results in confusing complexity and makes gross inefficiency and waste on a large scale inevitable.

"In a report on the park governments of Chicago issued by the Chicago bureau of public efficiency in December, 1911, figures were presented to show that the consolidation of the park governments with the city would not only effect a money saving of $500,000 a year but would result in increased efficiency in the administration of park affairs.

"The money saving from the unification of all, or nearly all, of the local governments in Chicago would be many times greater. The increase in efficiency from unification and reduction in the number of elective officials would be enormous."

Should End Township Government.

Dealing with specific divisions of the over-government the report asserts the township governments should be abolished.

"Their existence," the bureau said, "costs the taxpayers several thousand dollars a year in useless administrative expense in connection with tax collections. It is obvious that township government within the city should be entirely abolished."

Regarding the city the experts assert:

"The chart on comparative expenditures of the various local governing bodies shows the city spends more money each year than do all the others combined."

After referring to the various elective officials the report goes on:

"It is, of course, an absurdity that the bailiff and clerk of the Municipal court, the city clerk, and the city treasurer should be chosen by direct vote of the people. The functions of the city government proper are exercised through departments, which number twenty-three. It is apparent a reduction in the number through appropriate consolidation would result in economy and greater efficiency."

Referring to the sixty-nine elective officials of the county government is this comment:

"Contrary to popular notion, the board of commissioners, or county board, as it is generally called, does not have central responsibility or control."

Reference is made to the divided responsibility between the judges of the Circuit court and the county board over certain jobs. In nine fee offices the judges fix the number of employés, while the board provides for the salaries.

Regret is expressed that the comprehensive civil service law passed in 1911 was declared invalid by the Supreme court and also because the sanitary district has no merit system.

Thirteen Park Districts.

"There are thirteen park districts within the city of Chicago—three large and ten small districts," recites the report. "There are still other parts of the city not in any park district.

"The city government, acting through its special park commission, maintains a large number of small park areas and playgrounds, nearly all of which are located within the territory under the jurisdiction of the park boards. Thus, in many cases there are two sets of governmental agencies performing the same kind of service within very narrow territorial limits. The waste is apparent.

"It will be noted that the very valuable property situated in the downtown business section of the city lies entirely within the south park district. All of the park taxes levied against this property are subject to the control of the south park commissioners.

"The greatest density of population and hence the greatest need for park facilities are found within the territory of the west park district, where property values are much lower. The inevitable result of this situation is an inequitable division of park facilities."

Takes Fling at Dunne.

A fling is taken at Gov. Dunne for vetoing the park consolidation bill passed by the last general assembly. Counting the fifteen special park commissioners of the city, there are eighty-four park commissioners on duty within Chicago.

The difficulties of the voter in choosing his public officials is treated in some detail.

"Despite the agitation of the last few years the number of elective officials has grown larger instead of smaller," according to the count of the bureau. "In 1912 Chicago and Cook county spent nearly $1,000,000 holding elections.

"The number of different elective officials—national, state, and local—which Chicago voters are called upon to choose or help choose reaches the enormous total of 368. This figure includes the president and vice president, who are not elected directly by the people. It excludes, however, the twenty-nine presidential electors for whom the voters actually cast their ballots in choosing the president and vice president."

Elective Officials Number 236.

Excluding state and national officials the bureau says there are 236 local elective officials. Taking the viewpoint of a particular voter living in one spot for nine years, the bureau opines that he will vote for "144 different elective positions" and a list of them has been compiled. In certain parts of the city a voter would be called upon to vote for 153 officials in the nine years. The difference comes from the small park areas.

"During a period of six years each woman elector in Chicago may vote for seventy different elective officials," reads the report.

At the fall election last year there were fifty-seven officials to be voted for by the electorate of Chicago, excluding the presidential electors, but counting the president and vice president.

ALDERMEN WILL MEET TODAY TO DEBATE TERMINAL POLICY.

Committee Carries Responsibility Now That Mayor Has Put Responsibility on Them.

The council committee on railway terminals is scheduled to meet this morning. The purpose has not been announced, but it is probable the west side terminal question will be discussed. When the Pennsylvania group of roads, which is asking for permission to erect this terminal, withdrew temporarily from negotiations exactly a week ago Mayor Harrison gave out an interview.

He said the committee should proceed to prepare the necessary ordinances, so when the public utilities commission assumed jurisdiction the city would have expressed its policy. The inference from the above was drawn by several aldermen that failure of Chicago to make public all its demands would give the state commission the impression Chicago did not want more than is now contained in the drafted ordinances. In a word, if the state commission gave the roads a better bargain than the city council would, then the aldermen might be criticised for not announcing all they desire from the roads.

The committee on terminals would hold the bag, because the mayor has advised them what should be done to protect the city's interests properly.

SUMNER PLEADS CHILDREN'S CAUSE

GUARD MARRIAGE GATE.

Right of All to Be Well Born and Well Taught Emphasized by Preacher.

A plea for children to be well born, protected, and rightly taught was made by Dean W. T. Sumner in his sermon yesterday morning at the Episcopal Cathedral of Saints Peter and Paul, Washington boulevard and North Peoria street.

"This is the day the church commemorates the martyrdom of the holy innocents, who were slaughtered by Herod in his desire to destroy the infant Christ," said Dean Sumner, "but I propose to speak of the slaughter of the children of today who are made the innocent victims of modern conditions.

"Every child has a right to be well born. Out attitude at the cathedral, to protect the future by guarding the door of marriage, is well known.

Purity for Parenthood.

"Every boy looking forward to the time when he will assume the responsibilities of fatherhood ought to be willing to make the resolution which many have taken—namely: 'Some day I may marry. I am determined to bring to my wife as pure a life as I expect her to bring to me.'

"A new note, or rather an old note with a new value, is being sounded at this time because of the breaking down of the home. It is a warning to parents who are shirking the responsibilities of the home and seeking to place the responsibility on the church and the school.

"There are homes where the girls are being unkindly treated—and some of these homes are represented by persons in the cathedral this morning—and because of this treatment are obliged to go elsewhere for help and comfort.

"If a child is arraigned in the Juvenile court, parents who do not send their children to church or the Sunday school need not blame the church for it but themselves, because the church is anxious to teach those who will come.

Sacrificed to Greed.

"Children are slaughtered on the altar of lust for greed and gold. There is not a business that requires the work of little children, and yet 1,125,000 of them are being employed in this country.

"It means not only the breakdown physically and mentally but it puts a severe strain on morals. The church must arouse the conscience and the instinct of sympathy and justice of the people in order that the children shall not be thus exploited. Next Sunday has been designated as Child Labor Sunday, and we can do no better than to emphasize these facts.

Dean Sumner made a special plea for the specifically religious instruction of children, and said that instruction in domestic science, in the industrial arts, and in physical culture could not take the place of the cultivation of the soul.

From the Year Book, in which the activities of the cathedral are described, we learn that the bell which has hung in the belfry since 1879 was the gift of the children. It bears on it this inscription:

My voice it calls
To Saint Peter and Saint Paul's,
Come rich, come poor,
To its ever open door.

"I have been told," Dean Sumner said, in referring later to this gift of the children, "that the bell has often been a reminder to the unfortunate girls who used to live in this neighborhood when it was practically a segregated vice district. It made them long for and sometimes resolve to live a better life."

Cathedral Among Poor.

The cathedral was located on its present corner March 17, 1861, in what was then a fine residence district. Because the rich have moved away is the very reason, the year book says, why the cathedral ought to stay.

Nurse Bride in Doctor's Romance

MRS. G. F. TYSON

A year ago Dr. George F. Tyson of 845 Chicago avenue, Evanston, was called to the bedside of a child whose parents were alarmed over a serious illness. He telephoned a Chicago hospital for a nurse, specifying he wanted a pretty one. The hospital followed instructions and sent Miss Lulu Woodman. The child recovered, and Miss Woodman continued as nurse in several of Dr. Tyson's cases. On Christmas eve the doctor surprised them all by journeying to Janesville, Wis., with Miss Woodman and marrying her.

MRS. LAVENDER BROKEN DOWN BY CHURCH SCANDAL TRIAL.

Woman Whose Name Was Linked with Preacher's in Woodlawn Park Is in State of Nervous Collapse.

Mrs. Mary A. Lavender is in a state of nervous collapse and is under the constant care of physicians and nurses at the Henrotin Memorial hospital. It is said the strain of her long fight to regain membership in the Woodlawn Park M. E. church following her expulsion on charges of improper conduct with a former pastor by the Rev. E. W. Crawford has left her a nervous wreck.

Mrs. Lavender has been ill since the early part of November. A few days ago her condition is said to have become serious. Mrs. Lavender's husband, who has been constantly at her bedside, said last night his wife is delirious and thinks she is being persecuted.

After losing her fight before the church trial board against the Rev. Mr. Crawford, Mrs. Lavender sued for damages and was awarded a verdict of $4,000. While the Appellate court was reviewing the case, she surprised her friends by making a motion to have the case dismissed. It was alleged in affidavits by her attorneys, her doctor and a minister that Mrs. Lavender was not mentally competent to ask for the dismissal of the case.

NOTES FROM FOREIGN LANDS.

AGRAM.—The riotous session of the Croatian diet, which began Saturday afternoon, did not end until 8 o'clock Sunday morning. Comparative peace had been restored by that time, and Deputy Nedakowitch was reelected president. He served as president of the last two diets.

BELGRADE.—Another cabinet crisis is imminent. The war minister has resigned owing to the refusal of the cabinet to pass the war budget.

VIENNA.—The Hungarian minister of the interior has sent a circular to all municipalities in Hungary warning intending emgrants to delay their departure to the United States until economic conditions in that country improve. The circular states that American manufacturers, particularly those identified with the steel and iron interests, have reduced their output, and as a consequence there are many men now out of employment.

SOUL ABOVE PRICE, DECLARES BISHOP

MORE RESPECT NEEDED.

Servants Cannot Be Treated as Machines, He Says to Illustrate.

"Why is there a stream of girls and women going down to perdition?" was the question asked by Bishop Charles D. Williams of Detroit, Mich., who spoke last evening in Orchestra hall at the Sunday Evening club.

"It is not economic pressure making self-support difficult," he said, "nor the increasing feeble mindedness of the age, nor the pace of high society impelling imitation nor the desire for ease, although all of these conditions are as represented, but the cause is deeper—a lack of respect for the personality of women.

"This lies at the root of much of the trouble in domestic service—a lack of respect for personality. A woman cannot treat a servant as though she were a fireless cooker or a vacuum cleaner.

"The man in the store sells goods, but the woman is asked to sell herself."

Soul Value Above Price.

Bishop Williams spoke from the text: "What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul?" He emphasized the thought that there is no material value that can be placed in contrast with the worth of a man's or a woman's individuality, their potential highest possible self, which he defined as the meaning of "soul."

"There is no measure by which we can determine the value of love," he said. "When you tell your baby that she is worth her weight in gold you simply mean that her value is beyond human computation. No value can be put on a wife's chastity or on a child's innocence, but when the exploiting of the chastity or innocence of others becomes a source of gain, men forget that.

"Never use a person as an end, but as a means to an end, never as a tool or an instrument. Respect their personality.

Human Life Held Cheap.

"There is no place in the industrial world except in China where human life is as cheap as it is in the United States. Every three minutes a human life is snuffed out, and yet we are told that 70 per cent of the lives need not be lost if machinery were properly protected.

"We hold ourselves too cheap. Under the guise of religion a groveling humility has been too often taught. To stand in the presence of Christ will take away our self-conceit, but it will strengthen our self-respect."

Bishop Williams ridiculed the conception of the soul as meaning a germ or entity that must be saved, and also the idea that the province of the church is to produce a finished character.

"The church," he said, "has been too often considered a warehouse where souls are kept on shelves to dry for heaven. A character is never finished. God has an ideal for every individual, and it is reaching after this possible self that keeps man ever growing."

AUTO ROBBERS FIRE VOLLEY AT CAR WHICH GETS AWAY.

Machine Carrying Man, Woman, and Children Speeds By Two Holdup Men as Bullets Fly.

Waukegan, Ill., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Sheriff Elmer Green and several deputies are scouring the roads north of here for two automobile robbers who fired shots at John Peterson and his family tonight on Sheridan road.

Peterson was coming from Zion City, where he resides. With him in the car were his mother and three children. A quarter of a mile north of Waukegan, at a turn at the bottom of a steep hill, he saw two men standing in the road. Suspecting their purpose, he put on speed and went past as they shouted. They started shooting at his car as he slowed in the ascent. No one was injured.

At the top of the hill Peterson saw an empty car. When the police reached the scene this auto was gone.

BEGINS INQUIRY ON JURIES

PANELS MOSTLY EMPLOYERS.

John H. Lally Says Personal Injury Cases Aren't Justly Tried.

The Lawyers' association of Chicago has started an investigation of the methods of picking jury panels in Cook county. The committee recently appointed by that organization to take up this matter, issued a call Saturday for a list of jurors called in cases tried by members during the past year.

It is expected in this way to get to the bottom of the allegation that "jurors in our courts are picked and selected men and that as a result justice is not being fairly administered."

Request All Jury Lists.

The following is the request made by the committee for the jury lists:

"Kindly mail a list of jurors called in your cases during the past year and a half to the undersigned. The list should be accurate and include the name, address, and occupation of the juror, the number and title of the case and the judge before whom it was tried, and should include the rejected as well as the accepted jurors; also keep a correct list of all jurors submitted to you in cases in the future, with their names, addresses and occupations. The object of this inquiry is to prevent the practice of giving lawyers and litigants juries of picked men."

Nonresidents Included.

John H. Lally, chairman of this committee, said:

"Lawyers charge that eight out of twelve men offered as jurors do not reside in Chicago or that more than 50 per cent of the men offered are employers. I contend that with such jurors it is impossible to have a fair trial of such cases as personal injury cases.

"The law provides the jury commissioners shall prepare a list from the electors. The practice, is, I understand, to pick them out of the city directory, according to occupations.

"We propose to make up a list of jurors called during the last year and show the occupation of each. I am confident the result will show the present method prevents a fair trial against large corporations and employers."

WILSON ATTENDS GULFPORT KIRK

VISIT SURPRISES PASTOR.

Gulfport, Miss., Dec. 28.—President Wilson sat in a quaint little Presbyterian church here today, among a congregation less than a hundred, and heard a sermon on "The Personal Accountability of the Individual to his Maker" by the Rev. Dr. Herbert Albert Jones.

"This is the last Sunday of the year," the Rev. Dr. Jones said. "What has the year done for us? To some who are in this presence, it has been the most glorious year in American history. A new era has dawned in the world's diplomacy that will see emblazoned around the coronets of princes and the crowns of emperors, the teaching of a new interpretation of man's duties to man."

President's Visit a Surprise.

The Rev. Dr. Jones did not know today was the president's birthday, though his sermon was devoted to reflections on the passing twelve months.

"Methuselah lived to be 969 years old," the preacher said, "but was drowned in the flood. He lived all these years, yet, as we say in common parlance, he didn't know enough to come in out of the wet." The president smiled.

Nations Greet President Wilson.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—Messages of good will from rulers of many of the world's nations were received here today for President Wilson. The occasion was the fifty-seventh birthday anniversary of the president. The greetings were forwarded to Pass Christian, Miss., where the president and his family are spending a vacation.

Boost John C. Eastman for Senator.

The Young Men's Democratic club of the Twenty-second ward and the Italian Democratic club of that ward last night joined John C. Eastman's campaign for United States senator. John R. Durso, bailiff in the County court and a Hearst-Harrison leader among the Italians, is president of both clubs.

The Chicago Tribune

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

FOUNDED JUNE 10, 1847.

ENTERED AS SECOND CLASS MATTER JUNE 3, 1908, AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHICAGO, ILL., UNDER ACT OF MARCH 3, 1870.

All unsolicited articles, manuscripts, letters, and pictures sent to "The Tribune" are sent at the owner's risk, and The Tribune company expressly repudiates any liability or responsibility for their safe custody or return.

SWORN CIRCULATION.

Net paid circulation of "The Chicago Tribune," as reported under oath to the United States government under section 4671/2 of the postal laws and regulations, being the average from April 1, 1913, to Sept. 30, 1913:

Daily 253,212

Sunday 366,918

The above figures are exclusive of all papers which have been wasted, spoiled, returned, duplicated; delivered as complimentary, in exchange, as samples, which were missed or lost, or were late in arriving at their destination, or that remain unsold. They also are exclusive of papers paid for, but on which money so paid has been refunded.

A COURT FOR BOYS.

A student of criminality among boys remarks that in most cases sentence upon youthful offenders might well be passed by a physician and not by a judge. This view is, perhaps, in advance of the times, and probably was uttered more as a wish than as a practical suggestion to be acted upon.

There is every element of practicability, however, about the advocacy of a court for boys between the ages of 17 and 21 by Judge John R. Newcomer. Boys awaiting trial on criminal charges at present, it seems, are held in the county jail for months before their case comes up.

Now, the county jail is no place for a boy. If the boy is guilty the court will send him to an institution where he will be reformed. He might as well go to that institution, then, without coming in touch with adult criminals in the county jail. If the boy be found innocent, then confinement in the county jail is a still greater injustice to him; in fact, it is a positive injury. A court where boys may be given a speedy hearing and their cases disposed of without dragging the offending youths through jails is a genuine need in this community.

AN "ADEQUATE" NAVY.

President Wilson, as occasion requires, indicates to the members of his party in congress that he regards the Baltimore platform a responsible authoritative document, a contract or covenant and not a bit of fiction.

Therefore it is a creditable report that he has given the Democratic congressmen to understand that he will not view with indifference the skimping of the navy estimates to fill the pork barrel.

The Baltimore platform declared for "an adequate" navy, a term used with a statesmanlike looseness and probably later to be interpreted to mean anything from a Jeffersonian flotilla of river boats to an efficient fleet of battleships.

In all rational American opinion an adequate navy cannot be provided by other than the authorization, from year to year, for a period not yet limited, of two modern first line ships with such other vessels as are needed for the balanced and proportioned development of the naval machine.

President Wilson subscribes to this view. It is presented by Secretary Daniels of the navy department, a bit hesitatingly, it would seem, as if the secretary were convinced himself but wished to disarm hostile Democrats by his lack of enthusiasm.

The president, who believes that a platform is a pledge and that "adequate" cannot have a small meaning in relation to the American navy, is likely to strengthen the party program in this respect as he has in others.

PARCEL POST HONORS.

In recent expressions of gratification over the success of the parcel post there has been an unfortunate absence of reference to the men who were really the notable champions of this admirable extension of postal efficiency. We have heard much of Representative Lewis, who was so fortunate as to introduce the parcel post bill which became law. But Mr. Lewis was the man who introduced the bill to buy out the express companies, a measure in reality obstructive or dilatory even if not so intended.

Meanwhile Representative Bennett's name is not mentioned, although he was perhaps the best informed and most effective friend the parcel post had in congress.

And who has said anything about former Postmaster General George von L. Meyer, who was the official who really set on foot the movement which finally won? Other postmaster generals had indorsed the parcel post. Meyer took it up with a will.

Another leader in private life who ought to be given credit of the first rating when credit is being distributed is John M. Stahl of Chicago, legislative agent of the Farmers' National congress, who has been called "the father of rural free delivery." The executives of the Postal Progress league kept up effective agitation and the farmers' organizations were the backbone of the movement. But the officials who stand out among the leaders are George von Lengerke Meyer, postmaster general in the Roosevelt cabinet, and former Representative William S. Bennett of New York.

THE COST OF MORE LIGHT.

That Chicago needs more street lighting goes without saying. As THE TRIBUNE has said editorially, more lights mean more safety and more convenience and comfort. Many streets are chasms of darkness in which malefactors have the maximum of opportunity, the citizen and the policeman the minimum of defense. Light adds to the conveniences and good cheer of the community and the city government should do all within its means to increase it.

But for this very reason the most economical means of adding to the street lights should be sought. The cheaper the lighting the more lighting we can afford.

The city electrician has plans which call for careful consideration before they are adopted. They certainly will profit the Commonwealth Edison company. It should be made certain before adoption that more economical plans cannot be devised. Mr. Palmer proposes the equipment of a substation costing $400,000, to utilize 1,500 more lights to be provided by the Commonwealth Edison company. Before that is authorized the full resources of the public plant of the sanitary district should be developed. Mr. Palmer speaks of a steam plant in connection with this plant to provide for the peak load. It will cost $100,000. Why not go on with this? The mayor says he does not know the situation, but he is "with the city electrician." It would be more satisfactory if he were "with the city." Mr. Palmer's recommendations should be subjected to thorough expert review before a large addition is made to his appropriation.

WHAT WE NEED MOST.

Nothing could be more timely than the report of the bureau of public efficiency on local government in Chicago, "a multiplicity of overlapping taxing bodies with many elective officials."

The report declares:

Chicago's greatest needs are unification of its local governments and the short ballot.

THE TRIBUNE has preached that truth in season and out, and it will continue to preach it until this reform is accomplished. Of all local reforms it is the most fundamental, the nearest to absolute and urgent necessity. While we wait for it we are wasting 90 per cent of the strength we put into attempts at honest government, at efficient administration, at public economy.

By herculean efforts, by fanning desperately into flame the quickly dying fires of public opinion, by long campaigns of publicity and loud and long appeals to voters, we are able to overthrow a rascal here, an incompetent there, while the majority remain intrenched. We capture one bastion of predatory politics here and lose another there.

This is the endless task of Sisyphus. It breeds among the best of citizens cynicism and the indifference of despair.

The most efficient and conscientious of officials cannot prevent waste while this agglomerate of outgrown machinery weighs down the simple processes of good government.

The most intelligent and conscientious of voters cannot vote effectively in his own or the public's interest while he is required to select from among hundreds of unknown names.

Our system is oligarchy, not democracy or republicanism, and it is inefficient and corrupt oligarchy at that. It cannot be otherwise, and there is but one way to regain freedom. We must unify and simplify our government and political mechanism so that we can run it. There is nothing in perpetually scolding political bosses and demanding that they become saints. While we accept a system which is so complex that only professionals can or will run it, we must expect they will run it primarily for themselves. If we want a government run for us, we must have one that we can run ourselves.

Every citizen should read the bureau of efficiency's report and study its striking charts.

Then he should make himself the militant champion of simplification and the short ballot.

Mark Twain's wise philosopher, "Pudd'nhead Wilson," says: "The fool hath said, 'Put not all your eggs in one basket'; but I say, 'Put all your eggs in one basket—and watch the basket!'"

The voter is asked to vote directly on more men than he could possibly know or learn about if he gave up months before election to this duty. What happens is that a political boss selects these men and the voter is virtually compelled to vote blindly on them. He cannot watch so many baskets, so he gets a large number of doorknobs or rotten eggs.

The simplification of governing bodies and the concentration of official responsibility on a few men whom the voters can know and hold responsible, these are absolutely necessary to self-government.

We need a constitutional convention to save these reforms from the obstructive competition of other needed reforms. In the country districts they are not needed so urgently as in Cook county, and might be lost in competition with the I. and R. or the tax amendment or other reforms. In a convention so strong a case could be made for them for the sake of Cook county that they would be provided for. But whether the convention is granted or not, the civic spirit of Chicago should concentrate upon them and fail not till they are won.

THE restitution suit directed by Judge Sanborn against the "high financiers" of the Frisco will be watched with approval even by the public not financially interested. There was something coming to the manipulators of this system, and it is to be hoped it will arrive with full force.

HOUSES AND HOUSING.

HOUSES are one thing; housing is another. Houses may be all right; the housing may be poor. The housing is what counts; the house is of secondary importance. Improving the houses may make the housing worse. In fact, it usually does. With us it certainly will. Why? Because we have our minds set on houses. It is the common experience that, even when a housing situation is tinkered with just enough to improve the houses, the housing is made worse.

It is a basic law that rent cannot take more than 25 per cent of the family income. Generally, it takes less. If the family is one of low standards, it will not allow the proportion to get to 20 per cent, or anywhere near it.

If the rent goes up, the family moves to a cheaper place, or it takes lodgers, or the women and children go to work—which means that, when the rent goes up, the housing goes down. To improve the houses puts the rent up; therefore it puts the housing down. There are too many experiences demonstrating the working of this rule to leave it in doubt.

When we require larger rooms, more windows, more of the lot unoccupied, better construction, better plumbing, we increase the rent. When we do, many of the people who formerly occupied houses in that neighborhood must move into basements or into alley houses. Others will pay the greater rent, but they will crowd in lodgers to make the extra money.

There must be better housing. Health demands it. Business demands it. Labor demands it. The life of the nation demands it. To have better housing, we must have better houses.

Is there any way to get them without raising the rents? When you tackle that question, you quit thinking.

Several remedies have been proposed. One is for the government to buy up the bad housing districts, tear out the old houses, build new ones and rent those to the people. This plan is based on the idea that, if all the land were used to the best advantage and all middlemen were eliminated, the government could furnish a workingman a good house for the rent he now pays for a poor one.

Another is excess condemnations. By this is meant that the government would buy up all the bad housing, tear it out, rebuild, improve, and sell back enough of the beautified, adorned and homogeneously developed land to pay for the improvements.

Another is tax on unearned increment and the use of the funds for rebuilding poor districts. The plan is for the government to get a certain part of the increase in value of privately owned land and to use the funds so collected as a land fund. This land fund is to purchase poor houses, rebuild them, and rent them to workingmen or sell to them on easy terms.

Another is the single tax, or a modification of it. Under this plan, taxes are to be taken from personal property and from improvements on land. This will greatly increase the taxes on land. On unimproved property the taxes will be greatly increased. On improved real estate the tax increase will not equal the reduction because of the release of the improvements from taxation. The housing property paying less taxes, the rent will be lowered, or a good house will rent for what a poor one now rents for.

There are several cures. Tinkering is not one of them. But even tinkering is better than doing nothing. Vis inertia is the hardest of forces to overcome in a democracy.

EXERCISING AND COLDS.

S. C. writes: "You may be interested at this season of the year in a concrete illustration of the gospel that fresh air and exercise will cure a tendency to catch cold, while the use of patent medicines is dangerous. I have a boy, now 12 years old. Though he looked vigorous and active, and during the summer was the picture of health, from babyhood he never passed a winter without catching several bad colds which settled on his lungs and lasted for many weeks. Along toward Christmas time every year we noticed that he began to get heavy and logy. His face looked puffed and he was dull. When we saw this condition coming on we could almost be sure that in a few weeks he would get a bad cold, which would hang on for the rest of the winter. It did not occur to me that a child going to school and always fond of play would not get enough exercise; but I inquired how my boy spent his recesses at school when the weather was zero and snow was on the ground. I found he was usually down in the basement with the other boys, standing around and talking to the girls. My conclusion was that in bad weather in the winter school children do not get proper exercise, and that is largely the reason why they catch cold. I asked my boy to join me for ten or twelve minutes in exercises in the morning before we dressed, and of course he was delighted to do anything his father did. At the same time we placed a cot bed on the porch, and he slept out of doors all winter, even at 15 degrees below zero. He never complained of being cold, and never kicked off the covers, except when our caution covered him up so he was too hot. When Christmas time approached he showed none of the old signs of puffiness in the face, and actually went through the winter without catching any serious cold. Three winters have now passed with the same results. It is now four years that I myself have been taking the same exercises, even when I am in a Pullman sleeping car, and they mean so much to me that I should no more think of missing them than of going without my dinner. My working capacity has been increased at least one-third; but if the exercises are omitted it goes down again at once. As they are taken entirely without apparatus, they are possible at any time and anywhere. The special points about them are as follows: Each movement is followed by a moment of rest, as in case of the heart beats. This prevents weariness, since there is no continued strain. The speed is about that of normal breathing, and a full (not a very deep) breath is taken in during the period of relaxation, and let out during the movement. This seems to help to get the body into a rhythmic action, which goes far toward relaxing the nerves, something that I believe is extremely necessary in our modern artificial life. A beginner on the exercises ought not to take more than six movements of each, gradually increasing to not over fifteen. The entire series of sixteen, with approximately 225 movements, can be taken easily without hurry in twelve minutes when one is developed up to it. The harder ones are limited to twelve each. These exercise the trunk far more than any other exercises that I know; nearly all of them exercise the trunk more or less. In case it is difficult to sit up, the toes may be caught under a trunk strap fastened around the couch, or under the edge of a bureau if one lies on the floor. Raising the feet and giving them a little throw forward will make sitting up from a prone position easy for most persons."

REPLY.

The exercises will appear tomorrow. Some part of S. C.'s letter I have had to omit to keep it within our space requirements.

LA MARQUISE DE FONTENOY.

[Copyright: 1913: By the Brentwood Company.]

VERY serious doubts always have existed as to the identity of the murderer of King George of Greece, who was slain at Saloniki while strolling through the streets less than a year ago. A widespread impression exists, at any rate in Greece and in the southeast of Europe, that the Greek, Skinas, who was arrested for the crime, was entirely innocent and a mere harmless lunatic. Fortunately he committed suicide before being placed on trial, so that the Greek authorities have been spared the danger of having to reproach themselves with having put an innocent man to death.

It would not be worth while raking up the matter in these letters at this date were it not that notices have just been given of questions that are about to be put concerning the affair in the national legislatures at Athens and at Sofia.

According to some stories, King George was slain by a fanatical Bulgarian, crazed with anger by the discovery that the Greek army under King George had reached Saloniki and taken possession of the city before the arrival upon the scene of the advancing Bulgarian forces. The Greek press does not hesitate to discuss this story as if it gave full credence to it. That is why the question is about to be brought before the sobranje at Sofia and before the boulos at Athens.

Another story which is being discussed in Greece with equal vigor is to the effect that King George was assassinated by a tall Greek, well dressed, in clothes of foreign make and who vanished into the crowd as soon as he had seen his royal victim sink to the ground. Some of the deputies at Athens have taken the matter up and have for several months been devoting a good deal of their time and money to a searching investigation of the affair. They promise strange revelations when the subject comes up for debate.

It must be remembered that King George was not a popular monarch while he lived, and that the eulogies lavished upon him since his assassination were withheld while he was on the throne. The pan-Hellenists always were furious with him for having exercised a restraining influence upon their territorial aspirations.

Then there were officers of the Greek army who had been made to feel the weight of King George's displeasure, owing to their insubordination and the rôle which they had played in organizing that military pronunciamento four years ago which forced him to temporarily deprive his elder sons of their commissions and to banish them.

Life is held cheap in the southeast of Europe. It is therefore quite possible that the ill fated monarch may have been slain not by that probably harmless crank Skinas but by either some Bulgarian fanatical patriot or by some Greek officer infuriated by some fancied wrong.

A good deal of curiosity having been expressed on this side of the Atlantic concerning Sir Lionel Phillips, who was shot down the other day in the streets of Johannesburg, it may be as well to state that he is one of those South African multimillionaire magnates who, having accumulated an enormous fortune in diamond and gold mining, returned to England to spend his wealth and the remainder of his days there, but who, finding existence in the mother country a disappointment, has shaken the dust of England off his feet and has gone back to South Africa to make his home henceforth under more congenial surroundings.

Like Sir John B. Robinson, he discovered that the possession of millions did not open the doors of precisely those houses in England where he was anxious to be received; that it excited the hostility of the very people whom he particularly wished to propitiate; that it made him an object of prey and of persecution on the part of every unprincipled adventurer of high and low degree, and a butt of satire and of ridicule to society.

Welcomed at court during the reign of Edward VII., he ceased to find himself persona grata under the régime of George V., and the government of the day, having obtained all the money which it could extort from him for its party campaign fund in return for the baronetcy bestowed upon him, had no further use for him.

Sir Lionel Phillips, who had a beautiful country seat at Tylney hall, near Winchfield, Hampshire, crowded from cellar to garret with the art treasures which he had purchased after his arrival in England, sold the estate in 1912 at a sacrifice and dispersed his collections, one of the paintings, Gainsborough's "The Market Cart," bringing a sum of more than $100,000. He left England for good and all. This was last year. About eight months later, that is to say, last summer, Sir John Robinson followed suit.

Both men are self-made and were formerly associated in business. Thus, Sir Lionel, slender and below middle height, went out to Africa forty years ago at the age of 20, drifted up to Kimberley, and, after some years spent with varying success as a diamond digger, became—thanks to his talent for organization—manager of the mines of J. B. Robinson & Co. Then he was offered the managing directorship of the Griqualand West Diamond company, and towards the nineties joind the forces of Cecil Rhodes and took a leading part in the formation of the great De Beers group.

As president of the chamber of mines at Johannesburg, he led the fight against President Kruger and the Boer government when they attempted to victimize the mining companies by extortionate imposts and royalties, and on his becoming convinced that the Boers had in view the confiscation of the mines, he helped to organize the Jameson raid.

On its failure he was arrested by the Boer government and sentenced to death, along with John Hays Hammond, now of Washington, D. C.; Sir George Farrer, and Col. Frank Rhodes, the soldier brother of Cecil Rhodes. Ultimately President Kruger commuted those capital sentences to fines of $125,000 apiece and banishment from the Transvaal.

At the outbreak of the Boer war, Sir Lionel returned to South Africa and raised, equipped, and maintained at his own expense a large force of irregular cavalry, known as the Imperial Light Horse, which did valuable service during the campaign.

DESPITE the pleasant words said of Mr. Wilson's golf game his scores probably have to be taken out and buried, as G. Ade expresses it. It may be that he is like the gentleman whom he recently appointed minister to Belgium, the Hon. Brand Whitlock. We were playing with the Hon. Brand a few weeks ago and things weren't going well. He related an experience at St. Andrews. After he had shot five or six holes he asked the caddie what he thought of his game. "Aweel," said the bag-bearer, gloomily, "ye have a grand style, but nae luck."

[From the Kendallville, Ind., News-Sun.]

If a woman is interested in her home she will have plenty to do without meddling in politics or affair of any kind and not degrade herself. A woman is supposed to be refined and I know it isn't very refined to be in a lawyer's office or any public place. Of course, it's all right if they want notoriety. I am a woman but got plenty to do in the house. Hurrah for the anti-suffragists!

AS we have already related, the valve-handle wheeze is only a recent incarnation of one of the seven original wheezes. In one of its incarnations it concerned a bicycle and the saddle thereof. There lies before us as we write a yellowed cutting from the Boston Herald of at least ten years ago entitled "A Neat Apology." It is the sempiternal wheeze, and is credited to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

"LOVE widow" and "heart wife" are among the terms employed by enraptured reporters to describe the companion of the Monticello lawyer. When we strike an imbecile phrase like that in a headline we make it a point to skip the story.

RIGHTS OF BONDHOLDERS.

Chicago, Dec. 12.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—There are numerous bond firms in Chicago issuing investment bonds secured by large buildings. These bonds usually provide that they may be redeemed at 103 after three years, which seems to provide that the owner must not sell the property for three years and then must redeem the bonds at an advance if he should sell after three years. Therefore, is it right for the bond house to allow the property to be sold soon after all bonds are sold without any consultation with the bondholders or change in bonds?

The owner at time bonds are sold is usually represented as a responsible and reliable party, but no information is given later about the new owner, whether he is responsible or not, as the bonds have been sold and the bond house evidently considers it inconsequential as to who owns the property thereafter, although it is assumed they will see the party is responsible. The bondholders are left with bonds running five or six years, perhaps, signed by parties who no longer own the property and not signed by the new owners.

Thus to a bondholder this seems irregular and should not be allowed. I think the property should not be sold until the time stated in the bonds for redeeming bonds at a premium and then the bonds should be bought up. Of course, this will be expensive, which probably is the reason for not doing it and no doubt the bond house gets a private rakeoff for allowing the sale at the expense of its bondholders.

BONDHOLDER.

The rights of the bondholders depend upon the terms of the trust deed under which the bonds are issued, and the right of the person issuing the bonds to sell the property is also governed by this trust deed. In view of the fact that we do not know what the trust deed provides in this particular case, we cannot give you a definite opinion as to the legality of this transfer.

Under ordinary circumstances, the bondholders rely wholly upon the property as security. The lien of the bond issue on the property is not affected by a change of owners, even though the bonds are signed by the owner of the property at the time the bonds are issued. For this reason there seems to be little objection to the transfers of which you complain.

A MATTER OF PAY.

Chicago, Dec. 20.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—My husband worked for a concern one day and did not go back any more. He was to have $20 per week. He left Chicago and wrote asking this firm to mail him a check for $3.33. Not hearing from them, he wrote again, inclosing a stamp for a reply. Since then we have come back to Chicago and I went once to collect same and could not get it, and my husband went once, but the office girl said the manager was not in. Is there any way of collecting this and what would be the best to do under the circumstances?

CASES ON THE CALENDAR.

Chicago, Dec. 20.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Can you not find out what is the matter with the calendars of the Circuit court? I have a case pending there for a couple of years. Last year it was on Judge Scanlan's call and he did not go far on his calendar owing to the fact of the labor arbitration. This year the case is on another calendar and the judge is in the Criminal court and no one is calling that calendar, and so I suppose my case will stand over for another year. Can you not find some remedy for myself and hundreds of other litigants who have cases on that calendar? L. B. R.

The judges of the Circuit court are giving their best efforts to disposing of the cases now on the calendars. It is greatly to be regretted that there is so much delay, but it is occasioned by the great amount of business which each judge must transact. We should either have more judges or a better system of disposing of cases.

DISPARITY IN SCHOOL SALARIES.

Chicago, Dec. 16.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Referring to the bitter feeling engendered by the apportionment of the 20 per cent increase in salary among the high school teachers, it should not be forgotten that it would be very hard indeed to apportion this increase in such a way as to please all the teachers. However, an investigation will certainly disclose that in some schools the apportionment has been very poorly done, indeed, and that injustice has been done certain teachers and that other teachers are not giving adequate service for that increase paid.

Nor should it be forgotten that this 20 per cent increase makes the maximum salary of the high school teacher $3,125 per year, while the salary of the grammar school teacher remains at $1,200. There would appear to be too much disparity between the salary of the favored high school teachers and those of the teachers in the primary and elementary grades.

In some places pupils as high as the third grade have only the half day session. Until all the pupils can have adequate school facilities any increase paid to high school teachers should certainly be distributed justly and only where it will bring adequate results. TAXPAYER.

MURDEROUS MILITARISM.

Waukesha, Wis., Dec. 22.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Lieut. von Forstner having been cashiered and sentenced to imprisonment for his provoked assault upon a civilian in Alsace-Lorraine, I am reminded of a ruthless manifestation of militarism when that province was under French rule. In 1847, while my maternal grandfather was peacefully pursuing his occupation in his native Lorraine, a French soldier shot him fatally, having wagered that he could shoot the tassel off the aged peasant's cap. The only recompense vouchsafed my mother's family for this wanton murder was a small gold coin, while the matter was hushed up and the offender went unpunished. J. H. A. LACHER.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST THE UNION.

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 22.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Certain advocates of a union of the Progressive and Republican parties profess to believe that the recent action of the national committee as to the reapportionment of delegates paves the way.

Here are a few and controlling reasons why they are wrong:

1. That the action of the 1912 Republican national convention was a deliberate defiance of the will of the rank and file of the party as expressed at the presidential primaries, unmistakably manifested in other ways, and strikingly verified in the election results.

2. That the men who controlled that body are still in the saddle of party leadership, express no repentance for their action, and today are more intent upon intrenching themselves locally than reëstablishing the party in the nation.

3. That the Republican party can hope for no success until these men are eliminated.

4. That as between their triumph, even if possible, and the continuance of a Democratic administration, two evils present themselves, each with very little choice either way.

5. That as between the Republican party under its present control and the Progressive party the latter has the better chance of ultimate success. H. S. DARLING.

The name of Uhlemann in the fur markets of the world stands for the "square deal"—the perfection of quality, of reliable representation, of honest methods—from the trapper to the wearer. The name of Uhlemann on a fur coat, muff, collar or other garment is the guaranty that it is exactly as represented.

Furs of Uhlemann quality are worth their price. So, when Uhlemann cuts that price there must be a good reason for it, and the man or woman who buys Uhlemann furs at a cut price is to be congratulated on getting a bargain whose genuineness cannot be questioned and is never for a moment a matter of doubt.

Uhlemann's reason for cutting the prices of all remaining made-up furs is the warm fall and winter, leaving a larger stock on hand than is businesslike. So Uhlemann will sell every garment at reductions of one-third to one-half—which is your excellent reason for purchasing at this remarkable and unusual opportunity.

Lay Plans for 1914 Campaign and Hinebaugh Sees Good Chance to Win.

MANLY FIGHT DEMANDED

Straight County Tickets Urged in Congressional Districts if Law Will Permit.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Plans for the Progressive campaign in the 1914 elections were announced today in a letter addressed to the state chairman of the party by Representative Hinebaugh of Illinois, chairman of the Progressive congressional committee. Headquarters are to be opened here on Jan. 1 and western headquarters will be opened in Chicago before July 1.

"The party organization is now in fighting trim and in much better shape than ever to carry forward a winning campaign," Mr. Hinebaugh said. "Our platform appeals so strongly to the people generally that the two old parties have been forced to give a measure of lip loyalty to some of its declarations.

Will Fight for Congressmen.

"The congressional committee cannot emphasize too strongly the necessity for a straightforward, manly fight in the congressional campaign now before us.

"In every congressional district where the laws of the state permit we urge the nomination of straight county tickets. This will give us a Progressive local organization and will for the first time place us on an equal footing with the old parties in each of the counties composing the congressional district and will leave us in excellent shape for the battle of 1916.

"We cannot urge too strongly the importance of making a fight locally all along the line, not only with the thought and purpose of electing our candidates wherever possible in this immediate campaign, but for the further and greater purpose of filling up our organization with seasoned, disciplined veterans for the greater battle of 1916.

Calls Reports Encouraging.

"The reports that come to us from the various states are most encouraging. If we exercise care in the nomination of high grade men for public office, and our fight is conducted in a clean cut, aggressive manner, we shall not only win the election in many cases, but we shall have laid the foundation for a sweeping victory in 1916."

More than 10,000 Sullivan Democrats are expected to attend the New Year's reception at the Second Regiment armory, Washington boulevard and Curtis street, it was announced at yesterday's meeting of the County Democracy. At least two noted Illinoisans will speak, and there will be at least ten theatrical entertainers.

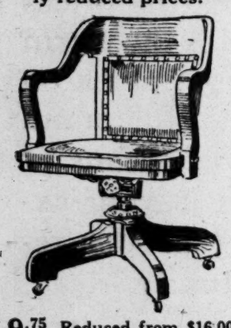

Joseph Flanagan, former county commissioner and a dealer in art glass, entered a disclaimer to the Republican cry that hard times are caused by Democratic policies. Investigation convinced him that European countries are in the same state of financial stringency.

Mr. Flanagan said that his books shows that he made more money when art glass was on the free list—as under the new tariff bill—than during the more recent period when he had a protection of 45 per cent ad valorem.

"The Adventures of Kathlyn"

The Most Brilliant and Thrilling Motion Pictures Ever Staged

Today and tonight the first three-reel play of the most fascinating Motion Picture Series ever enacted—the dramatized version of Harold MacGrath's latest and greatest serial story—will be presented to the public at the theaters whose addresses are given below. This great drama, the longest and most pretentious ever planned for the motion picture stage, requires for its production 27 full length reels, and will be placed before you in 13 separate plays, each play of not less than two reels, at intervals two weeks apart.

In these extraordinary plays you will witness a living drama of Love and Danger and Intrigue that will enthrall you from the start. You will see with your own eyes the hair-breadth escapes of the most daring motion picture actress in the world, the beautiful Kathlyn Williams, leading lady for the Selig Polyscope Co. You will see her lured by a false message from her father's peaceful home in California. You will see her before the Council of Three in the Royal Palace of Allaha, crowned the unwilling Queen of a wild race of people in the midst of the jungles of India.

You will see her bound by fanatical natives on the top of a giant funeral pyre and watch the flames creeping ever nearer her helpless form. You will see her tied with thongs in a tiger trap as human bait for the blood thirsty beasts of the jungle. You will see her swimming for her life to escape a maddened water-buffalo in the black waters of a Bengal river. Time after time, in scene after scene, this actress takes her life in her hands and walks grimly up to the very jaws of death in order to portray with lifelike realism the actual adventures of MacGrath's heroine.

Don't miss the opening installment of this great drama. Don't miss the beginning of the story. The first play, in three reels, appears today and tonight at the theaters named below. The films will then be given to other theaters tomorrow and to still others the next day, and so on until every licensed theater has presented this play to its patrons. So if you are not so fortunate as to see this play today or tonight, you will at least be able to see it within a few days. Watch for it at your favorite theater. Go without your dinner, if you have to, but don't miss seeing this greatest of motion picture dramas played by the greatest of motion picture actresses, the beautiful Kathlyn Williams.

News of Music and Theaters.

Mme. Carreno Delights a Large and Avid Audience.

BY GLENN DILLARD GUNN.

TWO hours of piano playing by Mme. Teresa Carreño proved too little to satisfy the demands of her listeners yesterday afternoon in the Studebaker theater. The program was serious as well as long, and its course was often interrupted by demands for encores. Yet at its conclusion the greater part of the numerous audience remained seated and asked for more. Nor could the enthusiasts be persuaded to leave until the artist appeared before them in street garb to indicate that the recital really was at an end.

The writer pleads guilty to being one of the enthusiasts who gladly would have heard more, for piano playing of such serene and exalted beauty is altogether too rare in this day and generation. There is at present a superabundance of great pianists. Men whose mastery of the instrument is complete, whose knowledge of the art is comprehensive, and who have the gift to set forth their convictions regarding it seem to tread upon each other's heels as they strive for the favor of the public.

Perhaps it is the strenuousness of this competition that has led one after another to distort and to exaggerate the art he seeks to represent. Perhaps it is but the neurotic life of the period that is reflected in their occasional lapses from artistic sanity. But it is certain that art as wholesome, as natural, and as beautiful as that unfolded by Mme. Carreño yesterday is fast disappearing from our concert halls.

Twenty years have passed since the writer first was privileged to hear this remarkable artist. Mme. Carreño, after adventures as a singer and as a conductor of opera, resumed her career as a pianist in 1889 after a prefatory period of study with Rubinstein. Until that time her interests had been divided between the opera house and the concert hall. She adventured in opera at the advice of old Maestro Rossini, who heard her in Paris when she was a child of 14 or 15. At the same time Abbé Liszt became interested in her pianistic gifts and prophesied similar greatness for her in the concert hall.

She came before the public of Germany as a pianist first at the mature age of 36, but in four years she had conquered Europe. She is perhaps the only pianist of whom it may be written that at 60 her playing is mechanically as perfect and spiritually far more inspiring than it was at 40. The program heard yesterday was almost the same as that which made the writer acquainted with her art in 1893. The chromatic fantasie and fugue of Bach prefaced either recital. She then played Beethoven's sonata, op. 27, No. 1. Yesterday she played the second work from the same opus. The Chopin nocturne, waltz, and ballad presented yesterday were also played on that occasion and the Schubert-Tausig "Marche Militaire" closed either program.

The comparison therefore is the more certain, particularly since the impressions of that first hearing have been cherished as ideals of what piano playing should be. The tone that was brilliant then has gained in variety, warmth, and sonority. The technical attainments that dazzled then have achieved that perfection by which technic disguises itself. The spirit that then spoke impetuously, as though itself overwhelmed by the beauty it revealed, has learned that restraint that adds to eloquence. It seeks no and finds that satisfying completeness which is the goal of all artistic expression.

Thus poised and certain was the delivery of the fantasie and fugue. One felt that one heard the "Moonlight" sonata as the composer himself heard it in his heart. And it is quite certain that glamour of romance that was evoked by the spell of the Chopin numbers was a faultless illusion of art. The same exquisite poetry of tone belongs to Schubert and to the B flat major impromptu, though no one else can so fully discover it to the listener. The Handel variations of Brahms were not distorted into a virtuoso display piece after the manner of the present, but were read in a spirit of wholesome delight in a beauty at once vigorous and contemplative.

Mme. Carreño never fails to remember her pupil, Edward MacDowell, though some of his countrymen are forgetting that his genius brought American composition its first universal recognition. Yesterday she showed the many students present how his etude entitled "Witches Dance" should be played. She did the same for the two Chopin etudes op. 25 in G flat and A flat, which were added as encores after the Chopin group. And as for the "Marche Militaire," no one else should play it, for none can match her delivery of this most brilliant of bravoura pieces.

Mme. Carreño will give a second recital in the Studebaker theater on the afternoon of Sunday, April 5.

MME. TERESA CARREÑO

Miss Anita Carranza, soprano; Miss Sallye Leake, pianist, and Miss Elizabeth Harting, violinist, were heard in recital in the Fine Arts theater. Miss Leake, in two preludes and fugues from Bach's "Well Tempered Clavichord," displayed a well developed technic. Miss Harting showed excellent taste, ample command of her instrument, and a tone of good quality in the Vieuxtemps, "Fantasia Appassionata." Miss Carranza, in an attractive group of Mexican folk songs, proved that her pleasing mezzo-soprano voice has been fairly well trained. It still inclines toward a vibrato when used with its full power, but its lighter inflections profit by a well poised tone.

Change of Opera Bill.

"Carmen" has been substituted for "Fedora," which was announced for performance, but which, because of the continued illness of Mme. Cavalieri, may possibly be dropped from the repertory of the Chicago opera for this season. Mme. Julia Claussen will assume the title rôle in Bizet's opera. She is famous as an interpreter of Carmen in Sweden and her appearance should be interesting. The Don José of the cast will be Lucien Muratore. Hector Dufranne will be the Escamillo and Alice Zeppilli the Micaela.

Churches and Religious Affairs.

Go to Church Sunday to Benefit All Sects.

"GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY," which is to be observed Feb. 1, is the subject to be discussed at the mass meeting of church leaders to be held this noon in the red room of the Hotel La Salle.

"Representatives of nearly every religious interest will be present to help plan for the biggest congregations that ever filled the Chicago churches," said A. G. Fegert, president of the Chicago Christian Endeavor union, who issued the call for the meeting. "The churches of Chicago through its duly appointed representatives on the executive committee will conduct this campaign. All churches, we believe, will benefit as a result of the campaign."

A meeting of the executive committee of the "Go to Church Sunday" campaign will be held this morning at 9:30 o'clock to plan the order of business for the noon meeting and to elect its officers.

The executive committee consists of the following:

The Rev. Samuel J. Skevington, representing the Baptists.

The Rev. Peter J. O'Callaghan, representing the Catholics. It is planned to have three other representatives from the Catholic church.

Dr. Emil G. Hirsch, representing the Jewish congregations.

The Rev. Frank A. Hosmer, representing the Presbyterians.

President Fegert will call the meeting to order.

One of the plans that will be proposed is to organize an advisory council on which the bishops of the various churches and representatives of the business interests will be asked to serve.

All the people of Chicago will be asked to pray at noon each day until "Go to Church Sunday," Feb. 1, for the success of the plan.

Memorial for Dr. George W. Gray.

A great bank of roses yesterday filled the seat in the Auditorium formerly occupied by the late Dr. George W. Gray, associate pastor of Central church and founder of the Forward movement. Dr. Gray died a few days ago, and the service was a memorial for him, with a special sermon by Dr. Frank W. Gunsaulus and a musical program made up of the hymns Dr. Gray liked best.

Dr. Gunsaulus announced the morning collection would be for the aid of the Forward movement. It was of Dr. Gray's services in founding this that he spoke most feelingly.

"Could these people whom Dr. Gray has aided come into this room in a body, to occupy these seats," he said, "there would be no place for this congregation. Little children will miss him, crippled children, and mothers. His was a forward movement, indeed; there was no room in all his nature for anarchy or anarchistic thought; and I have seen the sweet influences of that nature thrown about such characters as he found and that were sent to him until the most unholy lives of desperate men were transformed and turned from worthlessness to the glory and good of God and man."

Abbot Gasquet to Visit Chicago.

The Rt. Rev. Abbot Gasquet, who has been appointed by Pope Pius X. to conduct the work of the revision of the Bible, will visit Chicago on Jan. 25. Abbot Gasquet is head of the English Benedictine Order of Monks. The Order of the Knights of Columbus was designated by Pope Pius X. as sponsor for the abbot's tour of America, and his reception and entertainment here is being arranged for by that order.

Oak Park Y. M. C. A.

The second annual physical department demonstration of the Oak Park Y. M. C. A. will be held in that place on New Year's night at 8 o'clock. Calisthenics, wrestling, gymnastics, and games will be given.

St. Mary's Episcopal Church at Park Ridge Dedicated.

ST. MARY'S EPISCOPAL CHURCH at Park Ridge was dedicated yesterday with services which began with the celebration of the Holy Eucharist at 7:30, followed by a full choral Eucharist at 10:30, with a sermon by Bishop Charles P. Anderson and a choral even song with a sermon by the Rev. George Craig Stewart, rector of St. Luke's church, Evanston. In connection with the morning service six persons were confirmed.

The priest in charge of the new church is the Rev. Charles David Atwell, who was appointed to the church Nov. 1, 1910.

The cost of the church was $25,000. The principal donors were Miss Mary A. Wilson, C. H. Penny and sister of Park Ridge and Mrs. Arthur Penny formerly of Park Ridge, now a resident of California.

An interesting feature in the construction of the church is the work of Mr. Atwell, who carved the corner stone and also a credence of Bedford stone inserted in the sanctuary wall near the altar. The credence was designed as a memorial to his parents, and also Mrs. Atwell. The clergyman has made the carving of stone one of his diversions and accomplishments. A memorial window picturing the Annunciation, which is now being made in London, will be placed over the altar at Easter by Mrs. Arthur Penny as a memorial to her husband.

The building is of brick, with stone trimmings. The old church has been moved to the rear and fitted as a parish house for Sunday school and social uses.

The Methodist Episcopal church of Glen Ellyn was dedicated yesterday by the Rev. John Thompson, district superintendent. Bishop W. F. McDowell, who was to have preached the dedication sermon in the morning, was prevented from being present by reason of an operation which he underwent at the Evanston hospital on Christmas eve. The congregation sent a telegram to Bishop McDowell expressing sympathy and prayers for his complete recovery.

Bishop McDowell's place in the morning was taken by the Rev. Edgar Blake, secretary of the board of Sunday schools of the Methodist Episcopal church. The afternoon sermon was preached by the Rev. Ernest Wray Oneal, pastor of the First Methodist church, Chicago. Dr. Thompson preached in the evening and dedicated the church.

During the day $6,000 was subscribed, after appeals by the Rev. James Rowe. The church cost $17,000. The new church takes the place of the one built in 1900, which was sold to the German Evangelical congregation. The Rev. Aubrey S. Moore has been pastor of the new church for the last three years.

Mission Conference Opens Wednesday.

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 28.—Kansas City is going to be a college town this weeek. Five thousand college students from 800 universities and colleges in the United States and Canada will be here on Wednesday to attend the student volunteer convention for foreign missions. In addition students from fifteen foreign nations will be here.

Besides William J. Bryan, secretary of state, prominent speakers include: Dr. Samuel M. Zwemer of Cairo, Egypt, editor of the Moslem World; Dr. Robert E. Speer, secretary of the Presbyterian board of foreign missions; Dr. J. A. MacDonald, editor of the Toronto Globe; the Rev. J. Ross Stevenson, pastor of Brown Memorial church of Baltimore; and Dr. Harlan P. Beach, professor of missions at Yale university.

Kansas City residents have provided free accommodation in their homes for practically all of the delegates.

There will be no official action taken on any questions.

The student volunteer movement is a recruiting agency for all denominational church boards. It creates the stimulus in the colleges that leads students to take up work as foreign missionaries.

Christian Science Lecture.

Bicknell Young, C. S. B., of Chicago, member of the board of lectureship of the Mother church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass., will deliver a lecture in the edifice of Sixth Church of Christ, Scientist, 11321 Prairie avenue, this evening at 8 o'clock. The lecture is free to the public.

One of the "Beauties" to Be in Yale Plays.

S. P. DODGE, 1914, AS AQUES IN FRITZCHEN

YALE undergraduates will appear in feminine rôles at the Ziegfeld theater tomorrow, when the Yale Dramatic association will present three one act plays.

Matinée and evening performances will be given. The plays to be presented are: "Shades of Night," by R. Marshall; "Fritzchen," by Herman Sudermann; and "Gringoire," from the pen of Theodore de Banville.

Two of the leading parts in "Fritzchen" will be played by S. P. Dodge, '14, as Aques, and Rufus F. King, in the rôle of Fritz von Drosse. Another part will be taken by Newbold Noyes, a son of Frank B. Noyes, formerly of Chicago. The entire cast of characters for all three plays comprises twelve parts.

The members of the Chicago committee are Edward L. Ryerson Jr., A. D. Farwell, and Julian S. Mason. The boxholders for the evening performance are Mrs. Cyrus Bentley, Mrs. Charles Holden, Mrs. Bernard F. Rogers, Mrs. Homer A. Stillwell, and De Forest Hulburd. Parties will be given by Mrs. William Derby Jr., Mrs. E. W. Spencer, Mrs. Frank Farwell, Mrs. George Isham, Mrs. Charles Spalding, Mrs. Alexander Revell, Mrs. W. R. Linn, and Mrs. George Payson.

Memorial Services Postponed.

Annual memorial services in honor of the departed members of the George H. Thomas post, G. A. R., which were to be held in Memorial hall yesterday afternoon, have been postponed until a week from next Sunday. Duncan C. Milner was scheduled to deliver an address on "The Unfinished Task," but he announced that because of the Christmas rush of mail, notices which had been sent last Wednesday to relatives of the members of the post did not reach them in time, and as a result they were not in Chicago yesterday to attend the proposed services.

How to Earn Money at Home.

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

MONDAY morning is a good time to start to work, isn't it? Sometimes I think that's the reason Monday became the national washing day. You don't mind doing hard work on Monday, but on Saturday, for instance, you have a feeling you'd like to brush back your hair, put on a clean white apron, and sit in the parlor and entertain callers. Monday morning has such a workaday busyness about it that you feel kind of ashamed when you, too, don't work, don't you?

What time could be more appropriate for you to get right down to your work than Monday morning? You can get the dishes put away and the beds made and the dusting done, and then you can have all of the rest of the morning for your work.

This little home worker has written such a good letter about her work I'm sure you'll want to read it. It gave me much pleasure, and it will delight you, too:

"My kitchen table is my fortune. If I didn't have a great big kitchen table with leaves to be put into it to make it larger I never could have made the money that I have made. No, I'm not a cook. I wish I were sometimes. Good things to eat are so attractive and everybody seems to want them so much. But I never learned to cook anything more than the everyday things.

"My line is sewing. I make all sorts of clothes for all sorts of people. I have had the most profit from my lingeries, but all of my sewing is entirely the work of my kitchen table. The profit in making anything is almost doubled if you are careful in the use of your materials. I think more of us waste material than we have any idea of. For instance, if I hadn't had a large space to lay my patterns on I never should have been able to plan my work so as to use every bit of my material. But that is just what I did. My nice big table would allow me to lay our three yards of goods, and I could lay the patterns on cut the goods, and I could see just the best possible way of cutting.

"I bought my nainsook and longcloth and flannelette in bolts always so I could get the best advantage from the goods. All of the trimming I bought in large quantities, too. I used practically no trimming, however, only a little around the neck and armholes, because I decided that lingerie is best untrimmed. And that proved to be true when it came to selling my work.

"Of the scraps that were left over—there were a few—I made little lace edged covers for shields. Of course there are many things scraps of pretty soft white goods may be used for, but I didn't have time to do any embroidering, so I didn't try to do anything fancy with them.

"What I wanted most to tell you is that right now I have many orders for spring lingeries, besides some orders left over for warm flannelette nightgowns and petticoats I couldn't promise for Christmas. Isn't that fine? When I stop to think of all of the money and success my kitchen table has brought me I think I ought to find some way of telling it how grateful I am. But I can't seem to make it understand. It just looks up at me blankly and goes on about its useful business!"

Isn't that an interesting letter? Doesn't it make you want to begin to make friends with your kitchen table? Why don't you?

"What have kitchen tables and sewing got to do with Monday morning?" I can hear some of you say. They haven't any more to do with Monday morning than with any other morning or any afternoon, to be sure. But why not make their acquaintance on Monday morning? What better time could you think of to start them in their work? This very day get your work on its way.

There's a little booklet you will want if you haven't one or if you have lost the one you had. It's called "A Hundred Ways to Earn Money at Home," and it tells how a hundred home workers turned their kitchen tables or whatever other household help they had and their Mondays and all of their other days into money. If you'll just put your name and address on a post card and send it to me I'll see the booklet goes off to you post haste.

Willard Hall Noonday Meetings.

The Rev. Walter Russell, an evangelist, will speak today, tomorrow, and Wednesday at the Willard hall noonday meetings. Dr. O. S. Davis will be the teacher at the Friday Sunday school lesson. On Saturday the regular prayer and praise service will be held.

"WHITE SLAVE" FILM DRAWS PROTEST FROM AGED MAN.

"No Decent Person Would Allow It," Says Member of Invited Gathering at Motion Picture Exhibition.

A specially invited gathering at the Ziegfeld theater yesterday almost unanimously disapproved of the "white slave" motion picture.

When Paul Bern, a representative of a New York sociological society, read a telegram from New York saying that "all leading scientists are in favor of the film," a white haired man arose and shouted, "That's a lie."

"Is it?" asked the speaker. "Why?"

"Because no decent person would allow such a film to be shown and no decent person would sign such a telegram," shouted the old man.

"That man ought to be thrown out," said a number of women.

In spite of the anger at the old man's outbreak, few signed the petition circulated by the management asking permission for public exhibition.

Ald. Henry P. Bergen and Ald. James A. Kerns declared permission ought not to be given.

W. L. Bodine, president of the Chicago Public Service league and superintendent of compulsory education, also refused to sign.

"There is nothing indecent so far as I can see," said Mrs. Herman Landauer, one of the woman's committee which saw the film at the city hall a few days ago. "Certain unsophisticated women ought to see it, but it ought not to be shown in theaters to all women."

CHASE MOTORCYCLE RIDER AFTER HE INJURES BOY.

Spectators Pursue and Policeman on Car Finally Arrests Youth Whose Machine Had Knocked Down Child.

Twenty persons joined in pursuit of Alfred Timm, 872 North Paulina street, when he failed to stop after he had knocked down and injured with his motorcycle Joseph Czech, a boy of 9 years, of 1646 Centennial place, at North Paulina and West Huron streets yesterday.

Timm went slowly and seemed to have trouble with the machine. The crowd of pursuers grew as Timm approached West Chicago avenue and North Paulina street. There Park Policeman Otto Olson alighted from a car.

CROSS GLEAMS ON CHURCH.

Crowd Attracted by Electric Symbol on Peak of New First Congregational Church.

A brilliantly illuminated cross, standing fifteen feet high on the peak of the new First Congregational church at Ashland and Washington boulevards, was displayed last night for the first time. A Christmas cantata was sung in the church and a crowd gathered in Union park, over which the cross towers.

Autos Cause Two Deaths.

Correctionville, Ia., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—David Short was killed last night at Pierson when his buggy was struck by an auto driven by Ed Miller. Niel Bernard of Ida Grove was killed when his auto turned over. Three other occupants of the car were seriously hurt.

A New Year's Gift

One of the most appropriate gifts for the New Year, for both young and old, is a bank book with an account opened in favor of the recipient.

This bank issues pass books upon the receipt of $1.00 or more for each account, and will mail them to any address or deliver them as directed.

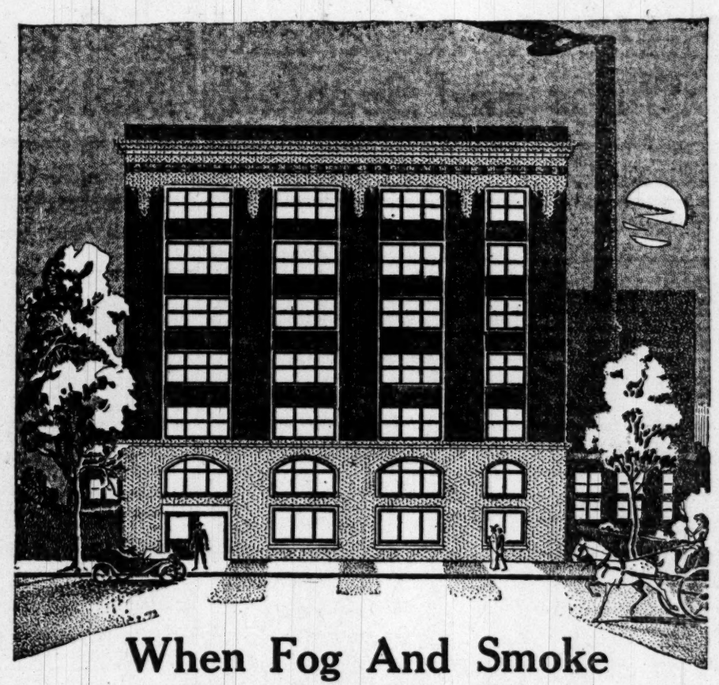

A savings account with this bank at 3% compound interest encourages thrift and economy, teaches businesslike methods, and furthermore, acts as a most practical safeguard against the hour of need.

When Fog And Smoke Shut Out The Sun and a million factory lights burn in the day time—who worries the least?

Answer—the factory manager who depends upon

Gas Arc Lights

The Light Which Costs But One Cent An Hour For Each 350 Candle Power Unit

It's the "reason why" behind the installation of 100,000 Gas Arcs in Chicago factories.

A "Factory Arc" is 350 candle power strong—less than one cent's worth of gas will run a single arc one hour—and four arcs will light a room of 1,200 square feet.

The possible saving is a mighty big item—it runs from hundreds in small factories to thousands in big ones.

If you haven't investigated the matter—and the economy appeals to you—drop us a line or phone us. We will gladly send you our printed Gas Arc data—or, if you wish we can send an expert to submit specific figures on your particular requirements.

The opening performance of "Fanny's First Play," to be given tonight at the Blackstone theater, is to be a benefit for the School of Domestic Arts and Sciences. This afternoon the English players of the company are to be given a tea at 4 o'clock at the school, 177 North State street. The women having the tea in charge include Mrs. David Noyes, Mrs. J. D. Kales, Mrs. James Barnet, Miss Grace Dixon, Mrs. Henry Harper, Mrs. Henry Jennings Smith, Mrs. Seymour Morris, Mrs. A. C. Bartlett, and Mrs. W. W. Augur.

MRS. WALTER O. FORD is to be hostess at a large party tomorrow at the South Shore Country club. She will have several hundred guests at luncheon and the afternoon will be devoted to bridge. She will be assisted in receiving and entertaining by Mrs. F. M. Stresenreuter, Mrs. Marshall L. Brown, Mrs. E. Sylvester Smith, Mrs. H. F. Debower, Mrs. Ricord Gradwell, Mrs. Fred A. Britten, Mrs. Egbert H. Gold, and Mrs. Sherman L. Smith.

Many Box Parties at the Opera and Orchestra

THE afternoon performance of the opera on Saturday proved the same big drawing card as for previous matinées. Mrs. Maldwin Drummond made her first appearance at the opera since coming to the city, when she was the guest of Mrs. Stanley Field in the latter's box, Mrs. L. C. Huck and Mrs. George McLaughlin being the other members of the party. Mrs. Charles A. Munroe was hostess to Mrs. Cyrus Adams Jr., Mrs. Harry Higinbotham, Mrs. Francis Dickinson, and Mrs. Stuart Logan. Miss May Peabody, bride to be, who has been so widely feted, was a box hostess, her party including Mrs. Mason Phelps, Mrs. David Thompson, Mrs. Laurance Armour, Mrs. Charles Counselman, and Miss Anita Healy. George F. Porter again was a host, his guests including Mr. and Mrs. John A. Carpenter, Miss Mary Waller, and Douglas Dodge Jr.

Mrs. W. W. Kimball, Mrs. John C. Black, Mrs. Charles Garfield King, Mrs. Richard Crane Jr., and Mrs. William Odell were guests of Mrs. Warren Salisbury, and Mrs. Martin A. Ryerson was hostess to Mrs. Charles R. Crane, Mrs. Charles B. Cory, Miss Ilbert, Miss Beatrice Butler, and Mrs. Arthur R. Elliott. Mrs. J. F. Heyworth had a party which included Mrs. Andrews, Mrs. Louis Mowry, Mrs. Walter Bridgman, and Mrs. James Heyworth. Mrs. Frank Gorton, Mrs. Clarence Peck, and Miss Jane Cox were with Mrs. George M. Pullman, and Mrs. R. Hall McCormick had as her guests Mrs. Russell Tyson, Mrs. George Higginson, Mrs. Christina King Pomeroy, Mrs. Robert Herrick, and Mrs. Robert H. McCormick Jr. Mrs. B. L. Winchell's guests were Mrs. David F. Conover, Mrs. Josiah McRoberts, Mrs. Charles Pope, Mrs. Charles Adsit, and Mrs. B. L. Winchell Jr.

The Saturday night audience at Orchestra hall—for the regular concert of the Symphony orchestra—had added interest in the fact that many of the former Chicagoans who had come on from distant homes to spend the holidays with relatives, were in the boxes or seats. For instance, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Sprague had in their box their daughter, Mrs. F. S. Coolidge of Pittsfield, Mass., and Albert Sprague Coolidge, her son, with Mr. and Mrs. Ray Atherton. Mrs. Coolidge, who is widely known as a musician, never misses an orchestra evening when she is in the city. For Saturday evening she wore a gown of rose charmeuse with a hem band of marten. Over the gown fell a long drape lace, the bodice also of the lace, finished with a bit of the fur. Around the shoulders was thrown a heavy lace scarf. Mrs. Atherton's gown was of rose velvet, combined with satin of London smoke and lace.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ayer were hosts to Miss Margaret Bliss, a young missionary from India, whose mother was a former Miss Blatchford of Chicago. In this party also were Edward Blatchford and Dr. and Mrs. F. S. Johnson. An interesting guest of the evening also was Mrs. Clinton Locke, who wore a gown of black satin and a cap of black velvet covered with a network of pearls and finished with pearl drops. Mrs. Locke was with Mrs. Stella Loring, Miss Ada Emmiett, Miss Willis of New Orleans, and Master Locke McKenzie.

Three interesting debutante teas were given on Saturday afternoon. One was that of Mrs. Charles Edward Murison of 1225 East Fiftieth street, who introduced her two daughters, Misses Dorothy and Josephine Murison. Assisting in receiving was Mrs. Murison's sister, Mrs. Albert Crane Barnes, and about the room and serving tea were Mrs. Charles S. Deneen, Mrs. Henry M. Curtis, Mrs. Godfrey Ball, Mrs. Jesse Holdom, Mrs. John Schwender, Mrs. Clinton Merrick, Mrs. Stanley Gale Harris, Miss Gertrude Deming, Miss Elizabeth Hurd, Miss Pauline Dole, Miss Elizabeth Allbright, Miss Rachael Embree, Miss Marion Murison, Miss Frances Hooper, Miss Louise Ball, Miss Helen Higbee, Miss Cecelia Russell, Miss Kathryn Clark, Miss Hildegard Ware, Miss Elizabeth Webster, and Miss Levise Becker. A dance followed, given by Mr. and Mrs. S. N. Hurd in honor of the debutantes.

The Misses Edith and Inez Bolter made their bow to society at the tea given by their mother, Mrs. J. C. Bolter, at the family home. Those assisting in receiving were Mrs. Charles Giddings, Miss Caroline Allport, Miss Katherine Shannon, Miss Charlotte Fisher, Miss Reed Askin, Miss Beatrice Hayse, Miss Lois Hoover, Miss Helen Howe, Miss Clarise Judd, Miss Lillian Mullen, Miss Marie Mills, Miss Lonore Ray, Miss Marjorie Sieh, Miss Lloyda Smith, Miss Marion Scully, Miss Margaret Whitney, and Miss Jean Marion Putney of Waukesha, Wis. Mrs. Bolter will give a dinner-dance for her daughters on Friday.

Mrs. Oliver Wendell Holmes of 3930 Pine Grove avenue introduced her daughter, Miss Mildred Holmes, at a reception given at the Blackstone hotel on Saturday afternoon. Miss Holmes wore a gown of pale pink chiffon, with crystal and lace overdrape, and Mrs. Holmes' gown was of silver llama lace over violet brocade crêpe.

The marriage of Miss Mary Gault Manson of Evanston to Lieut. Nolan V. Ellis, Fort Leavenworth, Kas., took place Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. Charles Graves, 1047 Forest avenue, Evanston. Mrs. R. Chapin of New York City acted as matron of honor, and serving as best man was Hal Bennett. Miss Manson was given away by her brother, Edward Randall. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. George Craig Stewart of St. Luke's Episcopal church. Lieut. Ellis is stationed at Fort Leavenworth and will make his home there.

Evanston is having a series of evening musicals arranged by Mrs. Charles F. Dwight, to be given in the Evanston Woman's club at 8:15 on the following days, and with the following artists: Dec. 30, Rosina Galli, premiere danseuse, Chicago opera, and Leon Sametini, violinist; Jan. 20, Loraine Wyman, soprano, "Chansons en Crinoline"; Feb. 10, to be announced later.

One of the most striking groups in the pageant at the artists' fête ball on Jan. 9 will be the twentieth century faddists in charge of Miss Marjorie Edwards of 5244 University avenue. Members of the group will include Miss Edna Dixon, Miss Frances Kemp, Miss Elsie Dixon, Miss Catherine Stout, Miss Leonore Hoyne, Miss Virginia Partridge, Miss Gertrude Deming, Miss Roberta Rouse of Baltimore, and Kenneth Edwards, Earl Reynolds, Donald Edwards, Clarence Hogue, Edward A. Walter, William Burrows, Joseph Canby, and F. Alexander Rogers. They will wear the extreme and exaggerated costumes of the present day styles, tiny hats, tall feathers, and narrow skirts with minarets.

Rehearsals will begin today for the Deborah Woman's club play, "Skits and Sketches," which will be given at Powers' theater on Sunday, Jan. 25, for the benefit of the various philanthropic interests of the organization.

Magnetic Sea Survey Nearing Completion.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 28.—When the non-magnetic yacht Carnegie dropped anchor at Brooklyn, N. Y., Dec. 19, concluding a voyage of more than three years' duration, the gigantic task undertaken by the Carnegie Institution of Washington eight years ago to make a complete magnetic survey of the globe was two-thirds accomplished.

Already virtually all of the data gathered in nearly 150,000 miles of voyaging is in the hands of hydrographers, and much of it now is in use by shipmasters of the seven seas.

Prof. L. A. Bauer, director of the department of terrestrial magnetism of the institution and originator of the project for the survey, has prepared his report for 1913, which he made public today.

It includes the data of the most recent voyage of the Carnegie and a chart showing the wanderings of that vessel and its predecessor in the work, the Galilee.

Will Strengthen Characters.

New York, Dec. 28.—A course of instruction in keeping New Year's resolutions is the object of a class that will open on Jan. 2 in the west side branch of the Young Men's Christian association of this city.

"Many are made, but few are kept," according to Dr. Louis R. Welzmiller, physical instructor, speaking of the annual resolutions. Dr. Welzmiller will conduct the class, founding his teachings on experiences of youths who have been unable to carry out their first of the year purposes.

"Most men 'fall down' on their resolutions, not so much because of weak will power as depleted and rundown muscular and nervous systems," Dr. Welzmiller said in announcing the plan today. "If the muscular system is flabby the thoughts will be flabby. If the nervous system is all a-twitch the will power will be in like condition."

Golden Wedding Anniversary.

The golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Sairclough of 5058 Sheridan road, will be celebrated on Monday. Owing to a recent illness of Mrs. Sairclough plans for a reception to be given by the couple on that date have been eliminated.

Mrs. Sairclough, whose maiden name was Minnie Calkins, was born in New York, while the birthplace of her husband was at Liverpool, England. They were married at Moline, Ill. They have two children, Mrs. H. W. Good of Portland, Ore., and William Henry Sairclough Jr. of Chicago. There are also a number of grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Sairclough have been residents of Chicago for the last thirty years. For twenty-eight years Mr. Sairclough was connected with the Commonwealth Edison company, retiring about four years ago.

New Year's at the Press Club.

The Press club of Chicago has outlined an elaborate program of entertainments for New Year's eve. Henry Irving Greene has written a farce comedy skit which will be enacted by club members.

The sketch is a unique and seasonable feature of a bill containing Richard Carle, Raymond Hitchcock, and other theatrical stars. It is said to be an unusual caricature of the "going out of the old year and the coming in of the new."

A special bill of fare has been arranged for the holiday dinner, and the main dining room will be used for dancing after the performance.

Give Christmas Cantata.

The Christmas cantata "Bethlehem," presented yesterday in Holstein park by the Harvester chorus under auspices of the Civic Music association of Chicago, was heard by 500 persons. The chorus is directed by Mrs. Bertha Smith Titus. Tomorrow night the association is to have charge of the Christmas carols concert by the Lyceum Arts quartet in Eckhart park.

Offers Picture Cards.

"I NOTICE some one has a zither to give away. I should like to have it, if not already given away. I have a large number of picture cards which I will give to any one who wants them.
"A. M."

I regret to say that the zither is no longer in our gift. Will other solicitors for the privilege of possessing the instrument kindly accept this in reply to their letters? The post cards will be especially acceptable at Yuletide. We thank you for them.

May Be Fault of Sugar.

"Mrs. Phœbe M. wants help to locate her brother. Tell her to look in the detention hospital, as we lost a friend and found him there. When jelly won't 'jell' and the frosting doesn't work right you may have used beet sugar. Be sure to use cane sugar. If you know of any one wanting magazines please send him or her to me. The beet sugar will not harden in jelly or in forsting, and I do not think it will keep fruit good in cane. ALICE S. A."

Will the sister who is looking for her brother note the sensible suggestion of our correspondent? Regarding the second suggestion, let me say that in the course of several years' housekeeping in foreign lands I learned that beet sugar is not so sweet as cane. We had to allow for this in making cakes, puddings, jellies, etc. What you assert as to its deficiencies in other respects is interesting.

Would Exchange Letters.

"I write to ask if you could put me into touch with a girl about my age (19 or 20), living on a farm, who would care to exchange letters with me? DOROTHY."

We have had the good fortune to bring about many pleasant and mutually beneficial correspondences. That you propose should be agreeable and helpful. There is no surer way of getting at the inner self of an acquaintance than by the exchange of letters written freely and frankly.

Would Aid Needy Family.

"I should like to help a few children with their music, in exchange for house plants, a bird, old clothes, or a Bible that I wish to send to a needy family who live in the country and are in sore need. MRS. McD."

The address of the child lover is in our hands. Don't insist upon the exchange. If you can brighten the lives of the country children by the gift of a flower, a root, a packet of seeds or bulbs, a book or two, or a Bible, do not wait until you can get something in return.

An Old Sunday School Book.

"For a year or two I have been searching for a Sunday school book called 'Fresh Laurels.' I wonder if I can find it among some of the readers of the Corner? I do not know who the author is or by whom it was published. It was used in our Sunday school in the early '70s. If some one can send it to me I'll gladly pay the postage and will return the favor if I possibly can. I will send patterns for crocheted bedspread. If the one who asked for it will write to me I'll gladly supply her if she will say which she wants—whether the one set together with linen or squares or octagon olocks. She is R. C. W. A. B. L."

We shall probably find the book for you. Referred. Mrs. R. C. W. has secured her pattern from another worker. Should she wish to profit by your offer we will put you into communication with her.

Offers to Help.

"Kindly forward the address of A. M L., who desires a remedy for alcoholism. I may be able to assist him. MRS. W. L. C."

Supplies a Needy Boy.

"I have long wanted to offer my mite, but it is little I have to give except lots of good wishes to all. I read the request of Mrs. G. R. B. for boys' books and it spurred me to action. Please let me have her address. I have an electric belt, small size, sixty books, seventy-five picture cards, etc., that might please some child; a copy of 'Macbeth' in cloth binding, selected poems and other books; also some canceled postage stamps. I will await a reply from you.
"MRS. M."

The address you desire went to you promptly. The electric belt and some of the books have gone to a boy who needed them sorely. The rest of your catalogued benefactions will be reached after eagerly by readers.

Brown Betty.

Mix one-half cup sugar, one teaspoon nutmeg, grated rind of one lemon; add pint soft bread crumbs and two tablespoons butter. Prepare three pints sliced sour apples, butter a bake dish, put in a layer of crumbs, then of apple and sugar, the crumbs on top. If apples are not juicy add one-half cup water, bake slowly, covered at first, until apples are done. Serve with cream or hard sauce.—Kindness of M.

Indian Names and Their Meaning.

"Will you kindly publish in your Corner a list of Indian names and their meanings? I have joined a club in which every girl must have an Indian name and thought perhaps you might help me. Any suggestions that you may be able to give will be appreciated. M. L. M."

We might fill this page with names and their meanings without hitting upon two that would please you. Write to the Indian department of the Smithsonian institution, Washington, D. C., explaining your object and ask for a list of names and definitions. The officials in that department are uniformly courteous in replying to queries. You can there learn what you would know with respect to Indian names and their significance.

Limpness Disappearing in Neck Accessories.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—In the wake of starched neck frills comes starched neck collars, stiffer and more formidable all the time. For there is no noticeable softening in neck accessories. On the contrary, their limpness is disappearing and in its place there is coming a certain militancy which is showing itself in starched frills and collars which peep out from beneath furs and velvets, framing the face with their pure linen whiteness in extremely picturesque fashion. For fine white linen of the best quality is being used for these collars, which are both hemmed and hemstitched, with their edges stiffened and pointed, sometimes in three and sometimes in five points.

The shape of these collars, however, differs widely. Sometimes they are wide in the back and high enough to be glimpsed over the fur neck piece. Then they rise abruptly under the ears and slope down again in the front, forming a generous V in the front with the extreme ends terminating in a tiny little waistcoat affair.

The feminine note can be seen in these still, however, in the tiny lace edges which some women are insisting on wearing, refusing to wear the hard line of the starched whiteness against their faces. This narrow soft lace is a charming anomely on the stiff neck piece. Examples of this style are rather in the minority so far though.

Along with the introduction of the starched collar comes the bowler hat. There is no special reason for classing them together except that they are of the same militant variety and the same sort of woman will be the quickest to take them up. It seems a far cry, too, from the wide and graceful picturesque hat which all the old masters of art decreed as the only fitting style to wear with the low corsage, this stiff shaped crown rising abruptly from the right, left, and back sides, and closely imitating a man's bowler.

These masculine looking hats may be trimmed in almost any conceivable fashion and it is often in their trimming that their saving note lies. Towering plumes that cross each other at a distance of a foot and a half above the crown and silky, droopy pompons that perch over each ear, or again graceful paradise that poise themselves at all and any angles.

One good looking costume shown here lately by a smart couturier in the Rue de la Paix of serge was made up in extreme simplicity and had for its one note of smartness an exaggeratedly high and stiff starched linen collar. It rose half a foot in the back, dropped to three inches at the sides, and then sloped down to a V in the front. Indeed, many of the new street frocks have only the stiff collar for trimming, no other accessories being added.

Incidentally speaking of serges this material, which had been in considerable disfavor for the last two years, is being taken up again by many of the modish designers. For street wear it is really of tremendous value, as it will stand any amount of brushing and cleaning and still look well. A ratine costume, on the other hand, with two months' wear is likely to look decidedly shabby. But these new serges possess the quality of durability at the same time that they are supple and have a fine gloss.

Doris Blake's Advice

By Doris Blake

The Plain vs. the Handsome Man.

"WHAT a handsome escort you arrived with, Eleanor," exclaimed an enthusiastic girl to her friend. "Is it a romance, dear?" she asked, teasingly.

"No romance there, Frances," the girl replied, laughingly. "He'd be much too handsome for my peace of mind."

The latter part of her remark seems hardly fair, but it is a fact that the women of today prefer to marry plain men. Physical beauty in woman must always prove a big force in her matrimonial ventures and gives her an undoubted advantage over her less favored sisters. But the same cannot be said of the other sex.

All women admire manly beauty. It is a pleasure to dance with or to be escorted by a handsome cavalier. But to marry! The plain man, endowed with good substantial qualities, is the one upon whom the maiden fixes her eye with encouraging glances. It does not necessarily imply that the chosen one must be ugly. Far from it. But particularly handsome men are apt to be avoided when matrimony looms near.

This is a bit hard on the handsome man, for in many cases he is not conceited and is endowed with all the good qualities of the "ugly duckling." But the feminine mind foresees that many jealousies arise on her side from such a match, and argues, perhaps rightly, that she will be more happy with one who has no delusions as to his own physical charms and is quite willing to let the worshiping be very one-sided.

Really, at the bottom of it all is woman's hatred of conceit in a man. As an old lady aptly put it, "It's bad enough to see a conceited girl, but ten times worse to see a man so afflicted."

The type of face that holds the strongest appeal to most women is the plain rugged type that has strength behind it, that could be firm and just and yet wonderfully tender.

Loves Him Very Dearly.

"Dear Miss Blake: I'm a young girl and I met a young man and whenever he sees me he pretends that he doesn't see me. I don't know if he likes me or not. And when he goes home he looks to see if I am looking and that is the only time he does look at me. I love him very dearly, but I don't think he likes me. Please tell me what to do. He is much older than I am. Is that why? HEARTBROKEN."

You are a very foolish young girl to "love him very dearly" when he doesn't even speak to you. Forget all about him.

Loves Baseball Player.

"Dear Miss Blake: I have been going with a nice young man for several months. Though he is a professional baseball player, he is very quiet and does not "cut up" like some of that class do. My mother is prejudiced against him because of his profession and says that I should have nothing to do with him. My father and brother think that this is unjust, for they both know and admire him. I am in doubt as to what I should do, so will you kindly tell me whether I should continue to see this man? Also, why should a ball player be any worse than a preacher. A READER.

All baseball players aren't alike any more than the men in any other profession are all alike. I think that your mother is a bit unjust. Can't your father and your brother convince your mother of the young man's uprightness?

Goes Away for Weeks at a Time.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am deeply attached to a young man who has called to see me on several occasions. He is very attentive to me while he is with me, but he will go for weeks without even seeing me or calling me up. Will you kindly advise how I can win his lasting affections? I would like to know as early as possible because it is a matter of great importance to me. DORIS."

The young man evidently does not love you. Stop caring about him. He likes you. Take his friendship if you want it, but do not try to win his love until he shows some signs of caring more for you than he does now.

Slips Off and Gets Drunk.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am a girl of 21. I have been keeping company with a boy two years older. I love him very much and hate to give him up but he slips off once or twice a week and gets drunk and goes with other girls. When I ask him about it he denies it and seems so honest about it I can't hardly believe it. I am anxious to know what to do. ELLEN."

If you are sure that he does such things, Ellen, have nothing more to do with him. But don't condemn him until you are sure that he is not telling you the truth when he denies that he has been so disgraceful in his actions.

She Smokes Cigarets.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am a young man of 20 and am deeply in love with a girl of the same age. She is very good looking and very nice, but my parents object to her because she smokes cigarets. Would you advise me to give her up? PERPLEXED."

You wouldn't like to have your wife smoke cigarets, I am sure. You had better follow your parents' advice and give her up.

The number of letters received daily from correspondents who wish to be answered through the columns of "The Tribune" is so large in comparison with the space allotted to those answers that there is necessarily some delay in replying to many of the questions asked of Miss Blake. If you wish a prompt reply inclose in your letter a stamped, addressed envelope.

Lillian Russell's Beauty Secrets.

By Lillian Russell

The Responsibility of Fashion.

[Copyright: 1913: By Lillian Russell.]

IT seems that the "craze" of fashion insists upon bringing forth new styles of face veilings, apparently designed with a view to doing the greatest possible harm to the complexion of women. I have written before of that style of face veil which has dots attached to it at regular intervals, or squares, and of the damage done to eyesight by these dots. And now a new veil has become the vogue. It is covered with solid figures of birds, of dragons, and what-nots. An open space is left at the bridge of the nose.

Unless a veil is worn for protection it should not be worn at all. There is nothing beautifying about a veil. But consider what will be the result of wearing veils which are covered with solidly worked figures of considerable size. The face will be exposed to wind or cold air only where the mesh covers it. The figures, being solid, will afford the protection of clothing to the skin. The skin will, therefore, become extremely tender where protected by the large figures, and will harden to the rigors of wind and weather where there are no figures.

To subject the face to the weather with such lack of equity will, of course, do much harm. The covering afforded by the large figures attached, or worked into the mesh, will render the skin beneath it extremely sensitive, and, unless great care is taken, will result in much harm to the complexion.

As to the novelty veil's enhancement of beauty, I fail to see where a large figure of a bird, a beast, or a reptile, worn against the face, can be of any value. Rather, it gives the wearer a freakish appearance, and is but a poor reflection of the intelligence of the woman who caters to the vogue, notwithstanding the cost.

Remember: Beauty does not consist in blindly adopting every novelty style or smart effect inflicted upon the public by fashion makers.

Lillian Russell's Answers.

E. K. H.: Vaseline is better for increasing the growth of the lashes than cocoa butter. Apply a little vaseline to the eyebrows at night before retiring. Rub it well into the roots. Cocoa butter is good for developing the bust. The cocoa butter must be warmed first so as to make it soft, then massage gently with it. The best thing to make your hair grow is a good tonic and scalp massage. Massage is the most important thing. Massage loosens the scalp and makes it flexible, thus giving the hair more nourishment. It does not take much time or patience to massage the scalp. Ten minutes at night is quite enough if done every night before retiring. A good tonic may be used with the massage. If you will send me a stamped, addressed envelope I shall send you the formula for hair tonic with instructions for scalp massage, instructions for developing the bust, and the tonic for eyebrows.

CATHERINE F.: Blackheads are not always caused from impure blood. They usually come from neglect. The pores fill up with dust and impurities and this must be coaxed out of them. To do this the face must be kept thoroughly cleansed. If you will send me a stamped addressed envelope I shall send you my green soap treatment for blackheads and formula for a good cleansing cream.

MRS. T. H.: The cold cream is used for cleansing the skin and the skin food for feeding the skin and building up the tissues. The cold cream is an excellent cleanser. It is best to cleanse the face with it at night before retiring. Never go to bed with powder and dust on your skin. This will cause blackheads.

MISS W.: If you are nervous I would advise you to give up the coffee. If you drink a great deal of coffee it will make the skin yellow. I cannot give you a nerve tonic, as I am not a physician, but I would advise you to consult your physician and get one from him.

Economical Housekeeping.

By Jane Eddington

Fats and Boiled Bacon.

THERE is no one food and body subject about which people are so blindly unintelligent as about the subject, or subjects, of fats as food and about fat formation in the body. To those who understand what a bit of fat will do for them in giving energy there is a perfect delight in eating two or three pats of sweet, delicious butter [best, unsalted]. They realize to the full that it will yield the needed energy for a happy day of work or play. They can count on its doing this as surely as they can count on a piece of silk's furnishing material for the making of a dainty garment.

Fat is widely distributed in foods. It is not only in meat and milk, but in all grains and nuts, in the olive, in the yolk of egg, in the leguminous vegetables. The indispensable products of milk, butter and cheese are respectively all fat, and fat in great proportion. A piece of beefsteak which seems to be free from all fat really will contain from 1 to 3 per cent.

Unless one has the misfortune to have the same physical idiosyncrasy as Jack Spratt, there are good reasons why we should ply ourselves with needed heat and energy by eating fat, digesting it completely, and using all of it for the day's needs. If we do not need it all, a little stored will be ready for a day of excessive activity.

Recently the following wicked bit of advice was seen pasted on a druggist's door: "Take ——— to keep fats from digesting." Now, to begin with, it is insulting and abusive to make our alimentary system carry anything it has no use for and can take no care of. Better swallow a few rocks, however, than to swallow anything which will disintegrate to some extent, and have to stay somewhere, though everywhere in the way. Besides, toxic fats make unhealthy body fats as surely as good fat makes healthy, if an excess of what is needed for energy and heat is eaten.

If we are not to digest fats, then why should we digest sugars and starches, or what are called carbohydrates? The chemical elements, carbon, hydrogen, and oxygen, which make these different substances are the same, only differently combined, just as "tea" and "ate" are made of the same letters. Moreover, the products of their oxidation (digestion and assimilation) are the same. Again, each can be formed from the other, and they perform the same functions in the body.

There is yet another function of fat food. It protects the precious, tissue-forming foods, or the tissues themselves, from being used up as mere fuel to supply heat and energy, a service for which they are far less effective than fat.

Fat is even twice as effective as carbohydrates. The heat-producing value of these two has been given as two and one quarter to one in favor of fat foods. The tissue-forming foods are our most expensive foods, and to burn them or the tissues themselves is like burning up the furniture of our houses instead of using coal or wood.

Besides butter and fat inevitable with the meat, a large number of people get a good deal of their day's energy by eating fat fried bacon. Bacon is quite generally recommended by the doctors. A person half sick can take it, and, if any one needs to be supplied with an energy-maker, that person is the one.

Bacon, however, is expensive. Have you tried brisket bacon at 20 cents a pound? You have to buy a piece weighing two pounds or more, and you need the guarantee that it is smoked with smoke and not with a brush. A piece of this boiled is excellent and wholesome.

The English use a great deal of boiled bacon to serve with greens. It is an economical dish, even for us. A fine, large, entirely unbleached head of curly endive, costing 5 cents, is enough for four people, large helpings. Or, use spinach. It is not necessary to serve it with the slices of bacon plastered over it like a cover to a haystack.

BOILED BACON.—If extremely salty, soak for an hour or two in warm water before boiling, first paring off the rusty parts and scraping the rind and underside clean. Put on in cold water; bring slowly to a boil; skim and simmer till done, one hour and a half for two or three pounds. Skin and treat like boiled ham if you choose.

CAUGHT ON RAILROAD TRESTLE; GIVES UP LIFE TO SAVE WOMEN.

Man Grabs Companions Around Waist on Bridge Near Hanson, Ill., Drops Them to Safety—Is Struck Himself.

Pana, Ill., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Tony Liueneanch last night gave up his life to save the lives of his sister, Miss Carrie Liueneanch, and Miss Lulu Sloat.

The three were crossing the Long Hollow trestle of the Clover Leaf railroad near Hanson. Half way across Liueneanch saw a train rapidly approaching. He grabbed each young woman around the waist and ran as rapidly as he could over the ties.

With the train almost on him, he dropped the girls to the soft bank of the stream, but was too late to save himself. The engine struck him and hurled his body into the creek below. He was dead before his body hit the water.

SPEEDING WAGON HITS CAR.

Fireman Standing in Vestibule Cut by Broken Glass—Drivers Held.

Martin Moran of 2113 Sheffield avenue, a city fireman, was cut by glass when a wagon swerved into the front vestibule of a Sedgwick street car at Center and Mohawk streets yesterday. Fred Schwarze of 1834 Cleveland avenue, who was riding on the wagon with his brother, Henry, was said to be racing. Both were thrown to the pavement. The Schwarze brothers were booked as speeders.

Faints in Bathtub.

A small gas water heater which burned up all the oxygen in the bathroom caused Nathan Weiner, 17 years old, 1013 Wells street, to swoon in the bath yesterday. Mrs. John Weiss, owner of the boarding house, found him and called the police. He soon revived.

The Last Three Days of Our Great Pre-Inventory Sales

These Sales Are Setting New Records for Value and for Brisk Selling

The savings afforded on the concluding days of these sales will be equally as emphatic, and in some cases even more so, than those which marked the opening days. More broken lines, incomplete assortments and odd lots of desirable and seasonable merchandise have been added. The greatly reduced prices indicate the intention to dispose of this merchandise before inventory.

Particular attention is called to the radical price reductions made on women's and misses' coats, suits, dresses and costumes. In value giving and desirability of merchandise this sale is our greatest.

SHOW GREAT ENTHUSIASM

BY JOSEPH C. FARRELL.
[White Sox Rooter.]

ON BOARD EMPRESS OF JAPAN, Tuesday, Dec. 9.—Once more we are afloat, bound for Nagasaki, which port will be reached at 2:30 o'clock. After the strenuous first day in Japan the boys were routed early from the Grand hotel in Yokohama to the ever present "rickey," to the waiting special train for Tokio, to more "rickeys" to the Keio park for the morning game against the greatest ball team in the world outside of the United States.

The game started promptly at 10 o'clock, and it wasn't one minute later before Japan was rocked from north to south and east to west with a spasm of delight. The second batter on the Keio team whacked a corking three bagger off Jim Scott and Keio university became a bedlam.

Never since the beginning of the world have so many kimonos been destroyed at one sitting. Then the run came over, something the picked world girdling team never looked for and something beyond the wildest dreams of the Keio boys themselves. The baseball grounds became a sight never to be forgotten by an energetic rag picker.

Jim Scott Invincible.

'Tis well the Japs took all the pleasure they could at that particular time, for they never had a chance thereafter. Jim Scott settled down and in the ninth inning sent the Keioites to the study hall under the impression that he had been kidding them all through the game, for he finished the ninth inning with nine balls, retiring the side on strikes. The great Sugase, idol of Japan, premier athlete, pitcher and batter, shattered the atmosphere with the force of his swings four times, but never touched the ball.

The great American team, selected from the best of the two squads by Callahan and McGraw, certainly looked great enough, with Jim Scott on the mound and going well, to defeat the world's champs. Scott, pitcher; Wingo, catcher; Merkle, Doyle, Doolan, and Lobert on the infield; and Magee, Crawford, and Speaker in the outer garden are a formidable aggregation.

McGraw an Optimist.

McGraw after the game spoke glowingly of the future of baseball in Japan, and was confident that the showing made by the best team in Japan against the Sox-Giant crew would be an impetus to the future advancement of the sport.

One of the interesting sidelights on the field that day was the appearance of McGraw on the first base coaching line and Callahan on third, directing the base runners. Shadow ball, a new practice idea perfected by both teams, in which they go through all of the practice motions at lightning-like speed without using a ball, brought whirlwinds of applause from the onlookers. This novel idea was interesting and excited no end of comment during the latter end of the world's tour in the United States, and the Sox-Giants will show it during the 1914 season around the large circuits.

During the three games played in Japan a remarkable fact noticed by a great many of the tourists was the great amount of patience and courtesy extended the players. Not a spectator left the seats until the last man was out in the ninth inning of each game.

Baseball Adopted by Japan.

A few facts concerning the history of baseball in Japan might prove interesting. In an interview granted yours truly upon the ball field during the game by Mr. Jiro Murao of the University of Keio, and called in Japan the "Father of Baseball," the question was asked as to what was now considered the national game of Japan. Mr. Murao spoke of having been in conference with Mr. President Kamado of Keio university, also the faculties of Waseda and the College of Peers and small colleges, all of whom are enthusiastic over baseball. As a result of these meetings and the desire to form a league Japan takes its place side by side with the United States as the first and only other nation to accept baseball as its national game. This should be interesting to the American fan, coming as it does from such high authority and lending the first international flavor to the sport. Sumo, Japanese wrestling, the former diversion, has been relegated to the background by baseball.

Baseball in Japan owes its success, firstly, to an American professor named Stoller, who taught the game at Keio to Murao over twenty-five years ago; and, secondly, to the indefatigable efforts of the "Father of Baseball," who toured the United States with the Keio team in 1911.

Sox Win Afternoon's Game.

The afternoon game was won by the Sox 12 to 9, after which a "rickey" to the Imperial hotel and a farewell banquet. The Imperial Japanese railway hauled the teams to Kobe in a special to catch our steamer, Empress of Japan.

During the morning ride through the interior of Japan the tourists passed hundreds of cemeteries, centuries old, where the head stones by the thousands stand a foot apart.

Though the Japs have advanced in leaps and bounds in many ways, the primitive way of carrying water in buckets on the end of long poles still is in vogue and hundreds of these carriers could be seen from the train windows.

Considerable difficulty and amusement was afforded the players in endeavoring to make their questions and wants understood in the dining car. This morning Fred Merkle wanted to know what was the most popular way of disposing of the dead in Japan.

"Do you bury your dead or cremate them?" asked Fred.

The Jap waiter bowed, kowtowed, salaamed, and silently shuffled to the pantry and returned with a bowl of rice.

Just then McGraw entered the diner and asked: "How long do we stay here?"

"Kidding" Emperor Frowned Upon.

The girdling players were inclined to be facetious in speaking of the emperor, but the intense silence and stiffening on the part of the dining car force warned them against further jocularity on this subject. It was afterward learned that the emperor is considered sacred, and it is a grave violation of the law to mention his name in any way at any time.

The train stopped at Osaka, where Shingori Takaishi of the Osaka Mainichi, the leading paper, made a long but eloquent talk in almost good English, and presented both teams with monstrous floral pieces. Callahan and McGraw responded.

The athletes desire to thank those Chicagoans who recommended Sanzo Nishikori, the Japanese guide and interpreter, who was with the party at all times and lived up to his Chicago reputation.

Arriving in Kobe, which is the quaintest of all the towns yet visited, we met the rest of the tourists, who came over by water, at the Oriental hotel, where they all flocked to see the only thing American-like so far seen, an elevator. It is the only one in Japan.

WHEN A FELLER NEEDS A FRIEND.

SEES TROUBLE FOR FEDERALS

DOUBTS INVADERS' BACKING

Big Sum Needed to Secure Major League Stars and Ball Parks.

BY SAM WELLER.

That the Federal league has bitten off a large chunk of trouble for itself in taking Joe Tinker and Mordecai Brown away from organized baseball is the opinion of Ban Johnson, president of the American league and one of the members of the national commission.

"I was sorry to hear that Brown and Tinker had taken that step," said the American league head last night. "Of course, it's a National league affair so far, but in my opinion the players' contract in the National league is so strong that both these players can be prevented from playing with the Federals if the National league cares to take the matter into the courts.

"As far as I am concerned, I would say let the two players go with the Federal league if they want to. I take very little stock in the stories emanating from Federal league sources that a lot more players of the major leagues will be in line when the season opens. I think there has been a lot of hot air in connection with these reports.

Doubts Backing of Federals.

"The Federal league will have to show something before it can be taken seriously. It will have to spend a lot of money, and I hardly think it has the backing at present to go out and spend vast amounts such as would be needed to carry major league players and build the proper kind of ball parks.

"Reports were sent out that several members of the St. Louis Browns had gone over to the Federal league team of that city and in Kansas City. One of the players mentioned as sure to be with Federals was Catcher Agnew. It was said he had cast his lot with George Stovall and the Kansas City team. Now I happen to know that the signed contract of Agnew for next season has been held by President Hedges of the Browns for a long time. That knocks that one story in the head, and I think a lot more of their stories are just as unlikely.

Thinks Brown Made Mistake.

"I was especially sorry to hear about Mordecai Brown leaving the Cincinnati club. I had hoped all the time he would be made manager down there, but although he wasn't appointed for that position I feel sure he would have been well taken care of by Mr. Herrmann. The Cincinnati club did a good turn for Brown a year ago, and I think he has made a sad mistake in turning against it at this time.

"The case of George Stovall stands in the American league about as Tinker and Brown stand in the National. However, I am sure the American league will make no effort to prevent Stovall from playing with the Federal league, though he still is on the reserve list of the St. Louis Browns. The Browns do not want him, either as manager or player. If the Brooklyn club wants Tinker I think it can stop him from playing with the Federal league because of the strength of the reserve clause in the National league contract."

Whether or not organized baseball will take steps to fight the progress of the Federal league Mr. Johnson would not say. There is to be a meeting of the national commission in Cincinnati next week and it seems probable that the question will be the chief topic of discussion.

Federals Ignored in Past.

The major leagues have always ignored doings of the Federal league in the past, but the Federal league never before did anything so astonishing as grabbing a couple of major league stars in one day. The desertion of Tinker and Brown is considered the worst blow organized baseball has had in its eleven years of continuous prosperity.

In 1912 the United States league was born and created a bit of a stir for a few weeks, then died without even causing organized baseball to turn its head. The following year came the Federal league and the same fate was predicted for it, but though it seemed to have a tough struggle for life, it succeeded in going through the entire season's schedule with a bit of doctoring now and then. Having lived a year, it has grown bold enough to shake its fist at the big fellows, and for the first time the majors seem to have given it a thought. Whether the big fellows will turn on the young outlaw and attempt to crush out its life remains to be seen.

After exploding the news of the signing of Tinker and Brown, the Federal league magnates here seem to have sunk into oblivion. It was impossible to locate President Gilmore or any of his associates last night. Neither was it possible to find Joe Tinker or Mordecai Brown, frequent phone calls at their places of residence always meeting with the reply that the parties were out. This led to the suspicion that perhaps there is some hitch in the affair. So far the announcement has not been confirmed by either of the players.

Murphy Has Nothing to Say.

President Murphy of the Cubs was asked last night what he thought of Tinker and Brown joining the Federals, and replied as follows:

"I have nothing to say on that matter and refuse to discuss it in any way."

The general opinion of fans around town was that the Federal league had made a ten strike. The new organization was given more consideration than ever before, and many predicted that with Joe Tinker at the head, the Chicago team would draw well here next season.

Larry McLean Loses Bout.

New York, Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Larry McLean, the Giants' erratic catcher, lost a decision in a scrap with "Cy" Seymour, the veteran ball player, in a Harlem hotel on Saturday night. McLean, who has repeatedly decleared that he can whip Jack Johnson, received rough handling in a barroom and was nursing several bruises today, while Seymour didn't show a scratch.

WAIT APPROACH OF SEASON FOR ACTION ON TINKER CASE.

Brooklyn Officials Defer Legal Proceedings Against Federal League—No Word from Shortstop.

New York, Dec. 28.—The Brooklyn National league club has received no notice from Joe Tinker that he has signed a Federal league contract.

Edward H. McKeever, vice president, today conferred with the club's counsel, Bernard York, and it was tentatively agreed that any legal action to restrain Tinker from playing with any team other than Brooklyn would be deferred until just before the opening of the season of the Federal league.

For one thing, the Brooklyn club desires to await announcement by the national commission as to the latter's attitude toward the defection of Tinker and others. Moreover, according to McKeever, there is no reason for immediate resort to the courts. The Brooklyn club officials will continue to hold that Tinker is legally a member of the club, and it is expected that sooner or later the shortstop will make known his baseball intentions in a formal manner to the Brooklyn management. Tinker has not yet replied to the letter embodying the playing terms offered him.

FEDERAL TO BACK UP PLAYERS.

Indianapolis Magnate and Director Declares New League Will Support Men in Court.

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 28.—"The Federal league will stand behind every one of its players and in any case where legal action is brought against the men the league will furnish the defense," declared J. Edward Krause, a director of the Federal league, tonight when told that the officials of the Brooklyn club were planning to enjoin Joe Tinker from playing with the Chicago team of the new organization.

"We think that the reserve clause in the contracts of the ball players is invalid and believe we can secure such a decision if the matter is taken into the courts," Mr. Krause asserted.

Mr. Krause laughed at the statement of August Herrmann that the league did not have financial backing, saying that plenty of money to carry through the Federal's program was available.

FEDS AFTER ANOTHER DODGER.

Don Carlos Ragan, Brooklyn Pitcher, Offered Two Year Contract at Tempting Salary.

Omaha, Neb., Dec. 28.—Don Carlos Ragan, pitcher of the Brooklyn National league club, is seriously considering overtures made him by Federal league officials. Ragan formerly was a member of the Omaha Western league club and lives in this city.

"They have made me a handsome offer," Ragan said today. "They offered me a two years' contract at a much better salary than the Brooklyn club has paid me."

Ragan admitted that the Tinker-Brown deal of Saturday might have some weight in influencing his decision.

GARRY HERRMANN A SKEPTIC.

Chairman of Commission Finds It Hard to Believe Stars Have Quit Organized Baseball.

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 28.—"I have nothing more to say regarding the reported signing of Joe Tinker and Mordecai Brown by the Federal league," President August Herrmann of the Cincinnati baseball club said today. "It is hard to believe that these two players have jumped organized baseball, as I said last night, and until I hear something more definite in the matter I would not care to say anything further."

As chairman of the national commission, which will have jurisdiction over the players that violate the reserve clause, Mr. Herrmann said:

"The consideration of their cases by the commission is quite a way off, and no one can tell what will happen in the meantime."

ROVERS TRIM SOCCER STARS

BY J. G. DAVIS.

Good shooting by Bob Cowan enabled the Campbell Rovers to defeat the picked team of the Chicago Soccer league, 5 goals to 4, in their match at Fifty-second avenue and West Madison street yesterday. Returning to the game after an absence of several weeks, the little Scotchman scored three goals from the field and another from a penalty kick.

Despite a snow covered, slippery field, the game was one of the most exciting of the season. The picked team of the junior league proved a formidable eleven, with a speedy attack and strong defense. Neither side was able to maintain steady pressure, and the battle waged up and down the field, each goal in turn being attacked frequently.

The scoring also alternated, and the result was in doubt up to the final minute of play. White passed to Cowan for the winning goal. Lineup:

Doig	Goal	Anderson
A. Paul	Right back	Salvesen
W. Paul	Left back	Wilson
Williamson	Right half back	Bromley
Currie	Center half back	Curtis
White	Outside right	Graham
Brand	Inside right	Bruun
Crosbie	Center	A. Karkow

Palmer Park Juniors held the heavy Bessemer Park Seniors to a 1 to 1 draw. Both goals were scored from penalties, R. Van Deutekom counting for Palmer and Rafferty for the Bessemer eleven. The Palmers exhibited a strong defense against the terrific attack of their opponents.

The Manchester Uniteds defeated the Washington Heights team, 2 goals to 0, at One Hundred and Seventh street and Vincennes avenue. The good defense of the visitors stopped a number of dangerous attacks by the Washington Heights men.

Officials of the Association Football League of Chicago hope to get the True Blues of Newark, N. J., here for matches on New Year's day and the following Sunday. The Blues are in St. Louis, and if the weather remains fine probably will come here.

ST. LEO'S DEFEAT TRUE BLUES.

St. Louis Soccer Champions Trounce New Jersey Team, 2 to 1—Toronto "Pros" Beat Theresas.

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 28.—The True Blue soccer team of Paterson, N. J., was defeated today by the St. Leos, champions of St. Louis, 2 to 1. This gave the local teams two out of three victories in the series.

St. Louis team did its best work of the year. Brannigan and McCormick each kicked a goal for the St. Leos, and McAllister scored for the visitors. The True Blues' sole victory in St. Louis was in yesterday's game with the Columbian Athletic club, 5 to 0.

Sigma Circles, 10; Central Turners, 1.

Reinforced by the Halas brothers and Catcher Morrissey of the Barry K. C. nine, the Sigma Circles swamped the Central Turners at the losers' gymnasium yesterday, 10 to 1. Frank Halas fanned seventeen batters in seven rounds and allowed only two hits. George Halas finished for the Sigmas. Morrissey led the attack on Pitcher Bags with three clean swats, one a double. Score:

Federals to Get Joe Riggert.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 27.—Joe Riggert, drafted from the St. Paul American association team this fall by the Brooklyn National league club, will not play with the latter organization, according to a letter written by him to a friend in this city. In the communication Riggert states that he has accepted terms with the Pittsburgh Federal league team and expects to sign a contract with the local team in a few days.

REDMOND SIGNED TO BOX WOLGAST

CLABBY TO MEET GIBBONS

First Bout of Series for Middleweight Title to Be Staged at Vernon on Jan. 17.

BY WALTER H. ECKERSALL.

Ad Wolgast, former lightweight champion, will meet Jack Redmond instead of Sammy Trott in a ten round bout on the afternoon of New Year's day before Tom Andrews' Queensberry Athletic club of Milwaukee.

Wolgast left this city yesterday to finish his training in Milwaukee for what he thought would be a bout against Trott. Upon his arrival in Milwaukee he was informed Redmond could be secured, and, with assurances from the promoters it would mean a better gate, he readily gave his consent.

It was against Redmond in a no-decision bout at Milwaukee on June 10, 1910, soon after becoming champion, that Wolgast broke a bone in his left hand, necessitating his retirement from the ring for two months. The two have not met since, although Redmond has encountered most of the topnotchers with varying success.

Clabby and Gibbons Matched.

Jimmy Clabby of Hammond and Mike Gibbons of St. Paul have been matched to box twenty rounds at Vernon, Cal., on Jan. 17, in the first contest of Promoter Tom McCarey's elimination series to determine a middleweight champion.

Larney Lichtenstein, manager of Clabby, closed the match shortly before he boarded a train for the coast to look after his fighter's affairs. The weight will be 158 pounds ringside. If Clabby defeats the St. Paul fighter, Lichtenstein said all Jimmy's future opponents would have to make the same poundage ringside.

McCarey wanted Clabby to meet Jack Dillon of Indianapolis in the first contest, but Dillon refused to make 158 pounds. The promoter then tried to secure George Chip, but the easterner has signed for a fight on the same day. As Clabby insisted on meeting Gibbons in the first bout, McCarey decided to stage the contest.

Weight Limit to Be 158 Pounds.

According to Lichtenstein, all fighters who take part in McCarey's elimination bouts will have to make 158 pounds ringside, the recognized middleweight limit. Clabby and Gibbons are pounds under the stipulated notch and should put up a rattling good bout. They are fast and clever and have a wallop in either hand.

Before he left for the coast Lichtenstein said he would bring Clabby east as soon as the elimination contests are over. Larney has received good offers from eastern clubs, but believes Clabby can win the middleweight title, which would make him a bigger drawing card in other parts of the country.

Matty McCue, matched to box ten rounds with Tommy Bresnahan at Racine on New Year's day, went through his usual paces at Lewis' gymnasium. Although he received a bad cut on his head in a bout with Joe Welling last week, Matty boxed five rounds and went through about an hour's gymnasium work.

Bresnahan did not lay off, but put in two hours of hard work at O'Connell's. Tommy said he beat McCue when they boxed a short time ago and believes he can do it again. He is well under the stipulated weight, 128 pounds three hours before the fight.

Mandot Has Cincy "Date."

Joe Mandot, the southern lightweight, and Manager Tommy Walsh will leave tonight for Cincinnati, where Mandot is slated to box ten rounds with Earl Fisher on New Year's day. Joe will finish his local training today at Lewis' gymnasium.

Charley White will settle down to hard work today at the Madison Street gymnasium, in preparation for his ten round bout with Harry Donahue at Peoria next Monday. White has been doing light work for the last week, but has not done any boxing, because of a cut lip received in the Wolgast fight.

Ever Hammer, the local lightweight under the management of Dick Woods, was matched to meet Jack Sorenson in one of the six round preliminaries to the Coulon-Sinnet match at Racine on Jan. 21.

Griffiths Meets Temple Tonight.

Johnny Griffiths and Ray Temple are scheduled to box ten rounds before the Riverview A. C. at Milwaukee tonight. The fighters will weigh 135 pounds at 3 o'clock.

Jimmy Watts, the Indianapolis bantamweight, who will meet "Young" Sinnet in the ten round semi-windup to the McCue-Bresnahan contest on New Year's day, arrived in Chicago to complete his training. He will do his work at O'Connell's.

Denver promoters want Steve Ketchel to meet Ad Wolgast on Jan. 9. Ketchel's manager has agreed to terms, but the promoters have not received Wolgast's consent. The former champion said he will accept the match if proper inducements are offered.

The failure of Promoter Tom Bodkin of the American A. C. of Pittsburgh to post a forfeit to assure the staging of the bout has resulted in the cancelling of the six round contest which was scheduled for New Year's day between George "Knockout" Brown and George Chip. The Greek's manager has not heard from the promoter since the match was closed two weeks ago.

LEWIS VS. AMERICUS TONIGHT.

"Strangler" Will Tackle Baltimore Star in Feature Bout of Empire Wrestling Show.

Ed [Strangler] Lewis, the Kentucky grappler, and Gus Schoenlein, known to wrestling fans as Americus, will meet in a finish match tonight at the Empire.

Although defeated by Charley Cutler, Lewis has made a decided impression upon local followers of wrestling. The Kentuckian displayed rare grit and skill in his match with Cutler, and it was only the superior weight and experience of the local grappler that finally won for him the last and deciding fall. Lewis has defeated every other opponent he has met in Chicago this season. Americus will be nearly his equal in weight.

The easy manner in which Americus flopped Paul Martinson a short time ago showed that the Baltimore grappler is better than he was two years ago, when he was an opponent for Gotch and Mahmout. The winner of tonight's contest will be matched to meet Gustav Fristensky, the Bohemian champion, in the near future. The winner of that match will be pitted against Charley Cutler.

Fristensky will meet three local grapplers in one fall matches in the opening bouts. In other contests Ted Tonneman will meet "Young" Beel and John Meyer will try holds with George Dietz.

CRESCENTS DEFEAT ALL-STARS.

Swatsmen Gather Cluster of Seven Runs in Third Inning, Driving Shaw from Slab.

Crescents added to their long string of victories yesterday by trouncing Shaw's All-Stars in a slugging battle at Battery B, 13 to 7. Shaw, who twirls for the Marquette council K. C. nine, lasted only three innings, succumbing to a seven run bombardment in the third round. Shields, who succeeded him, was just as easy for the Crescent swatsmen. Score:

BY F. C. I.

There's only one? I've got one, too;
Eugenically born and bred;
A southpaw and a little sport

We've taught him to observe the rules,
As you have taught young Wake no doubt,
He takes the ump's, his daddy's word,
I never have to put him out.

Young Wake is busy slinging ink
And roasting my young southpaw, Bob;
When age has put us on the blink;
Or when young Wake's a pitcher guy
And Bob is Sanborning the teams,
May they make good in life's great game,

LONG TOUR FOR CYCLECARS

Trip from Detroit to New York Starts This Morning.

RUN ENTRIES UNCERTAIN.

Promoter Hopes to Prove Car Can Negotiate Country Roads.

BY JACK PROCTOR.

The first semi-official attempt to demonstrate the practicability of the cyclecar, the most recent addition to the American automobile family, will start this morning from Detroit, where William B. Stout, chairman of the cyclecar division of the Chicago Motor club, will pilot a procession of these little machines on a run which, it is planned, will end in New York City next Saturday.

Exactly how many cyclecars will be in this run is uncertain although it is declared that at least two will start, while it is hoped that there will be four or five. Stout left for Detroit yesterday afternoon positive that the Rocket, a Detroit cyclecar, and the Imp, made in Auburn, Ind., would be in the party, while he had hopes that his representatives in Detroit might have a surprise party for him in the shape of other starters.

Thinks Car Can Stand Grind.

Stout conceived the idea of the run with the object of proving that the cyclecar is not a strictly city machine; that it can run over rough country roads and stand a grueling grind. He is billed to read a paper on cyclecars at the mid-winter meeting of the Society of Automobile Engineers during the New York automobile show, and he believes that if his party can make the run from Detroit to New York in mid-winter he will have an argument which will convince the skeptics.

While Americans are greatly interested in the cyclecar, it is so new with them that they know practically nothing about what it can do on country roads. Critics claim that the thirty-six inch tread, which is peculiar to the real cyclecar, cannot negotiate the average American country road with its deep ruts, while its light weight—around 400 pounds—means discomfort to the passengers. The Detroit-New York trip should settle these arguments.

Plans Talk on Rules.

Another reason Stout is anxious to get to New York is to discuss with Chairman Schimpf of the contest board of the American Automobile association the sort of rules needed for cyclecar events. The national automobile organization only recently decided to include cyclecar rules in the 1914 contest code, which is considered quite a victory.

It is declared that the affiliation with the A. A. A. will do away with the necessity of the cyclecar enthusiasts forming a national body to control such contests as they may promote next year. The Chicago Motor club's action in forming a cyclecar division is another indication of the desire of the automobile folk to extend a helping hand to this "little brother."

THOMAS TAKES TWO EVENTS AT CHICAGO GUN CLUB TRAPS.

Lands First Place with Perfect Scores in Both Contests—Handicaps to Kammerer and Wolfe.

Dave Thomas, the local amateur, yesterday carried off the honors in the weekly shoot of the Chicago Gun club by winning two events, in both of which he made perfect scores. Thomas won the opening contest at fifteen targets from sixteen yards and also annexed first place in a fifty target contest.

B. L. Kammerer won the first distance handicap event, breaking forty-eight targets from eighteen yards. H. C. Wolfe took the other contest, registering a score of 48 from eighteen yards. C. F. Stemmer won one fifty target event by turning in a perfect score.

The honor of breaking the greatest number of targets in the distance handicap events for the last three months goes to Hardy C. Wolfe, who broke 326 out of 350 clay birds from eighteen yards. H. C. Kennicott was second with 325, and A. H. Winkler third with 323.

Dave Thomas won the prize for breaking the largest number of targets in the sixteen yard events for class A shooters with a total of 337. H. C. Kennicott was second with 336, and A. H. Winkler third with 300. In the class B division E. Silver was high with 339, O. P. Goode second with 331, and H. C. Wolfe third with 322.

Honors in the class C section went to P. Miller, who had a total of 306. P. H. Clark was second with 303, and O. W. Crocker third with 299. C. F. Seelig was high in class D with a total of 290. L. A. Bell was second with 264. Following are the scores of yesterday's events:

15 targets, 16 yards—D. Thomas, 15; C. R. Seelig, 14; H. Kennicott, 13; A. H. Winkler, 13; C. F. Seelig, 13; J. Lino, 12; L. Kumpfer, 12; O. W. Crocker, 11; A. Lino, 11.

CYCLISTS RENEW FAMOUS CONTEST

HISTORY OF THE EVENT.

Inaugurated in Days of High Wheelers; Twenty-third Grind Carded Thursday.

BY KEENE GARDINER.

From forty to fifty hardy cyclists will start in the twenty-third annual scorch of the "Two Fifty club" on Thursday morning, and the first to cross the imaginary line in front of the Hotel Florence in Pullman will earn the title of chief scorcher of an organization which dates its existence back to the days when high wheels were ridden and Chicago boasted a cycling brigade second to no other city in America. The scorch will start at 10 o'clock on New Year's morning from Grand boulevard and Thirty-fifth street, regardless of weather conditions.

It will be the third generation that will compete this time for honors once worn by veteran cyclists who now are in the grandfather zone. Not a one of the 1914 crop will be able to boast of having ridden in the first of these winter classics in 1892, for those old timers long ago passed up the bicycle for the more comfortable automobile, leaving the youngsters to perpetuate an event which stands without a parallel in cycling history.

Cyclers in First Race.

Way back—more than two decades—it was some feat to be able to pedal a high wheeled bicycle a mile in 2:50. In fact there were few in Chicago who could boast of such speed, and these few included such experts as W. C. Thorne, N. H. Van Sicklen, George A. Thorne, H. A. Githens, Arthur Lumsden, E. R. Winship, F. E. Spooner, Julian P. Bliss, E. W. Ballard, "Cy" Davis, and Charles P. Root. This was the nucleus of the Two-Fifty club, a unique organization whose eligibility clause demanded an ability to turn a mile in 2:50.

To pick a leader the annual scorch to Pullman was conceived, and the first chief scorcher was W. C. Thorne, now president of Montgomery Ward & Co. and prominent as a motorist and yachtsman. By this time "safety" bicycles had come in and Thorne rode one of the low wheelers. The following year N. H. Van Sicklen, the "old war horse" of the Chicago Cycling club, gathered in the laurel wreath. Then in later years came such famous stars as George K. Barrett, C. H. Peck, Arthur J. Nicolet, Fred Volkman, Theodore Smith, the Nelsons—John, O. P., and Fred—and then old Father Time began flagging the veterans and the second generation came in.

Nelson Keeps Club Alive.

It was Fred Nelson who kept the club alive after the real old timers quit, and he kept the second generation answering roll call for at least ten years, during which time he won the title at least five times himself. Now youth again is knocking at the door and still another flock is anxious to experience the fun that enthused the riders of two decades ago.

In the old days the course to Pullman used to be out Grand boulevard, through Washington park, across the Midway, then out Stony Island avenue to its end; then came a scramble across the historic "sand hill," located near the present site of the Calumet Country club, where so many cyclists came to grief in the days of the old Pullman road race on Memorial day; into the little town of Pullman, and through its winding streets to the hotel.

Now the latter day cyclists cut into Cottage Grove avenue at the Midway and run to Burnside, then hit a fine road into Pullman. This course is almost a boulevard as compared with the rough and ready route of twenty years ago. Still, none has been able to beat the mark of 28:00 for the eleven miles, made in 1899 by Johnny Nelson, then America's long distance champion.

Death Takes Several Veterans.

There has been a scattering of the veterans of late years. Death has claimed some of them. Barrett, Davis, Winship, and Johnny Nelson have crossed the great divide. Nelson died in 1901, following an accident while riding in a paced race in Madison Square garden, New York, defending his title as champion against Jimmy Michael. Lumsden, once western champion, has been living in Europe for thirteen years. Bliss is a haberdasher out in Denver; Githens a tire manufacturer in Milwaukee, while O. P. Nelson has gone back to Sweden, where he is in the automobile business.

In the old days, when Chicago used to have real old fashioned winters, the Two Fifty club was no joke and the riders had to wallow through heavy snow most of the time. Veterans still recall the scorch of 1895, when Clarence Peck, once famous as a road race rider, had to run two miles through the snow carrying his bicycle in order to beat out his teammate, Tracy Holmes.

"Added Starter" Wins Race.

Another time Frank Waller of Los Angeles, then holder of the twenty-four hour record, was "imported" to capture the honor. It looked a cinch for him. Theodore Smith, a member of the Chicago Cycling club, wearing such civilian togs as long trousers and a white collar, started to ride "just as far as the park" with the "bunch." By that time Waller was pulling away and it looked like defeat for the Chicagoans. Smith, however, was riding easily and his mates urged him to stick as long as he could. Smith did so with the result that he defeated the westerner and kept the title in Chicago.

NEARER CONTROL OF RAIL FINANCE

Commerce Commission Will Make Inquiry Into Roads' Money Deals.

NET REVENUES LOWERED.

Questions May Show Change Is Due to Waste on Part of Concerns Losing.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Government regulation of railroad finances was brought another step nearer realization by the action of the interstate commerce commission yesterday.

The answers which the eastern roads applying for a 5 per cent freight rate advance will make to the questions propounded by the commission will shed a flood of light on the financial methods of the carriers. That the information will disclose the need of regulation is the conviction of most public officials who deal with railroad questions.

It has been demonstrated that the net revenue of the railroads is decreasing. A bulletin issued tonight by the bureau of railway economics states that the returns of the roads for October, 1913, compared with October, 1912, show a decrease in total operating revenues per mile of 1.3 per cent and an increase in operating expenses per mile of 5.3 per cent. The net operating revenue per mile was less by $60, or 12.4 per cent, while that for October, 1912, was 14.4 per cent greater than for October, 1911.

Commission Wants Explanation.

The commission wants an explanation of this decrease of net revenue. The replies to its questions are expected to show that a large part of the increase in operating expenses consists of advances in wages of employés and the additional cost of materials. Such increases in the railroad "cost of living" would be regarded by the commission as justifying an advance of freight charges.

But the rate regulating body also will obtain information showing whether the railroads are getting all the return to which they are entitled under existing rates, and whether they are wasting their revenues in extravagances. The commission wants to know whether the roads would not be making satisfactory profits if it were not for costly special service and allowances given shippers, alowances to tap lines, and industrial terminal railroads, free switching, lighterage, freight handling, warehousing, reconsignment, special train service and milling in transit privileges, and payments to the Pullman company for sleeping, parlor, and dining car service.

The commission also wants to know how much the revenues of the roads have been depleted by the construction of costly terminals, such as those in New York City, and whether these vast outlays have been justified by any increase in passenger traffic.

Inquiry on Financial Deals.

Finally information is desired as to the cost of financial relations existing between the roads and affiliated rail lines and industrial and mining corporations carried out by means of interlocking directorates. One of the inquiries also calls for information concerning the interest of railroad directors in corporations selling supplies to their own lines.

These interrogatories were prepared by Louis Brandeis, who has been retained by the commission to develop the facts necessary to judging the actual condition of the railroads asking the rate advance. The questions recall his arguments opposing the rate increase sought by the carriers a couple of years ago. At that time he contended that the roads could save $1,000,000 a day by more economical management and by the elimination of special privileges. The commission denied the advance.

When the commission has in hand the information developed by the Brandeis interrogatories it will be able to determine how much the legitimate expenses of the roads have increased and how much greater their profits would be were it not for extravagant management, allowances, and other forms of special privileges. The commission has already investigated the tap line allowances and has estimated that from $60,000,000 to $100,000,000 a year paid by the carriers to these shippers is virtually a rebate.

May Grant 5 Per Cent.

It may be that the commission will find the legitimate increase of expenses sufficient to justify a 5 per cent rate advance. It may be that a smaller advance or none at all will be the outcome of a comparison of the legitimate and illegitimate disbursements.

This is the first time that the commission has inquired so closely into the details of railroad financing with a view to determining the justification of higher freight charges. It is the initiation of a new policy which in effect means indirect regulation by the commission of the fiscal affairs of the carriers.

EASTERN ILLINOIS AUDITOR KILLS SELF BY ASPHYXIATION.

Body of William P. Sleater Found by His Wife—Note Says Ill Health Is Cause of Act.

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 28.—William P. Sleater, auditor of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois Railroad company, committed suicide by asphyxiation at his home here today. The body was found by his wife upon her return from church. Mr. Sleater was 50 years old.

In a note to his wife he ascribed his act to illness and bequeathed all his property to her and their sons.

NEWLANDS SEES HOPE FOR ROADS

Nevada Senator Asserts They Should Be Allowed to Keep Pace with Expenses.

FAVORS RULE OVER BONDS

Thinks Government Commission Should Supervise Railway Finances.

Railways should be permitted to increase their rates in proportion to the advance in taxes, wages, and cost of supplies according to Senator Francis G. Newlands of Nevada, chairman of the senate committee on interstate commerce, who spent a few hours in Chicago yesterday on his way to his Nevada home.

Senator Newlands said conditions among railroads in general are encouraging, and investors in such securities should feel no concern in regard to their stability. He pointed to the readjustments now taking place in the tariff and the banking system, and predicted the country will be greatly benefited because of these changes.

Reasons for Stand.

"Regarding the railway situation," said Senator Newlands, "I have to say that as taxes, wages, and the cost of supplies have been increasing, there must result an increased rate of revenue, provided existing rates are not unreasonably high. The interstate commerce commission is considering this whole question.

"It is unfortunate railway valuation was not sooner entered on, for until such valuation is secured rates cannot be scientifically adjusted. However, the proper equipment and expansion of railroads cannot wait for valuation, which will take some years to accomplish. Meanwhile a modus vivendi must be established. The interstate commerce commission is considering this, and doubtless will act with judgment.

"I see no reason why railway investors should be apprehensive that a fair return will be denied them. I regard railway difficulties practically as solved by the wise statesmanship of the interstate commerce commission, and think the confidence which the public always has felt in the commission is now expressed by railway managers, who would not, if they could, go back to the old conditions of the past generation, which aroused discontent and hostility everywhere. I look forward to an era of mutual reasonableness and justice."

Favors Control of Rail Bonds.

Asked as to the suggestion that the interstate commerce commission be given supervision over the issuance of railway securities, Senator Newlands said he has favored national legislation along this line for some time.

GREAT FAMINE IN JAPAN; THOUSANDS ARE STARVING.

Failure of Crops and Fisheries Brings Disaster to Provinces of Aomori and Hokkaido.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

TOKIO, Dec. 28.—The Japanese in the provinces of Oomori and Hokkaido are suffering from the worst famine since 1869. On account of the failure of the crops and the fisheries thousands of persons are starving. There have been runs on many of the local banks, and the government intends to appropriate $3,000,000 for the relief of the banks and the starving peasantry.

Some of the girls belonging to the starving families are selling themselves and the police are powerless to prevent this.

A Guide to Safe January Investments

Those seeking investments combining safety, stability and attractive income will find our January Investment Offerings a guide to safe and profitable investment.

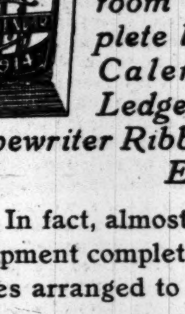

This January investment guide contains an extensive list of First Mortgage Bonds in denominations of $100, $500, $1,000 and $5,000, secured by the highest class of centrally located, improved, income-producing Chicago real estate.

For the past thirty-two years we have been engaged in the sale of this class of securities, and during this time no investor has ever lost a dollar of principal or interest on any security purchased of us.

The experience we have gained, the organization we have built up, the service we give, and the definite system of safeguards we have devised through our long experience since this House was founded, are a substantial basis for the confidence of investors.

We will be pleased to submit for your consideration a list of investments of a most conservative character yielding 5½ and 6%.

PARIS HOLDS KEY TO YEAR ABROAD

Prosperity for 1914 Depends on New French Financial Policy.

BRITAIN MONEY SCARCE.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON. Dec. 28.—The chief interest in stock market and financial transactions at this time lies in the indications given of what is to be expected in the new year.

The stock exchange opened on Saturday after the holidays for the beginning of the last settlement of the year, and as far as prices were concerned the little business transacted showed a slight improvement and an inclination toward a more cheerful tone, but in the money market the tendency was quite the opposite.

Dearer Prices for Stock.

The monetary stringency was reflected in dearer prices for stock exchange loans, which were 5¼ against 5 per cent at the last settlement. Carry over rates were consequently stiffer, Americans being 5½ to 6 per cent, against 5 to 5½ per cent last time.

There was little business in the discount market and in consequence rates were practically unaltered, two months' bills ruling at 4 15-16, three months' bill at 4¾, four months' bill at 4⅝, and six months' bill at 4⅝ per cent.

Money is now scarcer in England than any place in the continent, and though the January dividend payments are likely to make things a bit easier soon after the first of the year, the general feeling is that rates will soon tighten again and there is not likely to be any relaxation before the end of the financial year.

All Depends Upon Paris.

Much—practically everything—depends on Paris, and it is impossible to predict yet what Joseph Caillaux, the new French minister of finance, may do. If the form planned by ex-Premier Briand to overthrow Caillaux succeeds, paving the way for the return to power of the group which supported Barthou, the financial world will be much relieved.

In the meantime the millions so much needed are tied up in the hands of the Paris bankers awaiting the formulation of the French government's policy.

The situation is reflected in the Bank of England's statement, which shows a loss of $14,438,970 reserve to $110,936,300. The stock of gold increased $1,970,000 to $179,073,245, and the ratio of reserve to liabilities dropped sharply to 43.1.

France Waits on Policy.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PARIS, Dec. 28.—[Special.]—The stock market was dull and inactive all Christmas week under the double and equally depressing influences of uncertainty as to the fiscal and financial projects of M. Caillaux, minister of finance, and the annual slack time of the winter holiday season.

Two features only were salient in the week end trading, the rise of coppers here following the firmer conditions prevailing in the New York market and the moderate rally in Russian industrials.

Banking groups are awaiting the coming issue of Russian and Servian loans to make a new start. French rentes recovered a fraction.

Believe Bond Issue Is Plan.

Regarding the ministry's financial plans the prevailing opinion is that Mr. Caillaux will propose to provide for immediate needs by a treasury bond issue of $100,000,000, and that he will approach the big banking institutions with the request to place at the disposal of the government a part of the enormous sums lying on deposit in their strong rooms—about 20 per cent of the total—for the purchase of these bonds.

It is further said that M. Caillaux has not given up the loan projected by his ministerial predecessor and accepted in principle by the chamber of deputies, but has merely held the matter over till a later period, perhaps next February, if conditions are favorable. He probably will combine this loan with a tax on capital.

In the meantime it is hoped that he will meet the acquiescence of banks by permitting them to issue their foreign loans, which were compelled to await the issue of the French loan.

Regarding the impending loans to powers in the near east, it is believed in financial quarters here that the banks could secure the solvency of these impoverished states by money advances amounting in bulk to less than $200,000,000 after deducting certain sums due and thus secure the interests of French creditors by consolidating the financial status of these countries.

It is admitted that Turkey and the Balkan states are at the end of their tether financially after the war. These states require money to pay the debts resulting from their two campaigns and to meet the amounts due to French and other creditors. Turkey wants about $130,000,000, Greece and Bulgaria somewhat less, and Servia perhaps $70,000,000.

Tax on Revenue Is Issue.

The question of future taxes on revenue is now the dominant one in the world of French finance. The status of other state funds in this connection affords useful illustration. Italian rentes, for example, are of two kinds, 3½ per cent and 3 per cent, and while the first is tax free the second is burdened with the Italian 20 per cent pro rata tax. The 3½ per cent rente is capitalized at 3.55 per cent net and the 3 per cent rente is 4.75 per cent gross, the difference in market value between the two being one of 25 per cent.

This example suffices to show the extent to which the taxation of securities affects their market values. The present government came into power owing to the refusal of the chamber to approve the Barthou project of making the next issue or rentes immune from taxation. Until the chamber pronounces upon the alterative scheme which M. Caillaux will propose an uncertain stock market with a minimum of transactions is inevitable.

OFFICERS INVITED INTO GAME.

Nine Men Are Arrested After Two Strangers "Sit In" with Players.

Later the two who stood outside the house were booked as gamblers, with seven others. They gave their names as Frank Sholasky and Philip Warren.

UTILITIES LAW'S SCOPE WIDE

Public Service Companies All Over State Are Under It.

EFFECTIVE ON JANUARY 1.

Commission Will Have Vast Increase in Its Powers.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—The new public utilities law of Illinois becomes effective next Thursday. With midnight of the last day of the year passes out of existence the old railroad and warehouse commission, which has been the arbiter between the railroads and the people since 1871. Since that time control of grain inspection, warehousing, express companies, and interurban companies has been added to the expiring board's authority.

All these with many broader powers extending to all public utilities except those owned directly by cities and villages will be transferred to the public utilities commission.

The act was passed by the legislature of 1913. Traveling with it was Gov. Dunne's measure for municipal ownership of utilities. Because of the sweeping changes in the conduct of utility company affairs the utilities law did not go into effect on July 1, six months being granted for the readjustment of conditions.

Powers of Commission Broad.

The definition of "public utility" in the act covers every corporation, company, association, joint stock company or association, firm, partnership, or individual, or their successors by court order, excepting only municipal corporations, which own, control, or manage, directly or indirectly, or which own any franchise or permit for engaging in the business of—

"Transportation of persons or property, transmission of telegraph or telephone messages within Illinois; production, storage, transmission, sale, or delivery or furnishing of heat, coal, light, power, electricity, or water; or for the conveyance of oil or gas by pipe line; or for the storage or warehousing of goods, or conducting the business of a wharfinger."

The law defines "common carrier" as including all railroads, street railroads, express companies, private car lines, sleeping car companies, fast freight lines, steamboat lines, and their legal successors, owning, operating, or managing any such agency for public use in transportation of persons or property within the state.

Will Cover Every Detail.

Over these utilities the new commission "shall have general supervision, shall inquire into the management of the business thereof, and shall keep itself informed as to the manner and method in which the business is conducted."

"It shall," the law continues, "examine such public utilities and keep informed as to their general condition, their franchises, capitalization, rates and other charges, and the manner in which their plants, equipments, and other property owned, leased, controlled, or operated are managed, conducted, and operated, not only with respect to the adequacy, security, and accommodations afforded by their service but also with respect to their compliance with the provisions of the act and any other law, with the orders of the commission, and what charter and franchise requirements."

Gov. Dunne is directed to appoint five commissioners "within thirty days" after Jan. 1, not more than three of whom shall be of the same political party. Former Gov. Richard Yates has been picked as the Republican, Frank H. Funk as the Progressive. The three Democratic appointments probably will be announced on New Year's day. The salary of a commissioner is $10,000 annually. A general counsel at $6,000, a secretary at $5,000, and other employés to be fixed by the commission are provided for.

Scope of Commission's Rule.

In broad language the general powers of the commission give it the authority—

To require the filing of all rate and charge schedules.

To approve or fix rates from time to time not in excess of those in effect July 1, 1913.

To establish joint schedules between two utility companies.

To establish joint classifications of rates.

To approve and register bond and stock issues.

To establish rules and regulations for adequate and secure service covering extensions and improvements, health and safety of employés, protective and safety devices, uniform equipment, rate of speed in certain cases, and abolishment of grade crossings.

To require the joint use of facilities, require interchange of traffic or service, estimate of through routes, switching facilities, side track connections, physical connection of telephone or telegraph companies, and to establish rules for storage and icing, delivery of express or telephone or telegraph messages, and for weighing and standards of measurements.

Full power to initiate investigations and to have access to books, papers, and records of utilities is conferred to carry out the foregoing.

Demands Made on Utilities.

Not grant privileges to any person or persons (anti-pass).

File public reports.

Keep accounts within Illinois.

Forbidden to Utilities.

The utility must not:

Transfer or assign any franchise or permit without approval of the commission.

Add or increase to facilities without commission's approval.

Apply the proceeds of any bond or stock sale to any extension not specifically authorized by the commision.

The public may make proper complaint of any allegation of unfairness or discrimination and shall be entitled to a hearing. The utility may secure a hearing if it feels that its rights have not been respected.

Court review is provided for the orders of the commission, the court of original jurisdiction being the Circuit court of Sangamon county.

Crushed to Death by "L" Train.

ALLIED AGAINST U. S. COMMERCE

WILL AID EACH OTHER.

Fight Upon Exports from United States Will Be Made All Over World.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Information has reached Washington that Great Britain and Germany have entered into an offensive and defensive commercial alliance against the United States. These two powers, according to information received here, are operating under an agreement that is designed to check the growth of American commerce in every market in which it competes with German and British interests.

It is understood that this government has instituted an inquiry through diplomatic channels to determine just how far reaching are the scope and purpose of this Anglo-German alliance.

Two recent developments bearing on American trade are said to point conclusively to the existence of an agreement between Great Britain and Germany to resist to the utmost the endeavors of this country to broaden and extend its foreign market.

First Move Against Fair.

The first was the refusal of Great Britain and Germany to participate in the exposition to be held in San Francisco in 1915. The second was the abandonment by the National City company of New York of its plan to establish a big branch in the Argentine republic.

Despite the denial made by President Vanderlip of the National City bank, the statement is made here that this institution was threatened by Germany and British interests, and that accordingly it abandoned, temporarily at least, its purposes to establish a branch in the Argentine republic for the benefit of American trade.

The statement is made, further, that W. Morgan Schuster, who went to South America for the National City company, had progressed so far in his work as to have obtained subscriptions from wealthy Argentinans and that he was dissuaded from continuing further by representations made by officials of the Bank of the River Plate of Buenos Aires, an institution controlled by the British.

Cowdray Had German Aid.

Other circumstances are cited in support of the contention that Germany and Great Britain have combined to wage a trade war on the United States. It is represented that Lord Cowdray, head of the Pearson company, who recently attempted to secure oil concessions in Colombia and who withdrew from that field of operations, it is understood, only after a protest had been made by this government, had the support of Germany as well as of Great Britain.

Another cause for alarm on the part of Germany and Great Britain, it is said, was the action of the United States congress in passing a law giving American vessels free passage through the Panama canal while proposing to levy tolls on all foreign ships.

The statement is made that the agreement entered into by Germany and Great Britain was perfected at a conference held in Belgium. It is represented that Sir Edward Grey acted for England and that Chancellor Bethman von Hollweg appeared as the representative of Germany.

POLICEMAN LOSES HIS LIFE VAINLY ATTEMPTING RESCUE.

South Park Policeman Patrick J. Conway of 1220 West One Hundred and Fourth street last night gave up his life in an effort to save John Snekutis of Steger, Ill. Both were run down and killed by an Illinois Central train at One Hundred and Third street.

The men had left a suburban passenger train, Conway just having been relieved from duty. Snekutis whistled his way across the tracks toward a street car line, the policeman following. Conway saw the train approaching. He ran forward and tried to push Snekutis to safety, but underestimated the speed of the train and both were struck.

SPOILS SYSTEM TO BE TARGET.

Republican Members of Congress Expected to Charge Invasion of Politics in U. S. Printing Office.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Charges that the spoils system is being established in the government printing office are scheduled to be given an airing by Republican members of congress immediately after the holiday recess.

A progressive Republican senator who has been investigating the matter has data which, he says, show the dismissal of scores of Republican employés to make way for Democrats; the reduction of salaries of more than fifty employés, all Republicans, and the increase of salaries of as many others, all Democrats.

One of the cases involves the appointment of a political supporter of Representative Tavenner of Illinois, B. D. Dyas, formerly a filer in the army arsenal at Rock Island, Ill., who was made inspector of paper.

BURNED IN SAVING YULE TREE.

James D. Strong, living at the residence of P. Griffin, 1423 East Sixty-fifth place, was burned on the face and hands yesterday while trying to extinguish a fire on a Christmas tree. Kenneth Griffin, 6 years old, was alone in the room when he shouted fire. Strong, who was asleep, heard the boy's cries. The boy, it is believed, was trying to light the candles. Strong is a street car conductor.

Edward Dolan Wants to Hear Engines Go Clanging By and "Pulls" Box.

Edward Dolan of 1123 Chatham street was seized with a desire to hear fire engines clanging down the street, so he turned in an alarm, he told the police. He "pulled" a box at Grand avenue and Orleans street. Several engine companies made an unsuccessful search for a fire. T. Garbarino told on Dolan, who was arrested.

TRADE EXPERT TO COME HERE

Middle West Business Will Know Foreign Situation.

U.S. CONSULS TO BE ADVISERS

Commercial Agents Also Will Tell Manufacturers of Conditions.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—An expert who will assist western manufacturers and exporters in increasing their foreign business is to be assigned to Chicago within a few weeks by Secretary of Commerce Redfield. He will be in charge of a branch of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce with an office in the Chicago federal building in convenient communication with the custom house.

Through this office the business interests of the middle west will be kept in touch with the trade opportunities in foreign lands developed by United States consuls and by the special trade envoys now being sent abroad.

A similar office has been opened by the bureau in New York and others are to be established in New Orleans and San Francisco.

Visiting Consuls to Advise.

"One special feature of the work of these offices," Secretary Redfield said, "is an arrangement whereby consuls who are in this country on leave of absence will visit the offices as convenience permits and make them places for meeting the representatives of business houses who may desire to cultivate business in the particular foreign field in which the consuls reside.

"Due notice will be given in advance of these consular visits through the daily consular and trade reports of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, through special notices to business houses which may have filed their names with that bureau as interested in that special foreign field, and through advices sent to the trade and commercial organizations of the city and the district in which the office is located.

"In addition to this arrangement it is planned that the commercial agents representing the department of commerce abroad shall, upon their return from their foreign studies, visit these offices; their coming also to be announced in order that they, in turn, may be able to place personally before the business men of different parts of the country the facts they have obtained in their foreign studies.

Will Have Trade Conferences.

"Another feature of the work of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce which has interest for the business world is that its commercial agents on their return to America will attend trade conferences or conventions of persons or organizations interested in special lines of investigation, in order that they may personally inform manufacturers and merchants of the result of their studies in the foreign field concerning their own lines of manufacture.

"For example, at the convention of the National Canners' association, to be held in Baltimore early in February, it is expected that Commercial Agents E. A. Thayer and J. Alexis Shriver will be present, both having recently completed long foreign trips while studying the opportunities for the development of a trade abroad in American canned goods. The purpose is to have these gentlemen meet directly the manufacturers for whose goods they have been seeking a general outlet."

"JACKPOT" KILLS CHILD LAWS, FACTORY INSPECTOR CHARGES.

Speaker at Grace Church Forum Declares Office Is Hampered in Getting Funds by Big Companies of State.

"Many large companies in Illinois which employ children between the ages of 14 and 16 see to it in the jackpot at Springfield that legislation is hampered and the factory department crippled."

This statement was made by Chief Factory Inspector Oscar F. Nelson last night. He spoke before several hundred persons at the Service Forum of Grace Episcopal church, East Fifteenth street and South Wabash avenue.

"More than 23,000 children under the age of 16 obtained certificates in Illinois last year to go to work," he said. "Approximately 17,000 were Chicago children.

"New laws are necessary. The best would be a federal law prohibiting employment of children under 16. The Illinois state factory inspection department has taken up the matter with Secretary of Labor Wilson, but there are difficulties.

"As to the legislature, the interests employing children are opposed to child labor laws. They also see to it, by means of their jackpot, that the inspection department is deprived of larger appropriations. At present there are only thirty deputy factory inspectors. At least fifty could be kept busy."

Following Mr. Nelson's address there was a discussion regarding remedies for child labor. William R. Stirling of Lake Forest said the idle rich are doing much to bring about better conditions, but that they obtain no coöperation from the working class.

EXPLORER TELLS POLAR PLANS.

Sir Ernest Shackleton to Start from South American Port in 1914 for Antarctic Regions.

LONDON, Dec. 29, 3a. m.—Sir Ernest Shackleton, the explorer, in a letter to the Times formally announces his intention to lead another expedition to the south pole in 1914. He will start from a South American port, with the object of crossing the south polar continent from sea to sea, returning by way of New Zealand.

FIRE RISK FIRMS HAVE FAIR YEAR

Companies Will End Twelve-Month with Moderate Profit in West.

MILD WINTER HELPFUL.

BY C. M. CARTWRIGHT.

Unless the unexpected happens before next Thursday morning the fire insurance companies will pull out of the year with a moderate profit in the west, notwithstanding the discouraging aspects of the situation up to Sept. 1. The year cannot be said to be a good one by any means along fire insurance lines, but the experience during the last two months has been favorable and has enabled the companies to overcome the deficit that existed earlier in the year.

Usually during November and December the companies expect an influx of losses owing to heating plants being fired up to the limit of their capacity with the approach of cold weather. The climatic conditions have been unusual, there being no cold weather to bring about the usual winter increase in losses.

Taking the country over the standard companies will find their business yielding a small profit on underwriting.

Losses Severe Early in Year.

Early in the year losses were severe and during the summer months they were abnormal. The wind storms that swept over the central west and Kentucky and Tennessee wrought havoc with the companies that write tornado insurance. This has served to increase the aggregate loss ratio. The companies perhaps never experienced such a severe session with the winds as they did last spring.

Some forty companies have retired from business during the year. This is perhaps due to a natural evolution in business following the continued drain of losses and the necessary high expenses. Companies doing a moderate business were unable to hold their expense ratio down to a normal figure.

In some instances companies have combined for economic reasons. The tendency of the times seems to be toward concentration, but underwriters in general, who take a broad view of the subject, deprecate the passing of substantial American companies, which should be able to hold their own in the battle for business.

Several New Concerns Starting.

There are a half dozen or so new companies that will be ready for business early in the year. Their stock has been sold to the general public and their future will depend largely on the character and ability of those in charge of their underwriting. The death knell of a number of young companies has been due to their too rapid expansion, their high expense ratio, and the effort to secure a too large volume of business that cannot be safely assimilated.

There is plenty of room for fire insurance companies of a standard grade, conservatively operated and seeking a good quality of business. Many business men, while naturally taking to the larger companies, see the desirability of not allowing the underwriting facilities of the country to be in the hands of a few companies.

With the prevalent custom of writing large single policies and reinsuring a considerable portion in foreign reinsurance companies, the result has been that a considerable percentage of American premiums, probably over 15 per cent this year, find their way into foreign fields.

PARIS.—Parisians awoke on Sunday to find to their surprise the city hidden under a mantle of snow. On Saturday there was a great rainstorm, and the street car and railroad services were considerably delayed. Telegraphic and telephonic communication with foreign and provincial centers has been wholly or partially interrupted.

OFFICIAL WEATHER FORECAST.

Marshall Field & Company

With the waning of the Old Year—today, tomorrow, and Wednesday—we aim to make swift and comprehensive disposal of odd lots, broken lines, and all merchandise that for any reason we do not wish to take with us into 1914. The word REDUCED, or its equivalent, appears often in the following items. It deserves especial attention, for rarely, if ever, has it represented so much value as it will during these three days.

Silk and Velvet Remnants Afford Great Savings in an Unusually Large Variety.

It is doubtful if at any former season we have been able to offer such a thoroughly desirable assemblage of Silk and Velvet Remnants, odd pieces, and discontinued lines as is now obtainable. Many of the newest and most attractive pieces are represented, and the opportunity for great savings is not liable to be repeated soon. Second Floor.

Remnants of White and Colored Fabrics That Will Be Found Very Useful.

Nearly every weave in our remarkably comprehensive lines is represented in this Year-End clearance. The assortments include lengths desirable for practically every purpose to which these fabrics can be put. Included are gingham, crepe, percale, madras, voile, batiste. All very much lower in price than at any time this season. Second Floor.

A limited number of beautiful Petticoats in evening shades have been so sharply lowered in prices that they can hardly outlast the day. The assortment includes crepe de chine, Jersey and messaline, with chiffon and lace flounces. Fifth Floor.

Women's Untrimmed Hats and Trimmings Are Reduced.

Practically our entire lines of Untrimmed Hats and Trimmings have been reduced for clearance, affording an opportunity for selection that will not be duplicated this season.

In our assortments we offer the following unusual values: Draped Velvet Turbans in a splendid assortment at $3.75 and $5.00. Blocked Hats of finest quality velvet in approved styles at $5.00. Selection can be made from a great variety of flowers marked at 50c. Fifth Floor.

APRONS and BOUDOIR CAPS which have become rumpled, soiled, or lines broken in the Holiday selling, are sharply reduced.

Women's Furs—Extensive Reductions on a Number of Desirable Coats, Scarfs, and Muffs.

A careful review of our Fur lines has produced a considerable assortment of odd pieces that we can offer at very extensive savings from the regular prices.

As example values we quote the following prices on Women's Pony Coats. These are shown in a variety of lengths, plain or with collars of contrasting fur, priced exceedingly low, at $23.50, $28.50, $37.50, $45.00.

Women's Evening Gowns, Special at $25.00.

For those who desire Evening Gowns for wear on New Year's Eve this is a splendid opportunity These garments were purchased by special arrangement with the manufacturer and are a value that we could not offer under ordinary circumstances.

They are made of brocaded eolienne, with bodice of embroidered net and lace; a good assortment of colors and sizes. Any of these garments purchased today requiring alteration will be finished and delivered by Wednesday night. Sixth Floor.

A Clearance Sale of Trimmed Millinery at Greatly Reduced Prices.

In our Trimmed Millinery Sections practically every Hat has been radically reduced. Many new Hats have been added to our assortments, made of materials on which we have taken decided reductions to insure clearing our stocks. We can easily recommend the values in this selling event as among the greatest we have offered

In our Popular Priced Section Hats are featured at $8.00, $10.00 and $12.00.

In our English and Tailored Hat Sections Hats are marked as low as $2.75, others at $5.00, $7.50 and $10.00. Fifth Floor.

All Men's Fur-lined Overcoats Are Reduced.

Featuring especially those at $25.00, $35.00, $47.50, $65.00 and $77.50.

An opportunity that has not come before so early in the season. Coats smartly tailored in the latest fashion, for evening wear, for formal or informal wear for motoring, chauffeurs, and guest use Linings of various furs many with combination collars Fur Outside Coats at liberal reductions. Fifth Floor.

Handkerchiefs for Men, Women, and Children Very Sharply Reduced.

Women's Kid Gloves Reduced From Much Higher Priced Lines, 75c, 95c and $1.15.

Heavy Holiday selling has left one of the finest assortments of high grade Kid Gloves that we have ever been able to offer at reduced prices at this season. These three prices by no means indicate the really splendid qualities represented. While some are slightly soiled the majority are in perfect condition, and were it not for broken lines we should never consider offering them so low.

Short Gloves, 75c, 95c; Long Gloves, $1.15.

Women's Muslin Underwear—Broken Lines at Extensive Reductions.

All handled, soiled or rumpled merchandise in this Section left from a busy season's selling has been reduced to sell during the next three days. Limited quantities of lingerie Petticoats, French and domestic, Princess slips, French Chemise and Night Gowns can be had at extensive savings if selections are made promptly. Fifth Floor.

Blankets and Comforters Reduced.

All odd lots of Blankets, Comforters, Steamer Rugs and Automobile Robes have been set forward for immediate selling at sharp reductions. Many fine imported pieces are included. Third Floor.

CALENDARS of all kinds remaining from the Holiday sale have been reduced to insure selling them this week. First Floor.

Clearance of Glass, China, Lamps, Art Wares and Novelties.

Where assortments are so large as these there are bound to remain many odd pieces and limited assortments after Holiday selling. All such have been assembled and reduced to insure unusually large savings The variety can be only suggested.

Clearance Sale of All Odd Pieces of Fine Furniture.

During the coming month—beginning this morning—we will clear our Floors of all odd pieces from broken suits, and all discontinued patterns. To accomplish our purpose all Furniture of this description has been marked at prices which will insure quick sale and provide unusual opportunity for the selection of fine Furniture at very low prices.

As an example value, special attention is directed to an inexpensive Bedroom Suit, which can be obtained in white enamel, mahogany finish, or golden oak at the following low prices: Dresser, $20.50; Chiffonier, $20.00; Toilet Table, $15.00; Bed (full size), $15.00. Sixth Floor.

The Most Important Sale of Men's Fine Overcoats Ever Held by Us.

Last week Wednesday, Friday and Saturday were three of the largest Overcoat days in our history—due to the remarkable values this sale is affording—and the end of record breaking is not yet in sight

These Coats represent the very highest type of men's ready-to-wear apparel. They are the entire stock of one of the most prominent makers of strictly high grade clothing.

Our supply of Overcoats was unusually low for this time of the year, and when such an opportunity as this presented itself we were in a position to take advantage of it
